PRETORIA IS LEFT TO BRITISH MERCY

Lord Roberts May Now Occupy the Boer Capital.

END OF WAR IS IN SIGHT

President Kruger Leaves Precipitately for Safety.

BOER FORCES SAID TO BE DISSOLVING

London Papers Predict an End to the Struggle—The Probability Is That Guerilla Warfare Will Continue for Some Time.

Pretoria, Wednesday, May 30.—11:40 a. m.—Pretoria will be occupied in about two hours, without resistance. The president has gone to Watervalboven. Burgomaster Desouza is authorized to receive the British. He, with an influential committee of citizens, including Chief Justice Gregorowski, has been appointed to preserve life and property during the interregnum.

Everything is quiet, but crowds are waiting expectantly in Church square for the arrival of the British.

Fearing possible disturbance and bloodshed among the prisoners of war at Waterval, United States Consul Hay and Leighwood insisted upon twenty officers being liberated on parole to go to the men. Their action cannot be too highly praised.

KRUGER AT WATERFALLBOVEN

London Papers Think the Long War Is Near a Close.

London, May 31.—At 2 o'clock this morning the war office had received no news from Lord Roberts which the officials would make public, but it is assumed that the press advices are correct. Most of the London morning papers, through the courtesy of The Daily Mail, print Lord Rosslyn's dispatch, which tells of Roberts's approach, and comment upon it, treating the war as ended. Some of the more cautious critics think that guerrilla warfare is likely to be carried on for some time in various parts of the conquered territories.

All the Boer forces are dissolving, Lord Roberts apparently has not yet taken any considerable quantities of artillery or armor stores. Large bodies of Boers must still be somewhere in the field.

Watervalboven, or Waterfallboven, is 130 miles due east of Pretoria, on the Delagoa Bay railway. It should not be confused with Waterval, ten miles north of Pretoria, where the British prisoners are. Watervalboven is a small place in a mountainous country. The seat of the Boer government—what there is left of it—will probably be Lydenburg, to the north.

Johannesburg Surrenders.

A dispatch from Lourenzo Marques, dated Wednesday, says:

"Commandant Kraus has surrendered Johannesburg to Lord Roberts. By tonight's train from Pretoria arrived a few Greeks, who say they were told to leave Pretoria Tuesday. They affirm that the train in which they left was shelled by the British and that half of the train was cut off, the remainder steaming away. This incident probably occurred at Elandsfontein Junction.

"Passengers from Pretoria assert that the town is utterly demoralized. There is a mad rush for the coast. Five trainloads of fugitives are expected here tonight."

The Lourenzo Marques correspondents think the border trouble between the Transvaal and Portugal may come to a head at any moment. Komati bridge is strongly defended. Yesterday the Portuguese authorities were preparing to resist a possible engagement. A mule battery was sent to the frontier.

Refuge with Portuguese.

The Lourenzo Marques correspondent of The Times says:

"It would not be surprising if a large proportion of the rebel Dutch sought temporary refuge on Portuguese territory. Although the authorities here are reticent, they are not blind to such a possibility."

It is reported that a special train from Pretoria, with fugitives, was derailed on the Transvaal side of Komatipoort, a number of passengers being killed or injured. The British authorities at Buluwayo think the Boers will retire into southern Rhodesia.

By the release of the British prisoners at Waterval a full brigade will be added to the army of Lord Roberts, as there were 117 officers and 4,182 privates among them.

Events everywhere in the field of war seem to dwindle in comparison.

General Hunter re-entered the Transvaal at Maribogopan Tuesday. The advance was made off the railway. Water is scarce and all the farms are deserted. Yesterday General Hunter reached Geysdorp with ten days' supplies.

Maribogopan is half way between Vryburg and Mafeking. Geysdorp is from twelve to fifteen miles east. General Hunter meets with no resistance.

General Baden-Powell is invading further north, without opposition, Commandant Snyman having gone toward Pretoria.

In northern Natal Utrecht has surrendered to General Mildyard and General Lyttleton is moving to Vryheid. Three different correspondents estimate the number of Boers at Laings nek at about 20,000.

Two Australians who escaped from Pretoria on April 28th have arrived at Mafeking, having spent a month on the veldt, with but little food and no blankets. They slept by day and marched by night. They complain bitterly of the treatment at Pretoria.

WAR NOT OVER, SAYS FISCHER.

Boer Commissioner Confident of Kruger's Strength.

Boston, May 30.—"Even if the whole country is taken and the leaders imprisoned, the war will cease only for a time and it will be renewed again and again if need be, until we get our liberty," was the dramatic utterance of M. A. Fischer, one of the Boer envoys, when he was shown the Associated Press bulletin from London announcing the impending surrender of Pretoria.

PRICES ARE OBJECTED TO.

Protest Raised Against Kansas City Rates.

Nashville, Tenn., May 30.—Hon. James M. Head, democratic national committeeman from Tennessee, tonight wrote Chairman Jones requesting a called meeting of the committee.

His avowed purpose is the selection of some other place than Kansas City for the national convention of 1900 and the reason urged is the exorbitant rates quoted by hotels of Kansas City. The best offer the Tennessee delegation has been able to secure is $5 per day each for lodging with the understanding that four days at least be paid for, and $50 per day for a parlor or reception room under the same conditions.

Mr. Head declares the rates out of all reason and that he will use his utmost endeavor toward making a change.

GARY IS FOR LOCAL OPTION.

Carolina Gubernatorial Aspirant Defines Position.

Columbia, S. C., May 30.—(special)—Frank B. Gary, of Abbeville, speaker of the house, will issue a card tomorrow defining his position on the liquor question. As Mr. Gary is considered one of the most formidable candidates for governor, his declaration is important. He takes the half-way course between Governor McSweeney, who advocates dispensary in its entirety, and Colonel Hoyt, the prohibition leader, and his declaration comes as a surprise, as he was supposed to stand with Governor McSweeney.

He says since the recent act of the legislature the benefits of the dispensary, if there are any, and the evils, if there are any, are confined to the county in which the dispensary is situated.

"I therefore favor allowing a county on a petition of one-third its voters to vote on the question, 'Dispensary' or 'No Dispensary.' If a majority are opposed to the dispensary, it should be lawful to establish one in that county. I am opposed to open bars in any form, and believe the dispensary should be run with a view to curtailing liquor drinking, not with a view of making money.

"This is the position I shall advocate throughout the campaign."

At a meeting of the state democratic executive committee tonight an effort was made to interpret the rules of the party to exclude the candidate of a faction from entering the primary. The object was to bar Colonel Hoyt. After vigorous fighting, a substitute was adopted by a vote of 18 to 7 allowing any one to enter the primary who took the oath to abide the result.

GEN. OTIS AT SAN FRANCISCO.

The General Came with Three Cases of Smallpox Near Him.

San Francisco, May 30.—The transport Meade with Major General E. S. Otis arrived last night, twenty-five days from Manila. The Meade had three cases of smallpox aboard. She was placed in quarantine where she will remain an indefinite time. General Otis stated to the quarantine officials that he was in excellent health and wished to land to take a train for the east as soon as possible.

Sparkman Renominated.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 30.—(Special.)—The democratic congressional convention for the first Florida district met in this city at noon today and renominated Hon. Stephen M. Sparkman by acclamation for a fourth term in the lower house of congress. Mr. Sparkman had no opposition.

GEORGIA BENEFITS BY APPROPRIATION

If House Agrees To Increase Hydrographic Estimates.

VALUE OF APPROPRIATION

Southern States Will Get More as Their Share Than Formerly.

SENATOR CLAY DID GOOD WORK

Senator Tillman Will Push the War Claims Held by South Carolina for More Than 100 Years.

By Jos: Ohl.

Washington, May 30.—(Special.)—If the house sustains the action of the senate in increasing the appropriation for the hydrographic division of the geological survey up to $250,000, Georgia and the other southern states will have a good deal more money spent on them than they have in the past.

Mr. B. M. Hall, of Atlanta, who is the chief hydrographer for Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Florida, has been here several days, and incidentally has found occasion to explain to southern members of the senate and house the value of this increase as he sees it. The increase which was put on the sundry civil appropriation bill in the senate will have to be passed upon by the house, but its friends feel that there is good chance of success there. The matter was thoroughly gone into in the senate, and although the committee on appropriations declined to make the increase when the bill was before that body, the senate did put it on by such a decisive vote as seems to warrant the belief that it will stay. Senator Clay was one of the active supporters of the appropriation, making a strong speech for it.

Senator Tillman has received from Governor McSweeney, of South Carolina, exhibit "A" of the black report, which contains an itemized statement of the claims of that state against the government of the United States for moneys expended for military purposes during the revolutionary war.

The senator says that he has not had time to examine the report and statement carefully, and as that class of claims is not now before congress, these matters will be taken up later. The class of claims that he has been urging congress to adjust with the state cover those arising out of the war of 1812 and the Florida war of 1836. The amendment proposed by the committee on appropriations to the sundry civil bill looking to a final adjustment of those claims, being defeated in the senate on a vote on a point of order, seems to have disposed of the matter for this session of congress. Senator Tillman was at the senate library today looking into the matter, and said he did not consider the action of the senate yesterday final, as the sundry civil bill would be considered tomorrow, and he might have something to say on the subject.

CUBAN FRAUD INVESTIGATED.

Senate Committee Begins Consideration of Irregularities.

Washington, May 30.—The senate committee on relations with Cuba today held its first meeting under the resolution directing an investigation into irregularities in Cuba, but took no action beyond the adoption of a number of resolutions calling upon the various departments for information bearing upon the points covered by the senate resolution.

The principal inquiries are to be directed to the secretary of war, but the postmaster general, the secretary of the treasury and the secretary of the navy are also to be requested to throw such light upon the subject as they can.

HOUSE PASSES PENSION BILLS.

Anti-Trust Resolution Was Crowded Over.

Washington, May 30.—The programme of the leaders of the house today contemplated the launching of the debate upon the anti-trust resolution and bill, but there was a strong undercurrent in favor of adjournment on account of decoration day. Mr. Dalzell, who presented the special order under which the house was to operate, in deference to this sentiment, withdrew it in order that the 190 pension bills might be passed and after they had been disposed of as a further mark of respect the house adjourned.

MANY INJURED IN A WRECK.

Chicago Electric Car Derailed with Serious Result.

Chicago, May 30.—The failure of a brake to respond resulted in the derailment of a Chicago, Evanston and Edgewater electric car tonight. Over a dozen passengers were injured.

Those seriously injured were: Mrs. Catherine Curtin, concussion of the brain; Mrs. O. Donaldson, left side bruised; Mrs. Henry A. Moshon, left leg broken and body bruised.

EMPTY SLEEVES AND CRUTCHES CAUSE A YELL

Georgia's Battalion of Maimed Veterans Takes All Louisville by Storm.

ARE HEROES OF REUNION

Incessant Rainfall Let Up When the Southerners Reached the Falls City.

SUN CAME OUT TO WELCOME THEM

Sponsors and Maids of Honor Are Being Shown Every Possible Attention by Kentuckians, Who Know So Well How To Entertain.

By Evelyn Harris.

Louisville, Ky., May 30.—(Special.)—The last of the Georgia veterans reached the city this morning, when the Atlanta battalion of maimed veterans arrived over the Southern, accompanied by the Sons of Veterans and a bevy of sponsors and maids of honor, who are the most beautiful at Louisville.

No delegation of veterans has been accorded such an ovation as that given the maimed veterans. From the depot to their quarters they were cheered by the thousands who thronged the streets and the impression they made equals all expectations. Even the heavens seemed to favor this body of grim old ex-warriors. Just previous to their arrival there was a continuous downpour of rain, lasting three hours and ceasing only a few minutes before the train pulled into the depot. So disagreeable was the weather that the Atlanta fire department drum corps, which had intended to meet them, abandoned that part of the programme. But as the veterans stepped from the train the sun burst forth and to the strains of "Dixie" they marched through the streets, 121 strong, receiving an ovation which was a just tribute to their courage and suffering in the past.

Sponsors and Maids of Honor.

On this train were a number of Atlanta young women, who are sponsors and maids of honor for the veterans and Sons of Veterans. Miss Rosalie Howell, of Atlanta, sponsor of the north Georgia brigade, and Miss Adelaide Howell, her maid of honor; Miss Margaret Newman, sponsor in chief of the United Sons of Veterans, and her maid of honor, Miss Lucy Newman, of Atlanta, together with Miss Edna Miller, are at the Louisville hotel. Among the other Georgia young women here are Misses Flora Davey, of Savannah; Burroughs, of Brunswick; Emma Dunbar, of Augusta, and Isolene Wimberly, of Macon.

A number of Georgia sponsors and maids of honors are here, but have not registered.

The Georgia sponsors and maids of honor are among the most charming and beautiful young women a tLouisville and the delightful manner in which they are being entertained causes their stay to be most pleasant. This afternoon a reception was tendered the sponsors and maids of honor by Briscoe Hindman, who is a candidate for the office of commander-in-chief of the Sons of Veterans. Strong opposition, by the way, against Hindman has developed in the person of Robert E. Lee, of Virginia, a grandson of General Robert E. Lee.

May Be Colquitt Again.

While Walter Colquitt is not a candidate to succeed himself, it now seems altogether likely that he will be called upon to accept a second term. There is a disposition among the Sons to avoid a contest if possible. Virgina, North Carolina and Georgia and states in the trans-Mississippi department will urge the selection of Mr. Colquitt, who has made one of the most popular and efficient commanders of the organization. He can be selected with perfect harmony, it is believed.

A large number of Atlanta boys are here with the Sons of Veterans. Among them are Walter Colquitt, Lawrence Mitchell, Hugh Dorsey, Shepard Bryan, L. D. T. Quinby, F. T. Newell, Will Percy, Lee Langley and a number of others.

Camp Walker and Atlanta camp, 159, reached Louisville this morning at 3:45 o'clock, about eight hours late, over the Western and Atlantic railroad. The veterans were expected at 7 o'clock in the evening, but a delay at Chattanooga caused them to arrive when none of their comrades were present to greet them.

The weather here is not at all in harmony with the spirit displayed by the residents of Louisville. There was a downpour of rain this morning with splotches of sunshine every few minutes. When the veterans went to the auditorium this morning they walked through mud and water. The Atlanta fire department drum corps was given an ovation this morning when it marched to the Georgia

FLOWERS COVER GRAVES OF HEROES

Resting Place of Confederate Dead on Johnson Island Visited.

G. A. R. MEN DO GOOD WORK

Blossoms from the Woods About the Old Prison Gathered.

A TOUCHING TRIBUTE IS PAID

Men Who Wore the Blue Remember Those Against Whom They Fought Years Ago.

Sandusky, O., May 30.—(Special.)—With cheerfulness of action that plainly showed that sectional feeling is gone for ever between the north and south, the members of the Grand Army post of this city today tourneyed to the Confederate cemetery on Johnson's island and covered the graves of their countrymen with bouquets and wreaths of choicest flowers.

An abundance of flowers had been provided to tastefully decorate the graves of the dead southern officers before the start was made, but upon arrival at the island a company of young people started on a tour through the wooded grove and in a short time returned with arm fulls of nature's sweetest gifts, the early spring flowers of this northern climate.

The graves were decorated and the wreaths and huge bouquets spoke eloquently of the brotherly feeling that exists in northern breasts for southern friends. The national flag waves on high over the graves of the departed officers and a beautiful service was rendered under one of the spreading forest trees in the middle of the cemetry. The grass in the cemetery was closely mown and the trees neatly trimmed. The headstones are kept in the best of order. Situated upon a gradual slope overlooking the far reaching water, with forest trees on three sides and the abandoned fort in the rear, the cemetery breathes an air of sacredness that was clearly shown in the faces of those present. Following the profuse decoration of the graves, Rev. E. A. Steiner, of this city, delivered the oration of the day, dwelling upon the beauty of forgiveness. Prayer was offered at the conclusion of the address, during which the concourse of people stood with bowed heads. The day was an ideal northern summer day. In opening his address the orator of the day said:

"Nature is in perfect harmony with us on this occasion, when we have gathered to honor the memory of the brave soldiers, who once were our enemies, and now sleep in this consecrated spot. Over them God has spread his canopy of blue. Their sentinels are these trees which have become one with their sacred dust, flowers gay and fragrant grow where once were their prison walls, the birds sing undisturbed songs of love and peace and the spring wind joins in this noble minstrelsy. This let our day of atonement and those who sleep here, who came from their southern homes, are sleeping their last slumber, not in the soil of strangers, but they are sleeping at home. May the ties that bind us to our southern brethren never be broken and may these flowers be our pledge and our witness."

PLAGUE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Chinaman Found To Have Died with Dread Disease.

San Francisco, May 30.—Dr. Kellogg, who has been examining the corpse of a Chinaman found in a Chinese undertaking establishment, expressed an opinion late last night that the Chinaman had died of the plague.

"I am satisfied it is plague," he said, "and I am confident that animal inoculation and the autopsy will confirm it. One not conversant with the situation in Chinatown cannot appreciate the difficulties that confront the inspectors, but they may be imagined from the fact that we have only discovered the cases after the victim is dead."

LAFAYETTE'S TOMB DECORATED

American Colony in Paris Honors Frenchman's Memory.

Paris, May 30.—About 250 Americans gathered at the Picpus cemetery today at the customary celebration at the grave of General LaFayette. Speeches were delivered by General Horace Porter, the United States ambassador; Colonel Clark E. Carr, and C. LaFayette, the nearest descendant of the great patriot. A number of wreaths from various American societies were laid upon the tomb.

SCOUTING PARTY FINDS REBELS

Important Captures Made in Albano Province.

Manila, May 30.—Lieutenant Jens E. Stedje, of Company L, Forty-seventh volunteers, commanding a scouting party in the southern part of Albay province, had several engagements with the insurgents, in which seventeen of the enemy were killed and twenty-three, including a captain, were captured.

Six explosive bombs and a number of valuable insurgent documents also fell into the hands of the Americans. The scouts burned the town of Yubi, the headquarters of the rebels. Sergeant Brickley was killed during a slight engagement near Higao, province of Albay, yesterday. Scouts of the Thirty-sixth and Thirty-fourth regiments have captured thirty-two rifles and 500 rounds of ammunition in the Pangayin province.

FIVE AMERICANS ARE KILLED.

Troops at San Miguel Surprised by Rebels.

Manila, May 31.—5 a. m.—On Tuesday night the insurgents reached San Miguel, province of Bulacan, Luzon, garrisoned by three companies of the Fifteenth volunteer infantry. They swept through the surprised town, shooting right and left, killing five Americans and wounding seven. Captian Charles D. Roberts and two privates are missing.

DEFENDS HERSELF WITH GUN.

Alabama Woman Shoots Down Man Who Breaks in Her Door.

Eufaula, Ala., May 30.—(Special.)—At Baker Hill, fifteen miles south of here, last night a man called at the house of Joe Jemison, and handed him a note which purported to be from his brother, two miles away, stating that he was very ill, and asking him to come at once. Jemison departed immediately, leaving his wife at home alone.

Not long after Jemison's departure his wife was called to the door by a rap. She met a man she thought was a neighbor, Joe Purswell, who said he desired to see her husband. She informed him that her husband could not be seen until morning, and closing the door, was returning to her room when she heard a noise. Turning, she saw the door broken open.

She immediately seized a shotgun and emptied the contents of one barrel at the intruder, who fell heavily, but soon arose and fled. The fleeing man was followed to his home, half a mile away, when it was found to be Edward Searcy, a well-known young married man who lives in the village. The contents of the gun had penetrated one eye and torn away three inches of his skull. Physicians say death is certain. He has confessed everything, and his object is said to have been for an assault.

LULL IN ST. LOUIS STRIKE.

Only One Casualty Added Yesterday to the List.

St. Louis, May 30.—All the pent up energy of the striking employees of the St. Louis Transit Company and their sympathizers seems to have been expended, for yesterday's violent demonstrations and scenes of bloodshed were followed today by a pronounced lull.

Up to a late hour tonight only one name had been added to the long casualty list, that of Anton Chalupsky, who was shot in the legs by a policeman. Calupsky and his wife were standing at the corner of 12th and Emmet streets during the passage of a small sized demonstration nearby and Policeman Himels told them to move on. Calupsky thought he had a right to remain if he pleased, and so informed the officer. A second order was given and when Calupsky refused, the officer used his baton. Chalupsky and his wife then assailed the officer with a shower of bricks and the policeman drew his revolver and fired twice at Chalupsky, wounding him in each leg.

THE RUSSIANS ARE EXCLUDED.

Rescue Party Finds Belgians Safe at Peking.

Tien Tsin, Thursday, May 31.—The Chinese refuse to allow Russian troops to pass the Taku forts.

The rescue party of Frenchmen and Germans returned from Hsin Tien this afternoon. They confirm the report that besieged Belgians are now safe at Peking. They found several thousand "boxers" about the ruins of Lu Kow Chiao and Chang Hsin Tien stations. The bridges have been damaged and rolling stock destroyed. At both places the damage done is considerably greater than at Fang Tai. The members of the rescue party saw several bodies of Chinese tearing up the sleepers and in one case a mandarin was looking on. They further report that the missionaries and others escaped from Pao Ting in boats.

ONE MONUMENT TO ALL HEROES OF 60'S

Memorial to Blue and Gray Is Dedicated at Antietam.

MR. McKINLEY SPEAKS

Monument Presented to Federal Government by Maryland.

SECRETARY ROOT ACCEPTS GIFT

Hundreds of Confederate and Federal Veterans Faced the President. Chief Executive's Address Was a Notable One.

Hagerstown, Md., May 30.—Another link in the chain which binds together the once warring factions of the north and south was forged today by the dedication of a monument erected to the memory of the men who wore the gray as well as those who wore the blue, and who died in mortal combat on the bloody field of Antietam.

This event, which is possibly without a parallel in the history of the world, was graced by the presence of the president of the United States, accompanied by many members of his cabinet; a score or more of United States senators, as many members of the house, the governor of Maryland and prominent men of the states.

There were present hundreds of veterans who fought for the "lost cause," and thousands who fought for the side that proved victorious. Side by side they stood with uncovered heads throughout the ceremony conveying the monument from the state to the national government. A great crowd of others aided by their presence the impressiveness of the ceremonies.

President Arrives at Noon.

The train which brought the president, the members of his cabinet and the congressional party from Washington reached the battle field at noon, where they were welcomed by Governor John Walter Smith, of Maryland, and staff, Adjutant General Saunders, a delegation of the directors of the Maryland national guard and several posts of the Grand Army of the Republic from the division of Maryland, together with members of Hebert camp of Confederate Vetefans, several camps of Sons of Veterans of both armies, and survivors of Brockenbrough's Maryland artillery, which fought with confederate troops and distinguished itself at Antietam.

Besides these organized bodies were scores of confederate veterans who had taken part in the various battles of the civil war. These were drawn up in line to greet the president, who, together with Governor Smith, watched them as they passed in review.

The dedicatory ceremonies were opened by Colonel Benjamin F. Taylor, who introduced General Henry Kiddo, director of the ceremonies. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Clarkson, who was followed by Governor John Walter Smith in an address of welcome.

Monument Is Presented.

Colonel Taylor, as president of the Antietam Battlefield Commission of Maryland, then presented the monument to the national government and Elihu Root, secretary of war, in a brief address accepted it on behalf of the United States.

Then followed short addresses, mainly of a reminiscent character, by Generals John B. Brooke, James Longstreet, Orlando B. Wilcox, J. E. Duryea, Senators Foraker, Burrows and Daniel and others who were prominent on the opposing sides in the great struggle. These were followed in turn by Representative George B. McClellan, of New York, and other members of both houses of congress.

The band played "Hail to the Chief" and General Douglas introduced President McKinley, who delivered the address of the day. The president said:

McKinley's Address.

"My Chairman and My Fellow Citizens—I appear only for a moment that I may make acknowledgment for your courteous greeting and express in a single word my sincere approval of this occasion for which we have assembled today.

"In this presence and on this memorable field I am glad to meet the followers of Lee, Jackson, Longstreet and Johnston with the followers of Grant and McClelland and Sherman and Sheridan, greeting each other not with arms in their hands or malice in their souls, but with affection and respect for each other in their hearts. (Applause.) Standing here today one reflection only has crowned my mind—the difference between the sections and that of thirty-eight years ago. Then the men who wore the blue and the men who wore the gray greeted each other with shot and shell and visited death upon their respective ranks. We meet, after all these intervening years with but one sentiment—that of loyalty to the government of the United States, love for our flag and free institutions, and determined men of the north and men of the south to make any sacrifice for the honor and perpetuity of the American nation. (Great Applause.)

Sentiments of Fraternity.

"My fellow citizens, I am glad, also, of the famous meeting between Grant and Lee at Appomattox. I am glad we were kept together, aren't you?" (cries of 'yes, yes')—"glad that the union was saved by the honorable terms made between Grant and Lee, under the famous apple tree, and there is one glorious fact that must be always gratifying to us—the American soldiers never surrendered but to Americans. (Applause.)

"I account it great honor to participate

ORANGE FREE STATE IS NOW A BRITISH COLONY

Bloemfontein, Monday, May 28.—Amid salutes and cheers and the singing of "God Save the Queen," the military governor, Major General George Prettyman, at noon formally proclaimed the annexation of the Free State under the designation of the Orange River Colony. The ceremony was somewhat imposing and the scene in the market square inspiring. An immense concourse had gathered and the town was gay with bunting. The balconies and windows surrounding the square were crowded with ladies.

The troops were drawn up under command of General Knox and entertained the spectators. Accompanied by General Kelly-Kenny and staffs and escorted by the Welsh yeomanry, they were greeted with cheers, and in a clear voice, heard in every square, General Prettyman read Lord Roberts's proclamation annexing the Orange Free State, as conquered by her majesty's forces, to the queen's dominions, and proclaiming that the state shall henceforth be known as the Orange River colony.

Lusty cheers greeted the concluding words of the proclamation, and these were renewed with ever increasing volume as Lord Acheson unfurled the royal standard and the bands struck up "God Save the Queen."

CHRISTIAN FAMILIES ARE MASSACRED BY "BOXERS"

Peking, Tuesday, May 29.—From all parts of the surrounding country news is constantly arriving of fresh atrocities committed by the boxers. Three Christian families were massacred at Shan Li Ying, sixty miles from Peking, Friday, May 25. Only two escaped.

A representative of the Associated Press visited Fang Tai this morning and found the place occupied by a battalion of troops. The whole railroad station, workshops and locomotive sheds were gutted and much rolling stock was destroyed, including the imperial palace car. Large go-downs (Chinese warehouses), full of valuable merchandise, were burned after having been looted by the rioters. The damage is estimated at half a million taels.

The neighboring villagers seem to have joined in the attack, showing that the movement is not confined to the boxers. Eight rioters who were captured will be decapitated.

Riding through the south gate of Peking, the correspondent found the road inside the walls lined by troops, who greeted the traveler and his party with a fusillade of stones. The whole country is much excited.

on this occasion with the great state of Maryland in its tribute to the valor and heroism and the sacrifices of the confederate and union armies. The valor of the one or the other, the valor of both, is the common heritage of us all. And my countrymen, the achievements of the war, every one of them, are just as much the inheritance of those who failed as those who prevailed, and when we went to war two years ago the men of the south and the men of the north vied with each other to show their devotion to the United States. (Applause.) The followers of the confederate generals with the followers of the federal generals fought side by side in Cuba, in Porto Rico and in the Philippines, and in those far-off islands are standing together today fighting and dying for the flag they love, the flag that represents more than any other banner in the world, the best hopes and aspirations of mankind." (Great and long continued applause.)

The monument is of granite and brone, octagonal, 22 feet in diameter at base and 35 feet high to the top of the statue. It commemorates the second, third, fourth, fifth and Purnell legion regiments of the infantry and batteries A and B, First Maryland, Union artillery, and Brockenbrough's and Dement's batteries of confederate artillery. The monument cost $12,000.

DAY OBSERVED AT VICKSBURG.

Fully 16,000 Graves Covered with Flowers.

Vicksburg, Miss., May 30.—Memorial Day was observed here with the customary success. The graves of the 16,000 federal dead in the national cemetery were strewn with flowers, the local camp of confederate veterans participating.

A great crowd of negroes from the surrounding country camped all day in the cemetery, turning the place into a vast picnic ground. A number of fights occurred, but no one was seriously hurt.

UNION GRAVES DECORATED.

Federal Dead in the City of Mexico Honored.

City of Mexico, May 30.—Decoration Day was duly celebrated here by the local Grand Army post, which decorated the graves of the American soldiers who died or were killed in the war of the North American invasion and are buried in the American cemetery, the property of the United States government, where also are the graves of several members of the federal and confederate armies of the civil war, who came to this country in later years.

TURKISH ADMIRAL PLEASED.

Ahmed Pasha Impressed with American Ship Works.

Washington, May 30.—Ahmed Pasha, the Turkish vice admiral now in this country, has returned to Washington from a visit to Cramp's shipyards at Philadelphia. The admiral has been making flying visits since his arrival at New York to the various naval equipment works in this part of the country. He expresses himself as greatly impressed by the facilities in this country for building and fitting out war vessels, and says in this respect the United States has no superior in the world, if indeed, it has an equal. The end of Ahmed Pasha's stay in this country is probably near at hand.

FORTY-FOUR NEW COMPRESSES.

Round Bale Cotton Will Be Turned Out in Alabama.

Huntsville, Ala., May 30.—(Special.)—T. W. Pratt, Alabama agent for the American Cotton Company, has contracted for the erection of forty-four round bale cotton compresses and ginneries in Alabama during the approaching season. Of these thirty-five will be put up in Alabama south of Montgomery. In northern Alabama new compresses and gins will be established at New Hope, Madison county; Athens, Limestone county; Leighton, Colbert county; Oneonta, Blount county; Guntersville, Marshall county; Oxford, Calhoun county; Talladega, Childersburg and Sylacauga, in Tallageda county. The success of the plants already in operation was phenomenal last season and the new plants contemplated will double the number operated by the company in this state.

Fitzgerald Went to Andersonville.

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Decoration Day was fittingly observed in this city. A large excursion left for Andersonville today to participate in the exercises at that point. The two Grand Army of the Republic posts, the Fitzgerald Guards and the Woman's Relief Corps took part in the exercises here. The parade was reviewed by a large number of persons.

Negroes Crowd Marietta.

Marietta, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The decoration exercises at the federal cemetery took place today, the address of the occasion being delivered by Rev. W. H. McLaughlin, of Atlanta. The town has been crowded with people; and especially so with negroes. They seem to claim the day as theirs, and the streets and park were literally filled with them. They have been quiet and no trouble occurred.

THE CROWN OF LOVE.

What does love mean and how much happiness does it bring to the average woman? To be a sweetheart, a wife, a mother—this is called the crown of womanhood; yet there are crowns which bring only misery and pain to the wearers.

Can any woman who suffers with constant dragging, wearying, life-sapping ailments be happy? Does not her crown of womanhood become a symbol of martyrdom rather than of happiness?

If ailing women realized how surely Dr. Pierce's wonderful "Favorite Prescription" would restore them to complete health and the perfection of queenliness, there would be more coronets of joy set upon brows now crowned with misery.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 828 East College St., Jacksonville, Ill. "For three years I suffered continually. Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none, until induced by kind friends to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I commenced taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds. After taking 'Favorite Prescription' I was built up until now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before.

"I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pains in the lower part of my bowels, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work and am a strong and healthy woman. Thanks to your medicine. I never forget to recommend it to all suffering women. I consider myself a living testimonial of the benefits of your 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Any woman may write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the utmost confidence. He will give her case careful consideration and send her a letter of common-sense, professional advice free of charge.

If your head aches, the trouble is pretty sure to be constipation. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will cure you.

COMMITTEES TO WORK TOGETHER

Conference of Democrats at Washington Yesterday.

HEARST ISSUES A CARD

Chairman of Democratic Clubs Asks for Special Celebration.

JONES AND RICHARDSON CONFER

The Proposition Is for the Fourth of July To Be Celebrated with Particular Reference to the Declaration of Independence.

Washington, May 30.—Mr. William R. Hearst, president of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, had a formal conference with the principal democratic leaders in Washington at the Metropolitan hotel today regarding the plan of campaign to be followed in the approaching presidential struggle.

Senator Jones, chairman of the democratic national committee; Representative Richardson, democratic leader in the house, and chairman of the congressional committee, Judge Chauncey F. Black; Representative Slayden and others were present.

It was agreed that the democratic national committee, the Association of Democratic Clubs and the democratic congressional campaign committee should work in harmony. At the close of the conference President Hearst issued the following:

Special Celebration Proposed.

To the Democratic Clubs and Societies of the United States: Recent events in the history of the United States point to the approaching anniversary of the birthday of the nation as a day that should be celebrated with special favor this year. There are those in the nation who seek to create the impression that the American people have outgrown their love for the just principles of government expressed in the declaration of independence and are ready to surrender their moral leadership among nations in order to gratify a newly-born instinct for imperial power, founded on a colonial system. All the democratic clubs and societies are earnestly requested to assemble on the 4th of July and all patriotic citizens, regardless of past party affiliations, are urged to join with them in a new pledge of fidelity to the republic as the fathers made it. Let the people of the United States unite in their various cities, towns and villages in a demonstration of the confidence they feel in the form of government under which the nation has grown to its present greatness. The danger which threatens the country is real and imminent. It seems appropriate, therefore, that citizens who believe that the declaration of independence is not merely an academic document, should meet together on this day and give voice to the national sentiment that all men are created free and equal and that there must be no subject colonies under the American flag.

W. R. HEARST,
President of National Association of Democratic Clubs.

POPULISTS PUT OUT A TICKET.

The Alabama Middle-of-the-Roaders Nominate a Preacher.

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—The populist state convention, which met in this city May 22d and adjourned without final action, reassembled today and nominated a full state ticket, headed by Rev. Samuel M. Adams, chairman of the state executive committee and probate judge of Chilton county.

The platform declares against the holding of a constitutional convention, indorses the administration of Governor Johnston and adopts as the leading issue of the campaign the dispensary issue, which is unquestionably indorsed.

The nomination of Barker and Donnelly by the convention was also indorsed.

Less than fifty delegates, representing less than one-fifth of the counties of the state, were present and a strong opposition to the nomination of a state ticket developed, which was, however, voted down by a narrow majority.

The ticket is as follows:

Governor, Samuel M. Adams, of Chilton; secretary of state, T. W. Powell, of Pullman; auditor, M. W. Whatley, of Clay; attorney, General Leroy Watson, of St. Clair; treasurer, A. G. Dake, of Chilton; commissioner of agriculture, M. Askew, of Elmore; superintendent of education, J. H. Porter, of Coosa.

REGISTER READY FOR VISITORS

Law Class of 1896 Will Have a Reunion at Athens.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—In view of the large number of alumni expected to be in Athens during the approaching university commencement, Chancellor Hill will place in his office on the campus a register upon which visiting graduates will be expected to place their names. The law class of 1896 will hold a reunion in this city June 19th. President J. D. Boyd, of Griffin, has officially called a meeting for that time.

Reduced rates of one and one-third fare round trip to university commencement on the certificate plan have been secured on all railroads. Visitors will take certificates and present them when they reach Athens to Professor W. D. Hooper, secretary of the faculty.

Will Give Picnic.

The Tabernacle Baptist Sunday school will have the annual picnic at Pearl Springs Tuesday, June 5th. A special train of seven cars will leave the union depot at 7:30 o'clock in the morning for the picnic grounds. Plenty of fishing, boating, swings, etc., free to all who go. Special provision will be made for servants.

PORTRAITS OF HEROES UNVEILED

Fourteen Works of Art Presented to the South.

THE INTERESTING EXERCISES

Portraits Presented by Ex-Governor Underwood, of Kentucky.

LEE, JACKSON AND SEMMES PORTRAYED

Exercises at Louisville Last Night Were Among the Most Beautiful of the Entire Reunion.

Louisville, Ky., May 30.—Governor John C. Underwood, of Bowling Green, Ky., tonight at reunion hall, unveiled and presented to the south fourteen life size portraits of military, naval and civil leaders of the confederacy.

General Underwood had these portraits painted by E. F. Andrews, director of the Corcoran Art Gallery School of Art, Washington.

He chose this artist because Professor Andrews painted the portraits of Martha Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and Dolly Madison, that hang in the white house. The fourteen portraits, which are insured for $30,000, will be returned to the Corcoran Art Gallery after the reunion is over, to remain until the confederate memorial building is finished at Richmond, Va. One thousand people were present to view the exercises notwithstanding the rainy weather.

Semmes as He Stood on Deck.

The portrait of Admiral Semmes was unveiled by Miss Georgia Beckley, a niece of the admiral. He is represented standing on the deck of the Alabama just before the fight with the Kearsarge.

General Wade Hampton's portrait was unveiled by Miss Elizabeth de Hart Smith, a daughter of Colonel Calhoun Smith. General Hampton wears the tortoise shell sword scabbard captured by his grandfather from Colonel Tarleton during the revolutionary war.

Miss Ethel Humphrey, cousin of General Thomas Churchill, unveiled the portrait of General James Longstreet. It has been accepted by General Longstreet and Mrs. Longstreet as an accurate likeness.

"Stonewall" Jackson's portrait was unveiled by Miss Annie May Woolsridge, granddaughter of Colonel Charles F. Johnson of the staff of General Buckner. Mrs. Jackson sent to the artist some of her husband's hair for the sake of accuracy. The cap which General Jackson holds in his hand was worn by him at college in Virginia and also during the war.

Portrait of Lee Unveiled.

Miss Ida Edwards, granddaughter of Rev. E. T. Perkins, chaplain at large for Lee's army, unveiled the portrait of General Robert E. Lee. The portrait was made from a photograph taken in Richmond about the middle of the war. The sword General Lee wears was borrowed for the occasion from General A. P. Hill.

General Albert Sydney Johnston's portrait was unveiled by Miss Louise Taylor, granddaughter of General Thomas Hart Taylor.

Joseph E. Johnston's portrait was unveiled by Miss Elizabeth Reynolds, a granddaughter of Eli M. Bruce, a member of the confederate states congress. This portrait is an especially good one because the artist was personally acquainted with General Johnston.

The portrait of General Leonidas Polk, which was unveiled by Miss Ethel Roberts, granddaughter of Dr. Yandell, medical director of the west, shows the soldier-priest in his church robes. In his left hand he holds a Bible and his right hand rests upon a chair upon which are a sword and the uniform of a major general.

Miss Margaret Weissinger, daughter of Captain Harry Weissinger, unveiled the portrait of General Stephen D. Lee. General Lee is shown leaning on a cannon, he having started in the service of the confederacy as a captain of artillery.

Miss Francis Breckinridge Steele, of Kentucky, unveiled the portrait of her grandfather, General John C. Breckinridge. General Breckinridge is shown seated in the office of the war department receiving his commission.

Likeness of Harris.

The portrait of Isham G. Harris, war governor of Tennessee, which so far is the only portrait in the collection of a man from civil life, was unveiled by Miss Alice Underwood Montford, of Nashville, a niece of Governor Underwood. Governor Harris is shown standing at his desk in the capitol of Tennessee. Miss Roberta Buchanan, niece of the late Colonel R. H. Thompson, unveiled the picture of General Nathan B. Forrest. General Forrest is shown in the uniform of a lieutenant colonel of cavalry as he made his escape through the lines around Fort Donelson. Miss Francis K. Duke, daughter of General Basil Duke and niece of General John H. Morgan, unveiled General Morgan's portrait. General Morgan stands by the side of his horse in the snow. The portrait of General John B. Gordon was unveiled by Miss Jessie Norton, daughter of Captain George C. Norton, of Georgia.

The state societies of the Ladies' Confederate Memorial Association today formed the Confederate Southern Memorial Association. The state societies represented were from Virginia, Louisiana and Arkansas. The officers elected were:

President, Mrs. W. J. Behan, New Orleans; first vice president, Mrs. L. Graham, New Orleans; recording secretary, Miss Daisy M. L. Hodgson, New Orleans; corresponding secretary, Mrs Julia A. Garside, of Fayetteville, Ark.

Marshall's Case Continued.

Raleigh, N. C., May 30.—(Special.)—Judge Purnell, today in the United States district court here, continued until next December term the case of A. J. Marshall, the Wilmington lawyer charged with counterfeiting.

SEABOARD MAKES OPENING AN EVENT

Inauguration of the Richmond-Tampa Line Attracts Attention.

OFFICERS ARE ON THE ROAD

Historic Opening of Queen and Crescent Laid in the Shade.

BANQUETS AND FEASTS IN NUMBER

Seaboard Air-Line Owners Are Now Moving Over the Route in a Special Train.

By Frank Weldon.

Columbia, S. C., May 30.—(Special.)—The greater Seaboard is opening its new Richmond-Tampa line in a style which surpasses anything ever seen in these parts. Even the historic opening of the Queen and Crescent years ago is overshadowed by the elaborate and sumptuous manner with which the Seaboard Air-Line is celebrating the practical completion and consolidation of its physical properties.

Prior to the war the greatest event of this character was the cleebration which marked the opening of a continuous rail line from Savannah to Memphis. That was the occasion when President Gordon, of the Central, carried a large party of Georgians, including a company of Savannah firemen, to Memphis and pumped Savannah river water into the Mississippi, in that manner verifying the ironical prediction of a Georgia legislator who, opposing the granting of a charter to the Central, had declared that when cars propelled by steam succeeded in climbing the intervening mountains the water of the Savannah would flow into the Mississippi.

This celebration is a promise of vigorous competition between the Seaboard Air-Line, Southern and Atlantic Coast line for the Florida and West Indes business. In building the two links between Richmond and Ridgeway and Cheraw and Columbia, the Seaboard has obtained a line forty-three miles shorter than the Coast line between Washington and Jacksonville and seventy-two miles shorter than the Southern's present route between the two points.

The officers and guests of the Seaboard left Richmond this morning in two luxurious special trains, made up of Pullman sleepers, diners and private cars. A rattling good brass band composed of Seaboard employees from the Richmond shops, accompanied us and at every stop serenaded the people who assembled to welcome the special party. At one place the band leader stopped in the middle of a piece to pack a hot box and finishing that, picked up his baton and went on with the music. At Henderson, N. C., both the chamber of commerce and the board of town commissioners presented President Williams and Vice President St. John with resolutions congratulating them on the completion of the Tampa line, complimenting them on their ability as financiers and railway managers, and thanking them for past courtesies and aid to the town. At Camden a group of ladies appeared and cheered for the Seaboard. The dining car feature, which is supplied by the Pullman company, lays the Waldorf-Astoria in the shade.

Among those in the party was John Skelton Williams, president; J. W. Middendorf, chairman of reorganization committee; E. St. John, vice president; V. E. McBee, general superintendent; ex-President Hoffman, of the Seaboard; Judge Watts, general counsel; Postmaster Warfield, Baltimore; J. H. Hume Smith, president Baltimore chamber of commerce; T. W. Leary, general manager Southern Express; John S. Ellett, president State Bank, Richmond, Va.; D. L. Toney, member Virginia general assembly; Major Sol Cutchins, W. O. Nolting, George Wayne Anderson, W. H. Allison, W. E. Cotshaw, E. J. Waring, S. W. Travers, Richmond; George W. Watts, Durham; August Kohn, Charleston News and Courier; J. S. Bryan, Richmond Times; F. C. Gilreath, Atlanta Journal; A. K. Darby, Baltimore News; S. A. Kilpatrick, Philadelphia Press; R. W. Jennings, Philadelphia Times; F. D. Bright, World; C. C. Latus, Reading, Pa., Eagle; H. A. Maurice, mayor Manchester, Va.; John B. Purcell, Richmond; J. B. Tree, superintendent Western Union Telegraph Company; W. H. Allison, Richmond; W. E. Harris, Richmond Dispatch; W. J. Crosswell, superintendent Southern Express Company; E. Donaldson, superintendent Pullman Company; W. E. Flournoy, secretary to Vice President St. John; J. P. Calvert, Western Union; Editor Avery, Charlotte Observer; Colonel Feddles, Raleigh; Joe Boatton, Baltimore American. The party will spend tomorrow morning at Tampa; banquet tonight at Jacksonville; lunch Friday at Savannah; Friday night at Columbia; breakfast at Raleigh; banquet Saturday night at Richmond.

Negro Killed at a Dance.

Quitman, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—At a dance and a festival in a vacant house about a mile below town last night John Chapman was shot and instantly killed by another negro, whose name could not be learned. A row started between the men in which a large portion of the crowd took sides with Chapman's slayer and two negroes had hold of Chapman when he was shot. The ball entered the center of the chest, and produced instant death.

Demurrer Was Dismissed.

In the United States district court yesterday Judge Newman overruled the demurrer in the case of the Chattanooga National bank vs. the Rome Iron Company. The case is one involving a considerable sum of money and the lengthy opinion of the court contained some interesting interpretations of the federal bankruptcy law.

Its Second Mistrial.

Gainesville, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—The case of D. B. Eskew et al. vs. Mrs. Jane Crump, proceedings to abate a nuisance to remove the mill dam known as Crump's mill, in this county, which was on trial for three days past before Judge T. J. Crow, ordinary, and a jury. It occupied two days in its trial and resulted in a mistrial. This is the second mistrial in the case. It will be tried again on the 12th of July.

YACHTS WILL RACE AT THUNDERBOLT

South Carolina Wants a Cup Now Held by Georgia.

RACE COURSE IS SELECTED

Boat from Charleston Is Now on Its Way to Savannah.

BRUNSWICK MAY SHOW A HAND

Seamen Who Can Enjoy the Sport Will Have a Spin Near Savannah.

Savannah, May 30.—(Special.)—Intense interest is manifested here, at Charleston and in Brunswick over the coming interstate yacht races which will be sailed over the Savannah Yacht Club's course at Thunderbolt June 7th, 8th and 9th; prize for which is the possession for a year of a silver loving cup now in possession of the Savannah Yacht Club.

The new Charleston yacht, Maris, bought for the purpose, if possible, of winning back the trophy, left that city this afternoon for Savannah, and is expected here tomorrow night. She will then be put in thorough shape for a few trial spins over the course to be sailed in the contests. The Charleston yacht had a number of accidents a short time ago, among other things having snapped her hollow metal mast. She has substituted a solid stick, and Captain Porcher and his crew now have her in good shape and are more confident than ever of lifting the interstate cup.

The Dragoon is the Savannah yacht which last year won the trophy from Charleston. This makes the second year Savannah has held the cup, having won the first time with a Charleston yacht which was loaned to the Savannah yachtsmen for the occasion. Then the Dragoon was bought and it licked everything Charleston had, the races having been sailed last June in Charleston waters. This forced Charleston to get new material and the purchase of the Maris was the result.

Brunswick To Be Heard From.

But it may be that the Charleston Yachtsmen will not have the pleasure this year of contesting with the Dragoon. There is a new Brunswick yacht, the Monsoon, owned by F. D. M. Strachan, a member of the Savannah Yacht Club though a resident of Brunswick, and it may be the Monsoon instead of the Dragoon that will defend the cup.

There will be a test of going qualities between the Dragoon and the Monsoon within a few days in order to determine which of these yachts shall have the honor of representing Savannah in the coming races. Brunswick people are deeply interested in the Monsoon and they hope she will be the lucky yacht. Mr. Strachan is a good sailor and his boat will no doubt show fine sailing qualities.

Charleston is coming over to Savannah enmasse next week to see these races. Advices from the "city by the sea" say that the entire membership of the Carolina Yacht Club will be here, in addition to which several hundred other Charlestonians will come in all sorts of craft as well as by rail. Brunswick, too, will send a large delegation, and the course over which the yachts are to sail will be covered with craft crowded with passengers. Never has so much interest been manifested in an interstate race, and it safe to say much diligence will be required to keep the excursion boats out of the way of the racing yachts.

HARD FIGHT WITH PRISONER

Lively Experience of a Policeman with a Strong Negro.

FOUGHT ON WHITEHALL STREET

Negro Had Been Cursing Ladies Who Passed Him and the Fight with the Officer Followed.

A terrific hand-to-hand fight took place last night on Whitehall street, near McDaniel, between Jim King, a notorious negro, and Bicycle Officer Covington. The officer carries a bruised and swollen nose and a dislocated finger joint as a result of the fight, while the negro shows where his head came in contact with a billy.

King stood on Whitehall street last night and for one hour cursed everybody who passed him. Ladies came along from church and he accosted them with oaths and the foulest words he could use.

The whole neighborhood near the corner of Whitehall and McDaniel streets became alarmed and a telephone message was sent to the police barracks for an officer.

The call officer met Bicycle Officers Covington and Chandler and he let them take charge of the negro.

Officer Covington took hold of King and started down Whitehall street with him, leading his bicycle, while Officer Chandler rode ahead to send in a call for a patrol wagon.

When midway between McDaniel and Humphries streets, the negro stopped and said to Officer Covington:

"I am a better man than you are and I'll either get away or kill you."

Officer Covington did not think at first the negro was in earnest.

King wheeled and struck the policeman a hard blow in the face. The officer drew his billy and the fight began. The negro is a powerful man physically and being half drunk he fought with desperation. The policeman used his billy as fast as he could, but it seemed to have little effect. The negro and officer fought over sidewalk and street for several minutes.

Officer Chandler waited for his partner with the prisoner, and not seeing him coming, he rode back and was in time to take part in the fight.

It was about all the two officers could do to subdue the negro and handcuff him.

King was locked up at the police barracks. He said he believed a man had a right to protect himself and if an officer was not a better man than a prisoner he had no business to try to make an arrest.

"It was about the roughest time I ever had," said officer Covington, "and I never had such a desperate prisoner to deal with before in my life."

King will be tried in the police court this afternoon for cursing ladies on the streets and for fighting the officer.

Plaintiff May Recover.

An order was taken in the case of Lille S. Johnson et al. against Harry Sharp, executor of Mrs. Nettie E. Sterling, in the superior court yesterday. The plaintiff may recover of the defendant the sum of $1,500, with interest from July 4, 1900.

JUDGE W. H. BRANNON DEAD

Prominent Columbus Man Expired in Atlanta Yesterday.

CAME HERE FOR TREATMENT

Body Was Taken to Columbus Yesterday Afternoon Where Funeral Service Will Occur.

Judge William H. Brannon, of Columbus, one of the most prominent citizens of his section of the state, died yesterday morning after a protracted illness. His death occurred at the sanitarium of Dr. U. O. Robertson, on Capitol avenue, where he had been taken for treatment, although it was announced several months ago by his physicians that he was suffering from a chronic and incurable ailment.

At the time of his death his brother, A. M. Brannon, and his niece, Mrs. Robert Carson, both of Columbus, were with him. His body was taken to Columbus yesterday afternoon at 4:20 o'clock and there the funeral service will be conducted.

Judge Brannon was one of the best known men in his section and was one of the most influential capitalists in the state.

Judge Brannon was sixty-three years of age. He was born in Harris county. For many years he was a prominent citizen there, having been actively connected with a number of that city's leading institutions. He was president of the Merchants and Mechanics' bank, president of the Columbus Fertilizer Company, vice president of the Muscogee Ice Company, treasurer of the Columbus Iron works, president of the City Ice works, of Augusta, and interested as a director and stockholder in a number of other enterprises. He had been president of the Merchants and Mechanics' Bank from April 22, 1878. Judge Brannon was a member of the law firm of Brannon & Hatcher, one of the foremost law firms of Columbus. A few years ago he was a member of the well known law firm of Peabody, Brannon, Hatcher & Martin.

Judge Brannon was mayor of Columbus in 1877 and was alderman for quite a number of years. He was actively connected with the volunteer fire department, of which he was chief for a few years. Among other business enterprises he was in the warehouse business a few years ago with B. T. Hatcher.

Judge Brannon was one of the most prominent and successful financiers of Columbus. He was a man of many fine traits of character and held in high esteem by his friends. He was very modest, but with it was very charitable. He was always a friend to the young man, and many struggling young business men have been helped over hard places, and encouraged and sustained by good advice from him.

The deceased is survived by three brothers, Judge S. M. Brannon, of Ridgeway, Ga.; J. M. Brannon, of Seale, and A. M. Brannon, who is a prominent druggist of Columbus.

The body reached Columbus last night and the funeral will be conducted there today.

RHEINBERGER IS ON TRIAL

Young Man Is Charged with Cutting J. A. Boykin.

THE TRIAL BEGAN YESTERDAY

Number of Witnesses Were Put on the Stand and Considerable Testimony Brought Out.

Before Judge E. J. Reagan, in the criminal branch of the superior court yesterday, Will Rheinberger, a young white man, was placed on trial charged with assault with intent to murder. The prosecutor in the case is J. A. Boyskin, another young man, who charged that Rheinberger last month struck at him with a knife, and succeeded in cutting him on the chin.

The difficulty is said to have occurred on the bridge over the Chattahoochee river, at Iceville, one Sunday. Boyskin says that Rheinberger insulted a young lady that he was escorting across the bridge, and that when he offered to resent the alleged insult, Rheinberger assaulted him with a knife.

A number of witnesses were introduced, and there was considerable conflicting testimony brought out during the partial trial yesterday. Some of the witnesses stated that the difficulty occurred on the Cobb county end of the bridge, while others testified that it took place in Fulton county. It was brought out during the trial that the young lady had taken a small revolver from her lunch basket, and had attempted to shoot either Rheinberger or a young man by the name of Day, who was with him at the time.

The defense attempted to show by witnesses that Rheinberger was not the man who had insulted the young lady, and that the fight occurred in Cobb county.

At 6:30 o'clock the state and defense announced closed, and as it was thought the argument would consume fully two hours, the court concluded to adjourn until 8:30 o'clock this morning. The jury was allowed to disperse, with the usual caution about talking about the case or allowing others to talk about it in their presence.

It is expected that the case will be in the hands of the jury about 10 o'clock this morning.

CHRISTY O'BYRNE IS KILLED

Shot While Acting as Peacemaker in a Quarrel.

O'BYRNE WAS AN ATLANTA MAN

The Killing Occurred at Warwoman Creek, Near Tallulah Falls, Several Days Ago.

Christy O'Byrne, a well-known Atlanta man, was shot last Sunday at Warwoman creek, twelve miles from Tallulah Falls, receiving wounds from which he died Tuesday. His body was taken to Clayton, Ga., and is there now awaiting directions from relatives as to disposition.

The killing was done by "Chub" Wall, a well-known character in Rabun county, who is now in jail at Clayton, awaiting a preliminary hearing.

Christy O'Byrne met his death while trying to act as peacemaker between Wall and Sam Beck, a boy of the neighborhood of Warwoman creek. Wall, it is said, was beating Beck on the head with a stick, O'Byrne endeavored to stop Wall, and the latter asked what O'Byrne had to do with the matter.

O'Byrne replied that he did not want to see a boy beaten without cause. Wall is said to have at once opened fire upon the Atlanta man, two balls taking effect, one in his leg and the other in his body. The wound in the body proved to be mortal and O'Byrne died from the effects of it Wednesday morning. Christy O'Byrne had only two relatives in Atlanta. James O'Byrne, a brother, and Mrs. P. R. Johnson, a sister. His mother is still living in Ireland.

James O'Byrne, who resides at 100 Connally street, yesterday morning received the following telegram announcing the death of his brother:

"Christy O'Byrne is dead. Shot 27th. Murderer in jail. Trial set June 1st. No one to represent state. Bring attorney. Answer if I must wait here for you with conveyance. "W. S. LONG, Ordinary."

"Chub" Wall, who did the shooting, is said to have a bad name in Rabun county. It has been only a short time, it is said, since he stabbed Deputy Sheriff McConnell. He is said to have served a term for a misdemeanor.

James O'Byrne, of Atlanta, brother of the deceased, and Patrick Campbell, a friend of the dead man, will go to Clayton this morning for the purpose of bringing the body to Atlanta.

REGIMENT TO CAMP BY SEA

Boys of the Fifth Will Go to Cumberland Island.

WAS DECIDED LAST NIGHT

One of the Largest Meetings Ever Held by the Officers of the Regiment Took Place.

The Fifth regiment will go into camp this year on Cumberland island. The full regiment—550 enlisted men, field and staff officers and the regiment band—will compose the party. The regiment will remain on the island from July 7th to 16th.

An excursion to Cumberland will be run from Atlanta on the day following the departure of the Fifth in order to afford the friends of the command an opportunity for seeing the boys in camp. The officers of the regiment, headed by Colonel Park Woodward, the popular commanding officer, will be the hosts and they will take in charge all visitors to the camp.

During the encampment on the island there will be drills, battalion drills, dress parades and concerts. The visit of the command to the island is expected to be one of the features of the seaside resort during the season.

All this was decided upon at a meeting of the officers of the regiment held last night in the armory of the Atlanta Rifles. Every company was represented at the meeting, including the two in Rome and one each in LaGrange, Newnan, Cartersville and Kingston. The officers were very enthusiastic over the encampment and believe they will succeed in taking their full commands.

President Roberts delivered an eloquent and appropriate baccalaureate address. In the course of his remarks he said:

"The century now closing has been marked by a progress that is both stupendous and bewildering. But we are now to enter upon another century, which in the wonderful variety of its inventions in the startling nature of its scientific discoveries and in the splendor of its achievements in general will probably eclipse the combined progress of all former time. Our race has just now reached a stage in its development where it has accumulated sufficient capital in its inventions, in its discoveries, in its general knowledge to enable it to operate on a grand scale and with lightning-like rapidity. As the discovery at the close of the last century of the 'Rosetta Stone,' with the triple inscription of hieroglyphics, dematic and Greek, furnished the world with a key that unlocked the whole hieroglyphic system of Egypt and brought to light a system that had been hid for two thousand years, so the discoveries of the nineteenth century have given to the world another rosetta stone, which during the twentieth century will serve as a key to unlock the hieroglyphic system of the universe. No planet henceforth will move through space with greater momentum than will characterize our territorial civilization. During the twentieth century miracles will be wrought every hour, and the world will blaze with an intellectual splendor that will dazzle the eyes of both men and angels. So that to live here and now is a high privilege unlike any ever before enjoyed by mortal man, but it is well to remember that high privileges always invole heavy responsibilities.

"But as civilization advances and knowledge increases the conflict between truth and error, between Christ and Belial, becomes more subtle and demands more intelligent champions. It is said that in one of the great battles of the middle ages, in which thousands of men were slain, the contending armies, after fighting all day, proclaimed a cessation of hostilities and withdrew a short distance from each other and from the scene of carnage. Neither side admitted defeat or claimed a victory, but both sides waited patiently for three days and nights in the superstitious belief that during all this time the spirits of the slain were carrying on the strife in the air above the battlefield and that victory for either side was trembling in the balance and was despondent on the final issue of this spiritual conflict. This incident, young ladies, will serve to illustrate the change that has taken place in our age in the nature of the conflict between truth and error. It has been transferred from the sphere of the material and physical to the realm of the intellectual and spiritual. Men will no more appeal to arms in arbitrament of this issue. Real persecution, involving physical suffering, will doubtless be unknown in the twentieth century; but the cause of truth for which men and women went to the stake in other ages will continue to need the services of those who are willing to burn, if need be, in defense of the right and in testimony of their faith in God. As educated women, therefore, who claim to stand for God and truth, you cannot afford to shirk the responsibility which your education imposes upon you. A frivolous, indolent, pleasure-seeking life may do for the ignorant and foolish, but such a life ought to have no attractions for women of your refinement and culture. You have but one life to live and that life is not long. Every stroke of the clock is eternity's voice summoning you to faithful service and high endeavor.

"In the divine mind there has always existed an ideal humanity, though this ideal has only once been realized in the history of the race. But we are all 'predestinated to be conformed to His image,' and through all the centuries God has been working to this end. The material is crude, the process slow, but progress is being made and in the end of the ages this divine ideal for our race will be realized. This is the meaning of all history. This is the explanation of the existence of this planet. What part will you take in this great process of race development? What part of the glory will be yours in its culmination?

"Every inch of this progress is being contested, and it would seem from present indications that both sides of this contest are preparing to marshal their mightiest forces for a gigantic and, possibly, final struggle during the century upon which we are so soon to enter. It is possible, if not probable, that in your day momentous issues affecting the destiny of our race will arise and be forever settled. I cannot better close my remarks to you today, therefore, than by appropriating the language of the poet:

"'We are living, we are dwelling
In a grand and awful time;
In an age on ages telling—
To be living is sublime.
Hark! the waking up of nations,
Gog and Magog to the fray!
Hark! what soundeth is creation
Groaning for its latter day!
Worlds are changing! Heaven beholding!
Thou hast but an hour to fight.
Now the blazoned cross unfolding,
On, right onward, for the right!'"

Tonight an elegant reception by the alumnae was given at the college. A splendid banquet was served. This marked the close of Wesleyan's commencement for this year.

BIBB'S GRAND JURY ADJOURNS.

Street Car Companies Are Given a Hard Call-Down.

Macon, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The grand jury adjourned today after making their presentments to Judge Felton. The principal points of the presentments were as follows:

The jury called particular attention to the fact that the street car companies were violating the state law in not separating the races, the fact being especially apparent on the Vineville and Metropolitan street railways.

The affairs of the public schools were found to be in excellent condition. An examination of the cost of each pupil to the county per month was found to be only $1.29, which is less than that paid by any county in the state. The jury found the industrial feature of the school training to be lacking, however, and recommended that the attention of the board be called to this.

As a whole, the jail was found to oe in good condition, but repairs are needed to the kitchen, to the roof and the sanitary system. They recommended the building of two padded cells for lunatics.

They urged the building of a pest house in some section of the county not thickly inhabited and where the contagious diseases would not be easily spread.

The jury discovered that there were many persons in the county who deserved pensions, but on account of the inadequacy of this fund, did not have one. As a remedy they suggested that those names now on the list in cases where said persons have an outside income of as much as $1,000, be stricken and others who are in greater need be put in their places.

MORTUARY.

Funeral of Mr. Brunner.

Macon, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The funeral services of V. Brunner were held this morning from the family residence and were largely attended. A long procession of mourners followed the remains to Rose Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. W. T. Morgan, W. A. Whitehead, T. A. Cheatham, C. E. Werner, S. M. Hilliard and W. H. Mansfield.

Isaac Jessup, Brooks County, Ga.

Quitman, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Isaac Jessup, a well known resident of this county, died at Lake Park today and will be buried at Hickoryhead tomorrow. Mr. Jessup was eighty-five years of age.

Funeral of C. M. Crosby.

Marietta, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The funeral of C. M. Crosby took place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Episcopal church, Rev. C. T. A. Pise officiating. All the stores in town closed from 4:30 to 5:30 to attend the funeral. The remains, accompanied by relatives and friends, left this evening for Covington, Ky., where the interment will take place.

Death of a Little Boy.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Last night the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Vincent died, after an illness of ten days, of cholera infantum. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent had the misfortune to lose their twelve-year-old daughter a few weeks since, with the same disease, and this second death in their family falls with crushing force upon them.

Athens News Notes.

Alderman John L. Arnold is again quite ill at his home in this city.

The laundry men here have combined and put up their prices to 2 cents for collars, 4 cents for cuffs and 10 cents for shirts. The men may have to wear soiled garments during commencement.

The city has a force of hands at work clearing up the old cemetery on Jackson street and putting it in presentable appearance.

At a session of the city court yesterday Tobe Mayfield, colored, pleaded guilty to stealing goods recently from the Mox Joseph Mercantile Company, and was sent up for twelve months.

GRIGGS IS OPPOSED TO THE NEW WOMAN

Georgia Congressman Comes Out in Plain Language.

ALL HARMONY DESTROYED

Shorter College Commencement Calls Forth Pronounced Talk.

THE AUDIENCE IS HIGHLY PLEASED

Representative from the Second Congressional District Entertains the People of Rome.

Rome, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Congressman J. M. Griggs delivered the commencement address at Shorter college last evening, coming direct from Washington to do so. From the opening sentence to the closing peroration of his brilliant address he held the immensse audience spell bound. Hon. L. A. Dean introduced the speaker.

Judge Griggs's remarks were politico—

HON. JAMES M. GRIGGS.

Georgia Congressman Opposes the New Woman in His Speech Before Shorter College.

literary in their character, and he was constantly interrupted by applause. At its conclusion he was forced to bow again and again before the storm of approval. The speech was a scathing invective against the new women, whereas there should be harmony and working together for mutual self-interest.

The woman who does a man's work should receive the same pay that he would in the same place. He bitterly opposed woman suffrage, and paid the working women a high compliment. He also objected to manly women and womanly men.

In the course of his remarks Judge Griggs denounced the Philippine war and England's war of aggression in South Africa. He characterized the Philippine war as the "conquest of bullets, Bibles and beer." Judge Griggs won hosts of admirers here by his scholarly address and magnetic bearing.

These exercises marked the close of Shorter commencement. Diplomas were delivered to twenty-two young ladies, a list of whom has appeared in The Constitution.

CRAZY MAN WITH UGLY KNIFE.

Clarke County Jail Inmate Swears He Won't Go to the Asylum.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—"I'll never go to the asylum alive," were the words of J. T. Rice, a white man, as he brandished a knife in the faces of the officers who came to his cell for him.

Rice has been committed for lunacy. He has been confined three times in insane asylums, but each time has been dismissed as cured. He protests his sanity, and says he will sue the county for $35 damages for each day that he is confined in jail.

Mattie Joncs, a colored woman, who insists on going naked all the time, has been adjudged insane, and will be sent to Milledgeville.

The Athens Woman's Club.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The Athens Woman's Club is adding the night school among the factory people, it is making up a public library and running several scholarships in schools and other training institutions. The delegates to the Milwaukee convention have been chosen. Mrs. H. C. White is pushing forward the work of the state educational committee.

W. J. Neel Not a Candidate.

Rome, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Hon. W. J. Neel has announced his withdrawal from the race as a delegate to represent the seventh district in the national democratic convention in Kansas City. Mr. Neel is in Hot Springs taking a course of treatment for rheumatism, and for this reason has declined to enter the race. Hon. W. C. Bunn, of Polk, state senator for his district in the last senate, is the only avowed candidate for the place.

Board of Visitors Coming.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The board of visitors to the University of Georgia will arrive in Athens June 11th and will remain through commencement. The board this year is made up of Professor Lawton B. Evans, of Augusta; Professor O. B. Nisbet, of Eatonton; Professor G. H. Gardner, of Decatur, Professor J. H Walker, of Griffin; and Professor J. M. Pitner, of Thomson. Their work this year will be of a very comprehensive nature.

Will Bestow More Crosses.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The Athens chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy will bestow forty-one more southern crosses of honor on as many old veterans on June 3d, the anniversary of the birthday of President Jefferson Davis. That will run the number of crosses up to 308.

TRUST DEED FILED INVOLVES $1,000,000

Augusta Railway and Electric Light Company Makes the Paper.

CLERK HAS PUT IT ON RECORD

Mercantile Trust and Deposit Company the Beneficiaries.

THE DOCUMENT IS A LENGTHY ONE

All the Property of the Georgia Corporation Is Conveyed Except the Dyer Building.

Augusta, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—A trust deed was filed for record in the clerk's office today involving one million dollars. It is from the Augusta Railway and Electric Company to the Mercantile Trust and Deposit Company of Baltimore and is preliminary to the purchase of the million dollars' worth of bonds to be issued by the Augusta Railway and Electric Company. The document covers thirty-eight pages, closely typewritten, and there are revenue stamps on it to the amount of $500. The deed conveys all of the property owned by the Augusta Railway and Electric Company in the city of Augusta with the exception of the Dyer building. The bonds to be floated on the basis of this deed of trust will be payable in gold and will be interest bearing. The Money thus obtained will be used in making improvements in the street railway system and it means that Augusta will soon have an electric car service unsurpassed by any city in the south.

A party of Baltimore and eastern capitalists spent the day in Augusta today going over the street car system and inspecting Augusta industrial enterprises. They were breakfasted at Colonel Dyer's home in Summerville, "Chateau Levert," and were given luncheon at the Commercial Club, where speeches were made. They left here for Charleston.

TWENTY CONVICTS ESCAPE.

Guard Is Knocked Down and His Gun Is Taken Away.

Savannah, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Twenty convicts of camp No. 2 of the county chaingang made their escape today. It seems there was a premeditated plot, for one of the more trusty convicts at a signal struck the guard over the head with a shovel, felling him to the ground. His rifle was then taken from him and the whole squad broke for the woods. The guard was not seriously wounded, but when he came to the birds had flown. Owing to their inability to rid themselves of their chains fifteen of the convicts were captured this afternoon, most of them not a great distance from where they made their escape. Five others are still at large and diligent search for them is being made. The negroes were engaged in digging ditches.

Killed by Falling Tree.

Quitman, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Tom Vickers, a negro employed by contractors who are building the extension of the South Georgia railway, was killed this morning by a falling tree.

COMMENCEMENT AT LUCY COBB BEGINS

Exercises Starting This Morning Will Last Six Days.

VISITORS REACHING ATHENS

Classes Are All in Excellent Shape and Good Showing Is Sure.

PAST YEAR A SUCCESSFUL ONE

Students Are All Ready for the Exercises Which Will Close the Scholastic Year.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Tomorrow evening Lucy Cobb commencement will open, and for six days brilliant exercises will be rendered at Seney-Stovall chapel.

Visitors are arriving on every train to be present at these exercises, and neither time nor labor has been spared to make the closing scenes, remarkable for their high degree of excellence.

The past year has been unusually successful. The teachers, under the efficient charge of the principal, Mrs. M. A. Lipscomb, have been untiring in their labors for the good of the pupils under their care. The students have been industrious and faithful. Much work has been accomplished, perfect harmony has existed, and the outlook for an even greater future for Lucy Cobb institute is extremely roseate.

The opening exercises tomorrow night will be the presentation of "The Merchant of Venice," by the Shakespearean class. This will be one of the most successful and elaborate affairs ever witnessed in a southern college. This performance will be followed from day to day with exercises of great interest.

The city schools closed today for the summer season. The members of the graduating class of 1900 are as follows:

Misses Pearl Bernstein, Iler May Childers, Katie Childers, Edith Hodgson, Jennie Hodgson, Talula Cheney, Estelle Murrell, Leonora Mitchell, Sadie Murray, Grace Palmer, Lilla Morris and Rosa Munday; Messrs. Jake Farbstein, Roy Finch, Arthur Griffith, Ed Harper, Joe Hodgson, Frank Hodgson, Max Michael, Ernest Weatherby, Evan Wilkins, Roy Pitner, Robert Woods, Joe Hull, Bayard Starnes and Erwin Vanderau.

The Burke scholarship medal was awarded to Miss Edith Hodgson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Hodgson, who has won it three times.

WILL ATTEND COMMENCEMENT.

Twenty-Two Legislators Will Be at State University.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Mayor Smith has thus far received replies from twenty-two legislators who will be here at commencement. Those who have signified their intention of being present are: W. A. Dodson, president of the senate; John D. Little, speaker of the house; B. E. Thrasher, M. M. Richardson, T. A. McFarland, C. L. Bass, Walter Maxwell, W. J. Henderson, H. Franklin, T. W. Hardwick, Ed A. Carter, R. E. U. Hanley, John T. Allen, J. F. Johnson, N. L. Hutchins, Jr., M. L. McRae, B. B. Bower, Jr., W. F. Brown, H. P. Bell, C. H. Jordan, J. F. L. Bond and J. M. Hopkins.

Quite a number of legislators have written that they could not be present and others have yet to be heard from. The local committees are arranging to entertain the visiting solons handsomely, and special exercises will be held at the chapel in their honor on June 18th

SHOW IN A CANVAS THEATER.

Primrose & Dockstader's Minstrels Will Be Seen Next Monday.

Primrose and Dockstader's minstrels will be seen in Atlanta next week in their great canvas theater, which is a marvel in itself, as it contains all the comforts and conveniences of a modern playhouse, such as private boxes, reserved orchestra chairs, uniformed ushers and attendants. The stage will be provided with all the scenery and light effects found in a first-class opera house. In fact, this novel and up-to-date theater under canvas is equal and in some respects superior to many of the theaters in our larger cities.

The company numbers 100 white artists, among whom will be found funny men, sweet singing vocalists, a company of well-known acrobats, jugglers, song-and-dance artists, club swingers, a troupe of genuine Arabs, grotesque skaters and a dog and monkey circus, the latter sure to please every juvenile who has the price of admission.

The entertainment has, in fact, everything that goes to make a clean and wholesome summer day's divertisement. There will be two performances given, an afternoon and evening. Doors open at 1 and 7 p. m.; performance begins one hour later.

WANT GUARDIAN SELECTED.

Relatives of Miss Beattie Say She Is Not Able To Manage Her Affairs.

In the ordinary's office yesterday morning Miss Elise Beattie was placed on trial on a writ of lunacy, sworn out by three of her relatives, who contend that she is not capable of looking after her affairs in a business manner. No attempt is being made to have her sent to an asylum, but it is desired that a guardian shall be appointed for her.

Only a partial hearing was had yesterday and the case will be resumed this morning at 9 oclock before Judge W. H. Hulsey. Several witnesses were heard yesterday and it is expected that others will be introduced today. Miss Beattie is represented by Attorney George C. Spence.

The writ was taken out by Dr. J. S. Todd, Judge George Hillyer and H. S. Hillyer. It is said that Miss Beattie is the owner of considerable property and relatives desire to have some one appointed who will look after her business affairs. It was said during the trial yesterday that Miss Beattie entertained peculiar ideas concerning religion. The case will doubtless be concluded today.

BIG FEES WERE NOT ALLOWED

Judge Lumpkin Sustains Demurrer in Belt Line Case.

FEES WANTED WERE $17,000

Minority Stockholders of the Road in Favor of Allowing the Lawyers That Amount.

The lawyers who represented the minority stockholders of the Atlanta and West Point Railroad Company who sought to prevent that road from constructing a belt line, will probably not receive $17,500 from the road as fees for their services.

Judge J. H. Lumpkin, presiding officer of the superior court, yesterday handed down a decision in the case, sustaining the demurrer to the petition for fees. This demurrer was presented by the attorneys for the railroad company.

The beginning of the case dates back some months and to a time when the Atlanta and West Point road contemplated the construction of a belt line around the city. Stockholders of the company brought suit against the company to prevent the building of this line and the matter was finally carried to the supreme court for final settlement.

The higher court decided that the belt line could not be built by the railroad company. A separate company was then organized and the construction of this belt line has already been commenced and is expected to be in running order before long. After the decision of the supreme court a petition, as an amendment to the case of J. M. Alexander, et al., against the Atlanta and West Point road, was then filed asking that the fees of the lawyers for the plaintiffs be paid by the railroad company.

Lawton & Cunningham, of Savannah; T. A. Hammond and H. A. Alexander represented the minority stockholders in the trial of the case. The amount asked was $17,500. The plaintiff contended that their attorneys had prevented the expenditure of many thousands of dollars and expressed the opinion that the company should be the one to pay the costs.

To this the attorneys for the road, Messrs. Dorsey, Brewster & Howell, then filed a demurrer, which has been sustained by the presiding officer of the superior court.

MAY WILL BREAK RECORD.

Monthly Statement of Building Inspector Pittman Will Show Remarkable Increase.

May will break the record on building. The monthly statement of Building Inspector Pittman, which he makes to the public, will show a remarkable increase in the amount of building in Atlanta. It is well known among those who are posted on building affairs that May is the month for erecting buildings, but this year the record of the month is greater than that of May of any previous year.

Yesterday afternoon the books of the inspector showed that about $297,000 had been put into buildings in Atlanta this month. Today several permits will be issued, including, probably, one for the new public school building, which will call for about a $12,000 permit. It is believed that the amount will easily reach $300,000 for the month.

For the sake of comparison it should be stated that the building during April, 1900, amounted to about $90,000, and during May, 1899, it amounted to a little more than $191,000. These figures show the remarkable increase this year.

The permit for The Carnegie Library building was issued during May, amounting to more than $100,000, and a $50,000 permit was secured by the owners of the Kimball house. These two, with a large number of smaller permits, caused the increase.

Colonel L. N. Trammell Is Sick.

Marietta, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—Colonel L. M. Trammell, chairman of the railroad commission, has been confined to his room sick for several days and his physicians say it will be probably a week yet before he can leave his room.

Weakened Manly Functions

Dr. Hathaway the Only Specialist Capable of Curing Chronic Diseases of Men.

After experimenting with other so-called specialists who know little or nothing either of the nature or cure of chronic diseases, you can be assured of a cure by Dr. J. Newton Hathaway, who stands at the head of his profession and is acknowledged the greatest specialist in the treatment of all chronic diseases. He is the only specialist who is capable of giving to men a thorough, scientific treatment. It is not, as most others are, simply a stimulant which acts for a few days and then leaves the poor, deluded patient in worse condition than before. Dr. Hathaway's treatment cures; it acts on every weakened portion of the body. It builds up nerve, tissue and muscular strength, and revitalizes the whole body. The hitherto miserable victim becomes fitted for a husband and a father.

This is what Dr. Hathaway's treatment does, and it does it invariably in every case, never mind how serious the condition of the patient.

Dr. Hathaway also treats, with the same guarantee of success, Varicocele without operation, Stricture (by painless home treatment), Specific Blood Poisoning and other chronic diseases of men, including all Kidney and Urinary and Sexual disorders.

J. NEWTON HATHAWAY, M. D.

Absolutely private and confidential consultation without any cost can be had in Dr. Hathaway's office. If you live out of town, or cannot for any reason visit the office, he will send you free his latest book and self-examination blanks.

DIAMOND JUBILEE CAPTURES DERBY

Rich Stake of 6,000 Sovereigns Goes to Prince of Wales.

SIMONDALE CAME SECOND

James R. Keene's American Horse Disguise II Gets Third Money.

MANY AMERICANS SAW THE EVENT

Richard Croker Was on Hand and Predicted the Victory of Diamond Jubilee.

London, May 30.—At the second day's racing of the Epsom summer meeting today the race for the Derby stakes of 6,000 sovereigns was won by the prince of Wales' Diamond Jubilee. Simondale ran second and James R. Keene's Disguise II came third.

The derby stakes of 6,000 sovereigns by subscription of 50 sovereigns each, half forfeit, or 5 sovereigns only if declared by the first Tuesday in January, 1899, for three-year-olds; the nominator of the winner to receive 500 sovereigns, the owner of the second 300 sovereigns and the owner of the third 200 sovereigns, out of the entire purse. The entries closed July 19, 1899. There were 302 subscribed. The following was the result of the derby in detail:

The prince of Wales, b. c., Diamond Jubilee, by Simons, out of Perdita II, (H. Jones), won.

The duke of Portland's brown colt, Simondale, by St. Simon, out of Ismay (M. Cannon), second.

James R. Keene's Disguise II, by Domino, out of Bonnie Gal (Tod Sloan), third.

The scenes and incidents along the Epsom road on Derby day differ little from any other derby day. But the introduction of Union Jacks and banners inscribed "Johannesburg," in joyful recognition of Lord Roberts's entry into the "Gold Reef City," was a feature of the sporting holiday today.

On the Downs portraits of the queen and the favorite generals were marked and distinctive features of today's jollification. Although the weather was not promising, the exodus from London was hardly less remarkable than in previous years. The Epsom road was congested by every variety of vehicle, while the trains had difficulty in carrying the throngs. A large number of Americans patronized the coaches.

Royal Party Comes on Special Train.

The prince and princess of Wales, the duke and duchess of York, the duke and duchess of Connaught, the duke of Cambridge and Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, went to Epsom by special train.

The Australian delegates traveled on the same train. King Oscar of Sweden and Norway was expected to accompany the prince of Wales, but was disappointed.

Many hundreds of regular derby visitors are in South Africa and the friends and relatives of officers at the front refrained from attendance.

Richard Croker and his two sons were among the early arrivals. Mr. Croker said to a representative of the Associated Press that he regretted that he had no horse racing today.

"The Derby looks to me," he remarked before the race, "a remarkably open event, while the indications point to the prince of Wales' entry winning."

In the American coaches were Messrs. E. M. Sothern and Miss Valesquez, of New York; Mrs. J. T. High, of Chicago; Frank Andrews, of New York; W. P. Stewart and Al and Tom Johnson, of Cleveland, O.

Diamond Jubilee's time was 2:42. This equals Persimmon's time, which is the record for the Derby.

The royal party arrived shortly after 1 o'clock. There was a great popular demonstration on their arrival. James R. Keene was present, hoping Disguise II would carry the stars and stripes to victory.

After a couple of preliminary races, the second of which was won by Doris, with Sloan up, the way was cleared for the Derby.

There were fourteen starters. The betting was 6 to 4 against Diamond Jubilee; 100 to 6 against Simondale and 8 to 1 against Disguise II.

Warmer weather often causes extreme weariness and debility. Now is the time to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies and enriches the blood and gives the whole body new life and vigor.

Athens, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The Athens Young Men's Christian Association baseball team is determined to have some baseball sport during the summer. Three games have been arranged with the Augusta team for next week, and other games are also being arranged. The Athens Y. M. C. A. team is one of the strongest in the state.

JOHN BRIGHT WINS LATONIA HANDICAP

Pretty Contest in Which Pinkcoat and Friesland Took Part.

MONEY WAS ON PINKCOAT

Friesland Developed Wonderful Speed at the Start.

EREMA THE ONLY FAVORITE TO WIN

Latonia Turf Congress Handicap, Won by John Bright. Was Worth $1,710 in All.

Cincinnati, O., May 30.—John Bright won the Latonia Turf Congress handicap today with 127 pounds on his back, after a lively contest with Friesland and Pinkcoat. The race, which was at a mile and an eighth, was run over a heavy track in the slow time of 2:01¾.

Pinkcoat was favorite at 6 to 5, but did not like the going, and tired badly after going a mile. John Bright was the first away, but the other pair joined him at the judges' stand, and they raced heads together going down the back stretch.

After passing the half-mile pole, Friesland, with a wild burst of speed, shot to the front and opened up a gap of two lengths. John Bright succeeded in shaking out Pinkcoat and went after the leader. At the last eighth pole John Bright overtook Friesland, and with a few strokes of the whip drew away from the latter and won out in clever style by a short length.

Friesland was three lengths in front of Pinkcoat, who was all out at the finish. The race was worth $1,710 to the winner. Trema was the only winning favorite. Weather cloudy. Summary:

MORAN'S TRIAL IS POSTPONED.

Indications Are That the Negro Will Never Be Arraigned in Rome.

Rome, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The trial of John Moran has been indefinitely postponed, and the opinion is general here that it will never take place in Rome. A change of venue to Atlanta is fully expected, as it is believed that it would never be expedient to attempt to bring the negro here. Bailiffs were sent out at a late hour last evening to notify all jurymen not to come to Rome today. Rumors of all sorts were flying thick yesterday, but there were no gatherings or excitement of any kind. Grim determination marks the purpose of the would-be lynchers, and they say that Moran must die if he is ever brought back here.

IMP SET THE PACE IN OLD TIME FORM

Black Mare Won Parkway Handicap by Two Lengths.

KINLEY MACK WAS SECOND

Survivor Beat Charentus a Length for Third Place.

FULLY 15,000 PEOPLE SAW THE RACE

Performance of the Great Mare Imp Shows Her To Be in as Good Form as She Was Last Year.

New York, May 30.—A holiday crowd of record breaking proportions stood up and cheered with the wildest enthusiasm as the great mare, Imp, galloped home in front of the Parkway handicap at Gravesend today. Fully 15,000 people were present. The Parkway handicap was the feature of the card.

Imp was the favorite at 9 to 5, while Kinley Mack, the Brooklyn handicap winner, Charentus and Survivor all got steady play at a round 3 to 1. O'Connor took Imp to the front at once and set the pace.

Charentus ran lapped with her around the first turn and up the back stretch, with the others trailing.

When straightened out for the home run O'Connor took hold of Imp, and the black mare crossed the line hard held two lengths to the good in 1:46 4-5, a record for the track. Kinley Mack was four lengths in front of Survivor, who beat Charentus a head for third money. Summary:

ANNUAL ADDRESS DELIVERED.

Interesting Exercises Held at Big Bethel Church Last Night.

A large audience attended Bethel African Methodist Episcopal church last night to hear the annual address by Rev. A. A. Whitman, D.D., before the combined departments of Morris Brown college. President James M. Henderson presided, and prayer was offered by Rev. L. H. Smith, of Macon.

About seventy-five trustees are in attendance, and the following occupied seats upon the platform:

Rev. D. J. McGlee, of Palmetto; W. A. Hines, of Newnan; Rev. D. H. Porter, of Americus; Rev. I. G. Glass, of Albany; Rev. P. F. Curry, of Brunswick; Rev. W. C. Shelton, of Waycross, and Rev. W. D. Johnson, Jr., of Bainbridge.

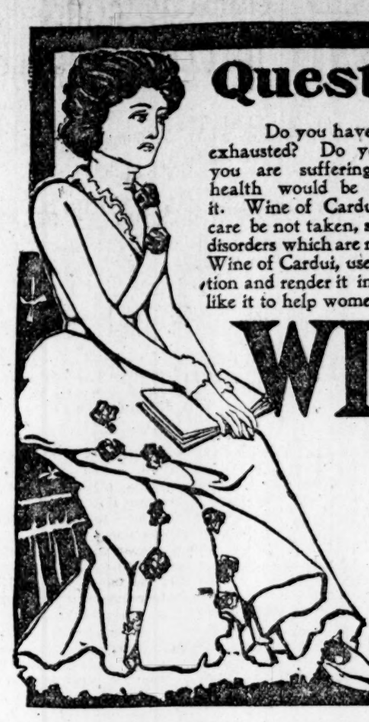

"Down by the Old Mill," a solo, by Carrie Slaton, was rendered with fine effect. "Hear Me, Norma," a duet by Selena A. Kendrick and Walter Dickerson, was greeted with applause.

Dr. Whitman is considered by many the greatest poet of the negro race. His books published during the past twenty years have attained a wide circulation.

His subject was, "The Evolution of Labor." He said that labor is the normal condition of man, and its best definition is exertion to maintain one's existence. He said that every kind of work is honorable, and if we cannot find our calling, we ought to work at somebody else's calling. He said that if man will advance, he must work up; but if he starts downward he will find everything greased for the occasion. He said that the first law of success is that a man shall mingle his thoughts with his labor. The man who does this soon throws his thoughts into the fingers of a thousand other men, while he sits down a bloated bondholder.

"But," said he, "the future man will accomplish the task of food and shelter, and will live in the higher realm of mind and soul."

Tonight the alumni banquet will be held at the college, and Friday morning, at 10 o'clock, the commencement exercises will be held in Bethel church.

Questions for Women

Do you have periodical pains? Frequent backache? Are you nervous? Are you continually exhausted? Do you suffer every month? If you answer "yes" to any of these questions, you are suffering from ills which Wine of Cardui cures. Do you appreciate what perfect health would be to you? After taking Wine of Cardui thousands, like you, have realized it. Wine of Cardui insures freedom from female diseases. At each recurring menstrual period, if care be not taken, slight ailments will appear. Nervous strain, loss of sleep, cold or indigestion start disorders which are not noticeable at first, but day by day steadily grow into troublesome complications. Wine of Cardui, used just before the menstrual period, will keep the female system in perfect condition and render it invulnerable to disease. The medicine is taken quietly at home. There is nothlike it to help women enjoy good health.

WINE OF CARDUI

Cairo, Ky., Sept. 6, 1899.

I take pleasure in writing a few lines in praise of your wonderful medicine, Wine of Cardui. It is the best medicine I ever heard of. I am 36 years old and have been sick all my life. I had a dozen doctors, but none of them did me any good. I have taken one bottle of Wine of Cardui and will take another with Black-Draught. I have been married six years and have a baby five years old. I had womb and kidney trouble. My monthly period was so bad that sometimes it came twice a month. I was too sick to do work for a family of three. I was in bed when I got the bottle of Wine of Cardui. Now I am up and can do most of my work. When I was sick I could not sleep at night. I sleep well at night now. A friend of mine advised me to use Black-Draught with Wine of Cardui Mrs. ETTA KILLMAN.

TANDEM PACERS KILLED IN A SMASH-UP AT WALTHAM

Waltham, Mass., May 30.—The race meet of the Massachusettts division of the League of American Wheelmen at the Waltham bicycle track today was marred by a shocking accident, one rider being killed and others hurt. The accident occurred in the second mile of the four-cornered international motor-paced race, the contestants being Everett B. Ryan, of Waltham; Albert Champion, of Paris; Archie McEachern, of Toronto, and William P. Stinson, of Cambridge.

In the first lap of the second mile, on the turn into the back stretch, the four pacing machines were stretched across the track. Champion swerved into the grass and in avoiding him Harry E. Miles, twenty-five years of age, of Lynn, and William Stamford, twenty-four years of age, of Cambridge, who were riding the Stimson motor tandem, were forced up the track and over the bank. Both men were thrown, Miles striking head first upon an electric light pole. The top of his head was crushed in. He died in a very few minutes after the accident.

Stafford, who was riding behind Miles, was thrown bodily through the picket fence, his skull fractured, his nose broken and his false teeth forced down his throat. He was removed to the Waltham hospital, where his death is expected at any moment.

The big motor tandem which they were riding was thrown over the fence, upon the crowd which had been watching the racing. It fell upon half a dozen men and women. Patrick Shannahan and George Hill, both of Newton Upper Falls, each had a leg broken and two other men and a woman were rendered unconscious.

The race was won by Archie McEachern with Ryan second and Champion third. Time 3:40 3-5.

The five mile motor tandem handicap, professional, was won by Cook and Sheerer; Callahan and Champion second. Time 7:38 4-5.

Jimmy Michael rode a five mile motor paced exhibition in 8:59 1-5. The attendance was 20,000.

NATIONAL LEAGUE GAMES.

Two Straights for Boston.

Boston, May 30.—Dineen was effective in critical times in this morning's game, while Scott was batted at will after the fifth inning. The game was marred by a great deal of kicking by players on both teams: Score

Boston.. ....0 0 0 1 4 0 2 1 *—8	17	1
Cincinnati.. .. .. ..0 1 0 0 1 0 2 0 —4	8	2

Batteries, Dineen and Clark; Scott and Pletz. Umpire, Emslie. Time, 2:40. Attendance, 4,500.

In the afternoon game both teams scored the same number of hits, but Boston managed to make theirs when men were on bases and won easily. The fielding of both clubs was excellent. Attendance 8,000. Score:

Boston.. .. ..2 0 4 0 0 0 1 0 *—7	9	1
Cincinnati.. .. ..0 1 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—3	9	2

Batteries, Lewis and Sullivan; Philips and Wood. Time, 2:02. Umpire, Emslie.

Chicago Drops Both Games.

Philadelphia, May 30.—There was nothing noteworthy in this morning's game between Chicago and Philadelphia. Both teams played rather carelessly and Philadelphia won by good batting. Donohue pitched a steady game, while Griffith was hit when hits were needed. Score:

Chicago.. .. .. 0 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 0—2	8	5
Philadelphia.. .. ..1 0 2 0 2 0 0 0 *—5	12	3

Batteries, Griffith and Donahue and Chance; Donohue and McFarland. Time, two hours. Umpire, O'Day. Attendance, 10,417.

Callahan's curves were ineffective against Philadelphia's heavy hitters in the afternoon game and the home team made enough runs in the first inning to win. Chicago played a ragged game in the field and Bernhardt kept the hits scattered. Score:

Chicago.. .. .. .. 1 0 0 0 1 1 0 0 0—3	11	5
Philadelphia.. .. ..5 1 0 7 0 0 0 0 *—13	16	1

Batteries, Callahan and Donahue; Bernhardt and McFarland. Time, 1:50. Umpire, O'Day. Attendance, 18,331.

New York and Pittsburg Break Even.

New York, May 30.—Pittsburg won this morning's game through the batting in the sixth and seventh innings. Score:

New York.. .. .. ..0 1 0 0 0 2 0 3 0—6	9	2
Pittsburg.. .. .. ..0 0 0 0 1 0 2 3 0 0—7	13	3

Batteries, Hawley and Bowerman; Waddell and Zimmer. Umpire, Swartwood. Time, 2:25. Attendance, 3,000.

The fielding of Davis and Hickman was a feature of the afternoon game. Score:

Pittsburg.. .. .. ..0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—1	5	3

Batteries, Carrik and Bowerman; Phillippi and O'Connor. Umpire, Swartwood Time, 2:05. Attendance, 15,000.

St. Louis Wins Two Games.

Brooklyn, May 30.—St. Louis outplayed Brooklyn in the morning game. Hanlon tried his left-handed pitcher, Jerry Nops, and he was liberal with his bases on balls. Timely hitting did the rest. Hughey was effective at all times. Score:

St. Louis.. .. .. ..0 1 0 0 0 0 2 2 0—5	9	1

Batteries, Hughey and Robinson; Nops and Farrell. Time, 2:28. Umpire, Hurst. Attendance, 5,900.

Four bases on balls and three hits gave St. Louis a lead of six runs at the start in the afternoon and sent Kennedy to the bench. The Brooklyns made a big effort to win, knocking Jones out of the box, but Young stopped them effectually while Kitson was touched up in lively fashion toward the end. Wallace was hurt in the fifth and Dillard took his place. Score:

St. Louis.. .. .. ..6 2 0 0 0 1 2 0 0—11	10	5
Brooklyn.. .. .. ..0 1 2 1 1 0 0 0 1—6	8	2

Batteries, Jones, Young and Cruger; Kitson, Kennedy and O'Farrell. Time, 2:20. Umpire, Hurst. Attendance, 11,000.

CATARRH

PRIMARY DATE IS UNCHANGED

Will Probably Be No Meeting of Executive Committee.

CALL HAS NOT BEEN ISSUED

It Appears Probable That Colonel Moyers Will Not Issue One.

SIX NAMES TAKEN FROM PETITION

Some of Those Who Signed Changed Their Minds and Requested That Their Names Be Not Considered with the Petition.

It now appears probable that the special meeting of the city executive committee for the purpose of changing the date of the municipal primary from October 5th to July 4th will not be held.

Colonel W. T. Moyers, chairman of the committee, failed yesterday to issue the call, and as the meeting was to have been held today, that fact is taken as conclusive evidence by those who are opposed to holding the meeting that he will not act in the matter.

The friends of the early primary proposition are apparently still confident that the special meeting of the committee will occur, but the circumstances appear to be against them and the opposers of the meeting are equally as certain that the committee will not be assembled.

That Colonel Moyers does not believe that a majority of the committee desire a special meeting may be stated positively, as he has announced that when a majority ask for the meeting he will issue the call. It is certain also that if the committee should meet the session will be one of the liveliest that the body has ever held.

The friends of Nym McCullough, one of the four candidates for the mayoralty, announce that the petition presented Colonel Moyers contained the names of a majority of the members of the committee, that Tuesday afternoon, when five signers withdrew their names, there was still a majority; that yesterday, when another name was withdrawn, a majority remained, and that it is the duty of the chairman to respect the wishes of the committee. These same gentlemen contend that while it is true that names of alternates appear on the petition, they were acting for absent members of the committee.

Alternates Signed Petition.

Those who oppose the early primary maintain that alternates have no right to petition, and that with their names removed the petition would not contain a majority of the members of the committee.

That is the way the matter stands at present. What Colonel Moyers will do or what the committee will do cannot be stated with any degree of certainty. Colonel Moyers has placed himself on record, both publicly and privately, as opposed to changing the date of the primary, although when he becomes convinced that a majority of the members of the committee desire a special meeting he will call one.

When the petition was presented Colonel Moyers last Tuesday afternoon it contained twenty-one names, as follows:

George E. Johnson, Donald M. Bain, John McCullough, H. L. Stearns, R. A. Ewing, L. W. Sims, S. C. Glass, W. T. Winn, H. O. Teat, E. C. Atkins, Malvern Hill, J. W. Stallings, George S. Lowndes, C. A. Collier, J. R. Smith, B. E. Campbell, John A. Colvin, John R. Dickey, A. O. Marbut, M. Riley and H. L. Culberson.

Some Withdrew Their Names.

The petition was presented Tuesday afternoon and requested the chairman, Colonel Moyers, to call a special meeting of the committee for May 31st, which is today. Within three hours after the presentation of the petition five of its signers had requested that their names be erased.

The five men are said to be H. O. Teat, Hubert L. Culberson, Malvern Hill, J. R. Smith and George Johnson.

This left the petition with only sixteen signers. Yesterday morning C. A. Collier directed that his name be taken off the petition. This left the petition with fifteen names.

As there are twenty-eight members of the city executive committee, the friends of the early primary proposition contend that fifteen members constitutes a majority.

Nym McCullough apparently believes that Colonel Moyers was striking at him between the lines of his interview. Mr. McCullough has written for The Constitution a card, explaining his position, and replying to what he terms the "insinuations" of Colonel Moyers.

What Nym McCullough Says.

Mr. McCullough's card follows:

Editor Constitution—I note in your issue of yesterday that W. T. Moyers, chairman of the city executive committee, has sought for some reason, unknown to myself, to do me a great injustice relative to the movement to change the date of the city primary from that of October 5th to July 4th. Mr. Moyers, as far as I can see, has insinuated unnecessarily. I did not inaugurate the movement to change the date of the primary and the matter has simply been in the hands of a committee of business men who think that the change would be beneficial to the public.

Should I have been inclined to have taken undue advantage of any candidate or anyone who has political aspirations in connection with the coming primary, I would have, most assuredly, retained the chairmanship that Mr. Moyers now holds, but rather than have it said that I was using the office to further my own interests in this connection, I stepped down and out. It is to be remembered that two of the aspirants for mayor have been in the field for about a year. As to myself, I have been a candidate about five months, and the last entry, Major Livingston Mims, has been in the field, if I am not mistaken, about three months. There have also been numerous announcements for both councilmen and aldermen for several months, and how Mr. Moyers can regard the matter to the extent that I am endeavoring to take advantage of the situation in any particular is a matter beyond my comprehension.

It is to be remembered that the sub-committee was interviewed soon after its appointment prior to my resignation as chairman, and with one or two exceptions expressed themselves unequivocally as favoring an early primary, and went so far even to favor a combination primary with the county. The candidates for mayor have on several occasions expressed themselves as being ready at any time, and I really believe, with one exception, they were sincere. Mr. Moyers states that there are numerous matters that should engage the attention of the committee before that of arranging the details of the primary. Stating in connection, and by the way of reflection, that the management of the county primary was such as allowed the perpetration of fraud in the way of illegal registering, voting and the use of money to purchase same, and that his object is to eliminate these methods, and insinuates that it will be materially advantageous for a late primary on this account.

If the people will keep an eye on this proposition they will see that a continuation of the perpetration will be more manifest by an extension of time than to let the people vote at an earlier date, and the candidates be elected on their merits. In other words, in my opinion, the scheming on the part of some people is not as yet complete, hence the call for more time. Mr. Moyers further states that by holding the primary on October 5th will eliminate a continued canvass by the aspirants by which time the weather will be cool. I will say in answer to this that such will not be the case, and that the business houses, the shops and factories will be in better position to controvert this inconvenience and annoyance, not from a theoretical standpoint, but that of actual experience.

I wish my position clearly understood on this proposition. I favor holding the primary on July 4th for these reasons: First, because it is a holiday. Every business man and employee of the business houses, as well as those of the shops and factories, can go to the polls and vote without inconvenience to himself or the loss of time. In the last county primary numerous shop people were not able to cast their suffrage for the fact that they generally vote after work hours in the afternoon and haven't sufficient time to do so, as was fully demonstrated in the last county campaign.

Mr. Moyers insinuates further that my stand in the matter is justified by the fact that I am, probably, afraid of other competition. I wish to disabuse his mind of this fact, also the mind of the public if they so construe it, that I am afraid of no competition, it matters not who gets in or who drops out, I am in to the finish and will deliver the goods in the proper order, it matters not on what date the primary is called.

Will Mr. Moyers explain what he meant by "prospective candidates?" Can it be that he, as chairman of the executive committee, intends to be instrumental in bringing out another candidate for mayor? When he speaks of "prospective candidates" he certainly must have some one in mind, and as it has been impossible up to date for anyone to find out how he stands with the present entries, except that he has tried to use his office to injure my candidacy, the presumption is that he intends to give his support to some one yet unannounced. Personally, I have no objections to Mr. Moyers giving his support to anyone he may choose, but I do claim the right to my opinion, just as Mr. Moyers has his, in regard to the time that the primary should be held and a right only to fair treatment by the chairman of the city executive committee.

As to "prospective candidates," I do not believe that anyone who knows me would believe for an instant that I wish to injure anyone or to keep anyone out of the race, but I do not believe at the same time that Mr. Moyers should attempt to use his office to further or injure the candidacy of anyone, be they candidates or "prospective candidates."

I hope I have made myself perfectly clear, as this is my only intention, and I have nothing more to say on the subject. Yours respectfully,

D. N. McCULLOUGH.

A Card from Joseph Jacobs.

Joseph Jacobs requests the publication of the following card:

Editor Constitution—The chairman of the city executive committee, Mr. W. T. Moyers, gives in the morning paper a rather remarkable interview. As I am one of those who handed in a legal request for a meeting of the executive committee on the 31st of this month, possibly I am the one to whom he refers as "an avowed partisan of one of the candidates for mayor." Kindly allow me, though not a member of the executive committee, a few words.

Mr. Moyers says he is "opposed to making the executive committee a football to be kicked about by a candidate who seeks to obtain advantage through the action of the committee." Perhaps a majority of the committee object to being made a football to be kicked about by the chairman.

When Mr. Moyers seeks to give the impression that the gentlemen who seek an early primary do so through partisanship rather than to carry out the wishes of the people he casts a serious reflection upon their integrity and honesty of purpose. Surely Mr. Moyers does not wish to set himself up as an example of impartiality and non-partisanship when he reflects upon other gentlemen of the committee and seeks to injure the candidacy of some particular one of those in the field by declaring that particular candidate only wants the change to the injury of the other candidates.

Surely to advance the date of the primary would in no way injure the candidacy of any aspirant when there still remains ample time for such an one to present his claims to the people.

The request for this call of a meeting of the executive committee was not secured in secret. The call for the meeting was cheerfully signed by those whose names appear below, was signed without promise, coercion or persuasion.

It has been stated in the papers and verbally, and not denied so far as the writer knows, by each and all of the candidates that they did not care when the primary was held. The call for a meeting with the view of making an earlier date cannot in any sense be said to be "partisan." The people, all classes, employers and employees, would be benefited by an earlier primary; they would thus be saved being harassed and annoyed by the importunity of candidates running for a number of months, all through the hot summer weather.

It occurs to me that Mr. Moyers, as chairman of the committee, is the servant of the committee, and not its master, and that the least Mr. Moyers could have done would have been to have acquiesced in the call presented to him. If any member of the committee were absent from the city, the regularly elected alternate is as fully and completely qualified to act in the matter as the person for whom such one is alternate. That is why alternates are chosen. For the chairman not to call this committee together is taking, to put it mildly, an arbitrary and dictatorial position.

When the call for the meeting of the committee was handed to Mr. Moyers he stated then, off-hand, that he was "dead against it," and his actions since then have borne out his statement.

Whether the committee desire to advance the date of the primary is a question for the committee to determine and not the chairman.

Below will be found the call originally presented to Mr. Moyers, the last four names on the call having been added to same this day.

Following the undersigned call is an agreement made by certain members of the committee as to the date on which the primary was to be held, July 4th being selected because it would give every man a chance to vote.

JOSEPH JACOBS.

Atlanta, Ga., May 26, 1900.—Hon. W. T. Moyers, Chairman, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: We the undersigned members of the city executive committee, respectfully ask that you call a meeting of said committee Thursday, the 31st instant, at such hour as you may deem proper. Please notify the entire committee of same. Yours respectfully,

George E. Johnson, Donald M. Bain, John McCullough, H. L. Stearns, R. A. Ewing, L. W. Sims, S. C. Glass, W. T. Winn, H. O. Teat, E. C. Atkins, Malvern Hill, J. W. Stallings, George S. Lowndes, C. A. Collier, J. R. Smith, B. E. Campbell, John A. Colvin, John R. Dickey, A. O. Marbut, M. Riley, H. L. Culberson.

Atlanta, Ga., May 26, 1900.—We, the undersigned members of the city executive committee, hereby agree and pledge our vote and support in behalf of rescinding the former action of said committee so far as changing the date for holding the city primary from October 5th to that of July 4th, it being a legal holiday and will be of great convenience to the laboring classes and the public in general, as no inconvenience will be experienced in getting to the polls and voting, in addition to the fact that we can conceive of no logical argument that will bear out a continual annoyance of the public on such a proposition.

Court Convenes Next Thursday.

The docket of the Atlanta circuit for the March term in the supreme court will probably be called on next Thursday. No order to this effect has yet been issued by the court, but from the progress being made it is probable that the Atlanta circuit will be reached at that time.

MAY WEATHER ABOUT NORMAL

No Records Were Smashed During the Month.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

Mr. Marbury Presents Records for the Past Twenty-Two Years.

THE YEAR 1898 WAS REMARKABLE ONE

Both the Highest and Lowest Temperatures Were Recorded During the May of That Year.

At the close of May the local weather bureau's record of the temperature for the month, compared with that of preceding Mays, will interest those who have a penchant for the thermometer.

May was in nowise an abnormal month. There were a few very warm days, but the maximum temperature of 88 degrees has been exceeded in several years during the past decade. The year 1898 was a record breaker, the mercury climbing to 94 on the 30th day of May of that year. Singularly enough, the minimum record is also held by that year. On the 7th of the same month the mercury dropped to 38. The lowest temperature of the present May was 52 degrees.

The May which passes today will probably have recorded a mean temperature of 70 degrees. The records for the past twenty-two years show a normal temperature of 69 degrees, some Mays slightly exceeding and some slightly decreasing that figure. The total rainfall for the month up to last night was 2.94 inches. This may be called a normal amount. There were seven days during which rain fell. The record-breaking years in this regard are 1888, when 6.86 inches fell, and 1897, when only 0.34 inches fell during May.

The following table shows the highest and lowest temperatures on each day of the present month, brought down to midnight of the 29th:

Day.	Max.	Min.	Day.	Max.	Min.
1	81	63	16	86	62

THE O'MEARA CASE IS ENDED.

Both Sides Reach Amicable Agreement and Bill Against Young Man Is Nolle Prossed.

In the criminal branch of the superior court yesterday the case against J. B. O'Meara, former traveling salesman, charged with wrongfully converting money of the Dodd Grocery Company to his own use, was nolle prossed upon the payment of the costs.

Both sides decided upon an amicable settlement, and the entire matter was then dropped. The young man was tried on a similar charge some weeks ago, but was cleared by the jury. This was a second case, the grand jury having indicted him several days ago.

Solicitor C. D. Hill announced in open court yesterday morning when the case was called for trial, that the prosecutor desired that the case should be settled, and Judge E. J. Reagan stated he saw no reason why it should not take that course.

One of the attorneys in the case said that the matter had been amicably adjusted and that everything was perfectly satisfactory to all concerned. It was said that the grocery company had agreed not to press the charge against the young salesman and that O'Meara had also agreed not to sue the company for damages.

Attorney George C. Spence represented O'Meara. It is understood that the young man has accepted a position with a well-known firm in this city and will represent it on the road in the southern territory.

SIXTY-SIX GIRLS GRADUATE TONIGHT

High School Commencement Exercises Occur at Grand.

FINE PROGRAMME ARRANGED

Exercises Will Be of an Unusually Interesting Character.

MANY SEATS HAVE BEEN SOLD

Board of Education To Occupy Boxes While Board of Lady Visitors Will Attend in Body.

At the Grand this evening, and before what is expected to prove a large audience, sixty-six young ladies of the Girls' High school will receive diplomas.

Of this number forty-five will graduate in the literary department and twenty-one in the business department. The exercises are scheduled to begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock, and the faculty of the Girls' High school have requested that all who attend be in their seats before that time.

The board of education will occupy boxes, and the members of the woman's board of visitors have been complimented with seats in front. A large number of tickets have been sold, and the commencement exercises are expected to attract a large audience.

Each year these graduating exercises of the Girls' High school attract large crowds that completely fill the auditorium, balcony and gallery of the theater, and it is not to be supposed that this evening will prove an exception to the general rule. It is believed that the "Standing Room Only" sign will be displayed early in the evening.

An attractive programme has been arranged, and the entire exercises will doubtless prove interesting. The exercises are not expected to consume any great length of time.

Programme of Exercises.

The following is the programme that will be rendered:

Prayer—Class.

Chorus, "Revel of the Leaves"—Class.

Essay, "Our Future"—Miss Helen Liebman, commercial department.

Chorus, "Ebb and Flow"—Class.

Essay, "The Realist and Idealist"—Miss T. H. McBride, literary department.

Semi-chorus, "Six O'Clock in the Bay."

Essay, "Education"—Miss Alma Roberts, literary department.

Chorus, "Mountain Echoes"—Class.

Presentation of diplomas by President Smith, of the board of education.

Class march—Class leaders, Misses Minnie and Mattie Key.

Postures.

Names of Graduates.

The following are the names of the young ladies who will receive diplomas.

PLANS TO BUILD NEW CHURCH

Presbyterians Will Soon Erect New Edifice.

WILL COST ABOUT $5,000

Expected That the Building Will Be Finished Inside of Three or Four Months.

The members of the Fourth Presbyterian church, located at the corner of Chamberlain and Jackson streets, are interesting themselves in the problem of a new structure, it having been determined to build as soon as sufficient pledges of pecuniary support have been secured.

The church projected by the Fourth Presbyterians will be a neat though unpretentious structure of wood, costing in the neighborhood of $5,000 when completed. The plan has not yet been selected, neither is it known definitely where the church will be built. It is understood that the negotiations for the purchase of a suitable lot are being conducted privately, and that some $500 has been subscribed to date for that purpose. The ground will cost between $1,000 and $1,500.

The congregation, under the pastorate of Rev. Thomas P. Cleveland, has grown and been strengthened very materially, and now numbers upward of 300. Mr. Cleveland is addressing himself to the task of church building with his well-known vim and pluck and his congregation is equally in earnest in the matter. It is certain that in a few months the Fourth Presbyterians will be worshiping in a pretty and commodious new church, something that they have long needed.

Famous Generals Recommend Peruna.

Of the great Generals of the Confederate army in the United States few remain. The most conspicuous figure among these is General James Longstreet, of Gainesville, Ga. His loyalty and courage in defending the lost cause, won the admiration of the world. As a survivor of that splendid chivalry peculiar to our Southern States two generations ago, General Longstreet is one of the most unique men of this age.

General James Longstreet.

He is a man of few words, but when he does speak his opinions are accepted by his fellow-countrymen with profound respect, if not reverence. In commenting upon Peruna, the old General made use of the following language:

"I join with my comrade, General Wheeler, in testifying to the merits of Peruna, both as a tonic and a catarrh remedy. Peruna enjoys the greatest reputation as a catarrh remedy of any medicine yet devised."

JAMES LONGSTREET.

General Longstreet's reference to General Wheeler in commenting upon Peruna was occasioned by a public statement of General Wheeler some time prior, in which he had praised Peruna as a catarrh remedy and tonic. General Wheeler's signed statement was as follows:

"I join with Senators Sullivan, Roach and McEnery in their good opinion of Peruna. It is recommended to me by those who have used it as an excellent tonic and peculiarly effective as a cure for catarrh."

JOE WHEELER.

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain, and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question.

Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."

The spring is the best time to treat exhausted nerves. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicine more effective. A short course of Peruna, assisted by the balmy air of spring will cure old, stubborn cases of nervousness that have resisted treatment for years.

General Marcus Wright, 1724 Corcoran street, Washington, D. C., a prominent Confederate General, who is in charge of getting up the records of the War of the Rebellion, has the following to say in regard to Peruna:

"I take pleasure in commending Peruna. It is a remarkable medicine and should be used by persons who are in need of a good tonic and sufferers from catarrh."

General W. W. Duffield, General in the Mexican war and General of the Union Army in the late Civil war, in a letter written from "The Cairo," Washington, D. C., says the following of Peruna:

"I have used Peruna in my family and have found it a valuable medicine, and take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer from catarrh of the stomach or who require a tonic of efficiency."

General S. S. Yoder, ex-Member of Congress, from Lima, O., in a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, speaks of Peruna as follows:

"I desire to say that I have found Peruna to be a wonderful remedy. I only used it for a short time and am thoroughly satisfied as to its merits. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for the results obtained. As a catarrh cure I shall gladly recommend it to all sufferers."

Those desiring a book on spring catarrh should address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

AT THE POLICE-MATINEE

Artful Andrew's Golden Slippers.

"You are the fellow who has taken an oath, I understand," said the recorder to a tall, lank negro who is known to the police as Artful Andrew, "never to work as long as you live. The police say that you are the king bee of the organization known in Darktown as the Anti-Labor Brigade of Rusticating Gentlemen."

"Jedge, dat order am de Sons ob Rest," replied Artful Andrew.

"Well, why don't you let other folks rest some," said the recorder. "The officer says you kept everybody awake in Crooked alley last night by cursing and beating a woman."

"I wus jest er kerrectin' Sis' Percall," said the prisoner. "She borrered my yaller slippers ter wear ter de ball and she nebber cummed back till so late dat I had ter go ter town widout no shoes."

"A modern version of Cinderella," remarked Recorder Broyles. "Sis Percall wore your golden slippers and wouldn't come home when the clock struck 12. What do you say about beating her nearly to death?"

"I whupped her er time er two, but she am my own dear sister and our mudder and fader am bof dead an' Ise bin er whupping Sis Percall ebber sence her mudder died. I wus berry kind ter let her wear dem yaller slippers ter de ball, and, Jedge Briles, yer knows yerse'f dat hit am mity pervoking ter hab yer slippers gone so yer has ter go barefooted."

"I'll let you try those golden slippers on the streets for a month," the recorder told Artful Andrew, "and when you come out of the chaingang you can have some novel experiences to relate to the Sons of Rest."

Kittie Battle and Her Spoon.

"Kittie Battle made Devil's Dip a scene of terror last night," stated an officer when Kittie tripped lightly forward and asked in a low, tremulous voice:

"What hab dey got ergin me, Jedge Briles?"

"The Devil Dippers say that she ripped and snorted for six hours and threatened to convert all the Dippers into angels with her white handle razor," the officer went on to state.

"Keeping up the reputation of your last name," said the recorder to Kittie. "What made you act so cyclonic?"

"Lawd me, Jedge Briles," exclaimed Kittie, "I doan 'member doin' nuttin 'cept ter ax Mariah ter gib me back dat spoon she tuk frum me las' week. Yer see, I loant Mariah de spoon an' she nebber gib hit back and when I axed her fer hit she lowed dat I mout as well call her er thief. Ef yer loans er pusson yer silver spoon and she doan gib hit back, it 'pears ter me dat hit am mighty nigh time ter rucas an' scrap er leetle bit."

"Where did you get that spoon?" asked the recorder.

"Whar did I git hit?" replied Kittie, her voice rising from do to la. "Dat hain't got nuttin ter do wid de quesshun now 'fore dis cote. Ketch me takin' de time ter splain whar I gits ebberyting I got."

"If thought the question would cut the right way," commented the recorder. "You will have to go to the stockade a week about that spoon unless you fork over $3.75."

Smoky Gets Some Advice.

When the name of John Page was called the prisoner was a little slow about responding.

"Why didn't you answer to your name at once?" asked Recorder Broyles.

"Bekase I is mostly called Smoky," was the reply, "and hit sounds er leetle off ter hear de name ob John Page 'dressed ter me."

"Smoky must be your eclipse name," said the recorder.

Smoky wore a pair of suspenders with all sorts of gay flowers on them. He stuck his thumbs under his fleur-de-lis gallusses and said:

"Jedge, dese witnusses sez dat I knocked Liza Johnson down on de streets. De truf am dat she war tryin' ter knock me down an' all dat I done wus ter try ter keep her off. De 'oman borrered 25 cents ob my munny an' 'cause I axed her fer hit she lowed dat she war gwine ter have me sont ter de chaingang. Den she went ter fitin' jest ter git me ter hit her back so she could have me sont up. But I wus onter her game and I nebber so much as rized my hand ter hit her."

"John Page," said the recorder, "if I let you go you will have to turn over a new leaf, for I know you like a book. You have been here before. This is one time, however, when I don't exactly see through your story, Smoky, and I will let you go. Obey the admonition, neither a borrower nor a lender be, and quit wearing such gay gallusses."

BRANCH LEWIS IS INDORSED.

Well-Known Engineer Will Be Candidate from Second Ward to the City Council.

At a large meeting of labor folk and representative citizens at Federation hall last evening, Branch Lewis was unanimously indorsed as a candidate to the city council from the second ward. It is estimated that fully 250 people attended the meeting, which was presided over by Mike Riley, a prominent member and former president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

Mr. Lewis has resided in Atlanta for the past seventeen years, and for fifteen years has been an engineer on the Southern, running between this city and Chattanooga. He is a member of division No. 368, United Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and has many friends in the city. He is the only man outside the Typographical Union that has received the official commendation of that organization.

During the meeting last evening a campaign committee, composed of twelve men from each ward, was appointed, and these members will meet again at Federation hall next Thursday evening for the purpose of perfecting the plans for the campaign.

STONE CUTTER FOUND DEAD.

Hubbard Whitney Died at the Plant Hotel of Heart Failure—Found by a Negro Porter.

Hubbard Whitney, a stone cutter, was found dead in his bed at the Plant hotel, 125½ Decatur street, yesterday morning about 10 o'clock.

Whitney had been drinking. He slept Tuesday night in a room with W. T. Humphries. Yesterday morning Humphries awoke and went to work. He left Whitney asleep.

When Henry Williams, a negro porter, went to the room he found Whitney dead.

The coroner was notified, and he held an inquest in the afternoon. The verdict of the jury was that the deceased came to his death from heart failure.

Whitney came to Atlanta about three months ago from South Carolina. His birthplace is in New York, where he is said to have a mother and sister living. He had recently been working as a stone cutter for Venable Bros.

Jacobs' Dyspepsia Tablets.

What they do and how they do it.

A portion of the ingredients act upon the food eaten, one grain of digestive principle contained in them being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food. Other portions act as gentle tonics to the mucous membrane of the stomach, also have a beneficial action upon the nervous system. The tablets assist and rest the overworked stomach, which is nature's own cure for any weakness or disease. Three-fourths of our ills are the result of indigestion and dyspepsia. Cure these two, and you benefit and cure constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache and liver complaint.

The Republican Trust Bluff.

The lower house of congress is to have three days of trust talk brought out primarily by the republican joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the United States conferring power on congress to define, regulate, prohibit and dissolve trusts.

This resolution is the cheapest kind of political play. It is shoved to the front in the closing hours of congress by the republicans, who realize that the trust question is to be one of the great issues of the presidential campaign and who see that their party must make some sort of a bluff at opposition to the trusts in order to divert the attention of the people from their own failure to enact even the anti-trust laws which now stand upon the statute books.

There is nothing practical to this proposed amendment to the constitution, emanating, as it does, from the republican party, unless it is practical politics. While this comes ostensibly through the judiciary committee of the house, it was really prepared by the republicans of that committee in consultation with other republican leaders, and the committee report, instead of being submitted to the minority as is the usual course of procedure, was hurried into the house with the evident idea that the republicans in this way might secure an advantage before the country by claiming they were the first to advocate the abolition or the control of the trusts.

Of course no republican who advocates the resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution has any thought of such an amendment being grafted upon that document. As it is pointed out in the minority report submitted by the democratic members of the judiciary committee, it is quite easy to propose amendments to the constitution, but it is worth while to remember that for nearly a century that instrument has remained unchanged except for three amendments, all of which came out of the throes of the awful war between the states. The republicans know that there is absolutely no chance for the legislation they are proposing and for that reason they feel safe in advocating it.

Their other proposition to increase the penalties for non-observance of the laws which they and their courts have consistently refused to enforce in the spirit, is equally lame and inadequate. The only people who have ever been punished under the existing law which the republicans claim to have put upon the statute books have been laboring men, and the further enforcement of the law with this increased penalty would only mean increased immunity for the real trusts and immense combinations of capital which are injurious to the interests of the people.

Republican orators may be expected to do a lot of talking against the trusts during the three days they are engaged in putting campaign material into the Congressional Record in order to secure its free transmission through the mails, but nobody is going to be fooled by this sort of stuff. The trusts know in which party is their reliance, and all of the fulminations of the republican politicians for campaign effect are not going to keep trust dollars out of the republican campaign fund. There might have been a day when the people could have been fooled, but that day has passed. They know it is the republican party that is the friend of trusts just as the trusts know it.

Not an End to Hannaism.

Mr. Hanna's announcement that he does not propose to be at the head of the republican national committee during the coming campaign must be taken with some grains of allowance. It is possible that for the reasons he has stated, the condition of his health and others, the Ohio senator may cease to be the nominal head of the party organization, but this does not by any means insure a republican escape from Hannaism.

What Mr. Hanna undoubtedly means in his announcement is that much of the detail work which fell upon him four years ago will be shifted to other shoulders. Whether he is or is not the nominal head of the committee, he is as certain to be the inspiring genius of the republican campaign as he was in the two contests which landed Mr. McKinley, first as the republican nominee and afterwards in the white house.

There is nobody in the republican party who has demonstrated the possession of anything like the Ohio senator's ability in the line of holding up the great protected interests of this country for campaign fund contributions. Beyond all question it was the Hanna campaign fund which brought about republican victory in 1896, and it is equally beyond question that the only chance the republicans have of re-electing their president is through resort to the means and methods used four years ago.

The indications are that it will not be as easy a matter to secure these great contributions as it was when the republican howlers were going around the land crying out that "Bryanism" meant anarchy and that with the election of Bryan no man's dollar would be safe. In the three years and more which have followed that campaign, the people of the United States have learned that there is no anarchy in the democratic platform and no danger in democratic principles. More than that, the national banks, which furnished so large a proportion of the fund of four years ago, have been given their pound of flesh in the shape of the Gage currency bill and any ordinary campaign collector approaching those interests this year will probably be met with the suggestion that the banks have nothing further to ask and that they cannot be expected to do anything like as well as they did in 1896.

The most prolific source of republican campaign contributions will, of course, be the trusts, but it will take no ordinary man to secure from them the large sums which the republican party believes it should receive. Mr. Hanna, representing as he does the very spirit and being of the trusts and understanding that it takes force to make them disgorge their ill-gotten gains, can get results where others would fail; and there is every reason to believe, therefore, that however much he may proclaim himself out of it, Senator Hanna will still retain his position as collector-in-chief for the republicans.

Republican leaders, realizing that the tide has set in against their party, are crying out that a mammoth campaign fund must be raised, and they do not propose to let Senator Hanna shift this particular responsibility onto the shoulders of Major General Dick, First Assistant Postmaster General Heath, or even that shining light in the Hanna crowd, Major Estes G. Rathbone. They need Hanna himself, and will have him.

"The Roar of Battle."

Richard Harding Davis, in the June Scribner, thus describes the roar of a battle:

"The roar of the navy's four-point-seven's, their crash, their rush as they passed, the shrill whine of the shrapnel, the barking of the Howitzers, and the mechanical, regular rattle of the quick-firing Maxims, which sounded like the clicking of many mowing machines on a hot summer's day, tore the air with such hideous noises that one's skull ached from the concussion, and one could only be heard by shouting. But more impressive by far than this hot chorus of mighty thunder and petty hammering was the roar of the wind which was driven down into the valley beneath, and which swept up again in enormous waves of sound. It roared like a great hurricane at sea. The illusion was so complete that you expected, by looking down, to see the Tugela lashing at her banks, tossing the spray hundreds of feet in air, and battling with her sides of rock. It was the roar of Niagara in a gale, and yet when you did look below not a leaf was stirring, and the Tugela was slipping forward, flat and sluggish and in peace."

This is a notable bit of word painting and Mr. Davis improves upon Stephen Crane's description of the discharge of a cannon as "a big, black blotch of sound." His prose gives us a better idea of a heavy bombardment than any of the poets have ever given us, and this is high praise, because some of the very greatest of the world's singers have made many efforts to describe similar battle scenes. Perhaps verse is too much hampered by its limitations to suit such themes. The ragged, thunderous sentences of Carlyle met the requirements of the case, and this makes the success of Davis all the more worthy of a passing mention. This clever literary man and journalist has transferred the "tumultuous horror" of battle to paper in one paragraph—a paragraph in which every word counts, and in which every printed line is an indispensable part of the picture.

Moreover, this word-painter has not been tempted to sacrifice either sense, diction or rhetoric to the craze for mere sound, which generally seizes the writer who tries to give his readers an idea of the rush, rattle and roar of a great conflict.

The Schoolmaster's Work.

Everywhere in this broad land the eclipse of Monday was viewed with interest, but without the slightest alarm.

Thirty and forty years ago any exceptional phenomenon in the heavens, or any disturbance, such as an earthquake, frightened the ignorant into fits, and the most terrible things were predicted.

The big comet, just before our civil war, was regarded by many as the forerunner of war, famine or pestilence, and people were as badly scared as they were a generation before by the shower of falling stars, or earlier still by the famous "dark day."

The eclipse shortly after the war alarmed the negroes, and many ignorant whites were very apprehensive. At that time, if astronomers had pitched their tents in some districts, with their long telescopes, there would have been serious trouble.

Now, everything is different. Out in the country the negro field hands speculate in their blundering way upon the queer conduct of the moon in passing between us and the sun, but they are ready for their regular noon-day meal, just as usual. When such things occur we no longer hear of people going crazy or starting a religious revival.

Earthquakes and cyclones are viewed more seriously, because their destructive results are widely known, but signs in the sky, shooting stars, meteors, eclipses and such small matters do not worry anybody, not even Mr. Markham's "Man with the Hoe."

This remarkable change is directly schoolmaster. That persistent and active factor has been abroad in the land for many years. He has penetrated every nook and corner of the continent, and the portents and omens of former days are now disregarded.

Treading on the heels of the schoolmaster has followed the newspaper man, and between the two the ignorant and superstitious classes have been greatly enlightened. Public education has strengthened the general intelligence of the masses. Newspapers are almost countless, and their cost is a trifle. They work hand in hand with the schools, and they described, explained and pictured the eclipse so many months in advance, and rammed so much information into the people that it was almost impossible for any man to be taken by surprise.

This is a pretty good indication that we are moving forward, and it is a very handsome tribute to the enlightening work of the schoolmaster and the newspaper man who is his close second.

Woman's Work for Woman.

An organization of wide scope and great usefulness which has sprung into existence of late years in this country is the Young Woman's Christian Association, similar in many respects to the much older organization known as the Young Men's Christian Association.

So manifold have become the allurements of our modern life, especially in the large centers of population throughout the country, that the necessity has arisen of providing strong religious safe-guards not only for the young men who are exposed on every hand to the assaults of temptation, but for the young women as well. Thoughtful Christian people have long been convinced of the fact that something was needed to hold in check the influences of worldliness which were fast weaning the young womanhood of the land away from the orthodox standards of earlier days, and this wise and benevolent forethought is the germ from which the Young Woman's Christian Association has derived its existence.

Branch organizations have been established in most of the large cities and towns of the country and also in the various colleges and universities. Special stress has been laid upon the work in connection with the various educational institutions, and some idea of the vast proportions into which the movement has grown of late years may be derived from the fact that the names of more than twenty thousand undergraduates are today found upon the rolls of the Young Woman's Christian Association in the southern states alone, besides the much larger number made up of those who are not in attendance upon any of the institutions of learning.

Every year summer conferences of the association are held at convenient points throughout the country so as to enable as many of the members to attend as possible. On account of the rapid growth of the association in recent years the American committee has found it necessary to hold summer conferences at three different places, and this year they will be held as follows: Southern conference at Asheville, N. C., June 15-25; Western conference at Lake Geneva, Wis., June 29th to July 9th, and Eastern conference at Northfield, Mass., July 13-30th. Dates have been so arranged that parties desiring to attend all of the conferences can do so. Of course in this part of the country special interest attaches to the conference which will take place at Asheville, N. C., and no doubt each of the southern states will be well represented by delegates. Last year there were over one hundred delegates in attendance upon the conference, representing ten southern states. Pleasure and business will be combined at the conference and besides discussing many important matters relating to the work of the association several delightful excursions to points in the neighborhood of Asheville will be taken.

With the purposes underlying the Young Woman's Christian Association there must be universal accord on the part of those who desire to see the world made better. In seeking to enlist the young womanhood of the land in the cause of reform on Christian lines the movement endeavors to utilize one of the most potential forces of our civilization, and success is as certain to follow the movement as day is to follow night.

Up-to-Date Preaching.

According to a special in yesterday's Constitution, a Chattanooga preacher, last Sunday, "roasted the local ice company royally." He denounced the company as "a conspiracy to oppress the poor and curry favor with the rich."

In conclusion he spoke of such a combination as being "unfair and unjust, and morally criminal," and said that it should be made legally so, in order to give the people an opportunity of obtaining redress.

This preacher may have stated the facts of the case, and he may not have been too severe. But we respectfully submit that he did not go about the business in the proper way. His subject was not a gospel theme, and his address was not suited to the pulpit. He should have ventilated the matter on a week day, at a public meeting, or through the columns of the press.

We have so much of this sort of preaching lately that it is becoming a nuisance. It is secularizing and degrading the pulpit. Matters are coming to such a pass that in some places citizens who want to hear politics, scandals and exposures of municipal and corporation wrong-doing go to hear the Rev. Dr. Bulldozer every Sunday night, instead of reading the daily papers.

This prostitution of the pulpit should not be allowed to continue. It has gone too far already, and it is time to call a halt.

If the Rev. Dr. Bulldozer is allowed full swing, without even being held responsible when he occasionally slanders an innocent victim, it will not be strange if Christian people avoid his church and leave it to the sensation-loving rabble.

An ice trust is a bad thing, but so is the Rev. Dr. Bulldozer.

The Election in Oregon.

Political weather prophets are speculating heavily upon the outcome of the election which takes place in Oregon next Monday. They contend that while it may not settle the result of the presidential fight in November, it will serve as an indication of what may happen.

In republican quarters there is not as much confidence in the result as ordinarily exists when there is much ground for hope, and with each prediction of success there is mingled some slight reservation of doubt.

The uneasiness is well grounded. Four years ago Oregon went republican by the small plurality of 2,117 votes out of 97,337 votes cast in the election. This margin is entirely too small to justify any rational degree of confidence in the result of the election in November, especially in view of the disaffection which has sprung up in republican ranks over the policy of the administration in dealing with our new possessions.

But stress is laid upon the fact that two years ago Oregon went republican by increased majorities. Even this is no assured indication of continuous republican allegiance. Two years ago the war with Spain was still in progress and the necessity of upholding the administration was used as the battle cry in the campaign, regardless of the fact that the democrats of the country were as active as the republicans in prosecuting the war, but since that time the blunders of the administration have been so numerous that many former supporters have been forced to quit the party standard.

Without undertaking to forecast the result of Monday's election in Oregon it suffices to observe that Oregon is today in the doubtful column and whatever may be the result of Monday's election it is likely to remain in the doubtful column until next November.

Other states in which elections occur prior to the election in November are North Carolina on August 2d, Alabama on August 6th, Arkansas on September 3d, Vermont on September 4th, and Maine on September 10th.

An Old English Chestnut.

Our funny British cousins are happy at last. It is announced that the house of lords has passed, on its second reading, by a vote of 116 to 13, the bill permitting a man to marry his deceased wife's sister.

Salisbury and Abercorn opposed it, but in the majority were the prince of Wales, the duke of Connaught, the duke of Devonshire and the marquis of Lansdowne. The big majority makes it certain that the bill will become a law, and its friends cheered the announcement of the vote.

In perhaps every session of parliament for sixty years this bill has been introduced and defeated. The queen has always been against it, and many good people regarded it almost with a feeling of horror.

The agitation of the question for two generations has disturbed the British mind to such an extent that the average married Englishman, with a sister-in-law, has been popularly supposed to be always contemplating the possibility of marrying her some day, in the event of the death of his spouse.

Several famous female novelists have taken the matter up in their stories, and they have dwelt upon the terrible grief of their widower heroes who were in love with their sisters-in-law, and unable to wed them.

In real life several notable cases occurred in which prominent and wealthy men carried their sisters-in-law to foreign lands and married them there. After these unions, however, much unhappiness resulted, because the parties knew that they could not return to England and be recognized as lawfully married.

The newspaper humorists have been joking about this serious subject for many years. Punch gravely suggested that the best way out of the difficulty was for a man to marry his deceased wife's sister first, but it is needless to say that this did not meet the emergency.

Undoubtedly the heated controversy over the question in religious circles, in the newspapers and in parliament had a bad effect from a moral point of view, and it is to be hoped that the bill will pass. Almost anything would be better than to have thousands of broken-hearted Britons stalking about in an atmosphere of gloom, and grieving themselves to death because the law stood between them and the sisters of their dead wives.

We Americans regard the situation as very ridiculous, but it has long been a very serious matter over the water. The coming change in the law will be very objectionable to the queen, but it will be noted that the prince of Wales is one of the champions of the bill.

TALKS ABOUT ATLANTA.

Cuthbert, Ga., Liberal-Enterprise: Atlanta is doing herself proud and honors for Georgia in her entertainment of the general assembly of the southern Presbyterian church. Their sessions have been pleasant, profitable and harmonious. The assembly holds its next annual session at Little Rock, Ark.

Culloden, Ga., Herald: Atlanta will not be eclipsed Monday. Atlanta is uneclipsable anyway.

Meriwether Vindicator: The Atlanta "mud shack" still stands a monument to the city's progress and bluster.

Campbell County News: A question for your Sunday hour: How long would it take Atlanta to go to hades if it was not for the watchful eye and guiding hand of the Rev. Dr. Len G. Broughton?

Campbell County News: Recorder Broyles is determined to stop drunkenness on the public thoroughfares of Atlanta. A plain drunk on Whitehall street will cost $15.75, and price subject to advance without further notice.

Rochelle, Ga., New Era: Dr. Len Broughton is still displeased. This time he is censuring the ladies of Atlanta for giving an entertainment a few nights ago for charitable purposes. The trouble with Dr. Broughton is that the people of Atlanta don't consult him when they wish to do anything. If the ladies and officials of that city would first get the consent of the doctor when they wish to get up an entertainment or pass an ordinance, his wailings would no doubt be less.

THE STATE PRESS.

Queen Elberta.

Montezuma, Ga., Record: Peach growers about Montezuma and throughout this territory, the domain of Queen Elberta, are preparing to handle the earlier varieties of peaches, which will be ready in two weeks. Railroad men are expecting to begin the movement of Georgia peaches very early this season. By June 1st, it is thought, several cars will have been moved, and after that the movement will steadily increase. The Central, which has the finest fruit territory of any road in the state, and other lines have made special preparations for the handling of the crop.

Trouble Ahead.

Dahlonega, Ga., Nugget: There seems to be trouble ahead of the negro census enumerators in Georgia. Says The Gibson Record: "The colored census enumerators are causing some trouble in some sections of the country now. It looks pretty tough to see one of them go into your home and you are forced to give him your census. The enumerator in Columbia county is likely to resign or trouble may arise."

A Farmer's Mill.

Dalton, Ga., Argus: The Argus would like to see the farmers of this section subscribe all the stock and build a farmers' cotton mill. The keynote of their prosperity would be sounded. The farmer raises the cotton, and if he had a mill to manufacture it, he would get the lion's share—which he should have. The stock could be sold at $50 or $100 a share, and 500 or 1,000 farmers, or a less number, could soon be found to give it a start. The man who will perfect such an enterprise will do more for the farmers of northwest Georgia than politics has done for him in twenty years.

JUST FROM GEORGIA.

We March Together Now.

The word comes down from Louisville:
"The boys are all in line,
An' the bands are playin' 'Dixie,' an' they're cheerin' of it fine!
An' this word comes from the valley, an'
the mountains' shiny brow:
'We who were once divided—we march together now!' "

It's just the word we're waitin' fer! In all the land today
The old Grand Army yeterans still cheer the boys in gray!
Once foes, but now all friendly—no hot tears for the past,
But thanks that we are marching on, in honor all, at last!

'Fore God they make a proud array! these veterans that stand
And toss their hats when "Dixie" comes ringing from the band!
But, not forgetful of the strife—of every battle-blast,
They're thankful, in God's country, they're all at home at last!

A Wedding Invitation.

A correspondent sends us the following unique invitation to a colored wedding ceremony in Liberty county:

"Dear Sir: You an' yo' lady is hereby invite to a social weddin' of Mr. Joe Meansly to Miss Sue Wilkins, on Wednesday night, weather permittin'. Admission, ladies, 15 cents; gentlemens, 25; childrens, 10. Also, please bring a present with you, if it ain't but 5 cents worth. There will be a dance. Come one, come all!"

When You're Away.

When you're away
I sing—I say:
"No winter e'er shall drift to May;
Nor any bird in blossoms sing
Nor any violet breathe of spring!"
So do I sing—so do I say,
When you're away,
When you're away!

When you're away
Blue skies seem gray;
The sunflowers then no sun obey;
They only turn that way you went,
And roses droop in discontent.
So do I sing—so do I say,
When you're away,
When you're away!

A Love Note.

I.

Twilight, and stars, and loneliness—the day
Hath led me to Life's dwelling-place once more,
Saying unto my sad heart all the way:
If only she could meet me at the door!
How would my heart bound at the tinkling latch!
How would I bless the sod beneath my feet!
Even a cottage, with a roof of thatch,
If shared with her were palace-fair and sweet!
If she were there—there where no light I see,—
If she were waiting with a kiss for me!

II.

I think that Love the veriest tyrant is;
For, when I say that I will love no more
He smiles so sweetly with those lips of his
My sad heart throbs in thralldom, as before.
O yet once more to look upon thy face!
O yet once more to drink, as men drink wine,
Thy kisses, sweet, and in a last embrace
To hold Love's form in ecstasy divine!
But I have said that I will love no more,
And hence, for me, Love's ecstacy is o'er.

An Atlanta Magazine.

The Alkahest shows decided improvement in its literary features. The May number has some notable poems and sketches. Among the poems the one entitled "April Skies," by Alice Pettus Dillard, is very beautiful. It is as follows:

"O tearful April sky!
I, looking on you, sigh
For days long past, when I might weep like you!
Might in a gush of tears
Soothe childish grief and fears,
Leaving life's April sky more clear and blue.

"O sunny April sky!
Whose tears are scarcely dry
Upon the faces of the young spring flowers,
Even these sad lips have smiled
When this heart's tempest wild
Has caused mine eyes to rain such heavy showers!"

There is also a spirited poem by Harris Dickson, the celebrated author.

Dooly County Spring Poem.

Dooly County News:

As these few lines I write
With the twilight on the flicker,
My head is full of ideas
And homemade corn licker.

I sorter feel as I orter
Be a president or a king,
And then I feel as if
I'd ruther set and sing.

My tongue is mighty thick,
My eyes they sorter sting,
I see the old still a settin' thar
Beyond the pasture spring.

I can't finish this poem,
My head is not the same,
Too drunk, too drunk,
To even sign my name.

Diversity.

Fort Valley, Ga., Leader: Here is a practical home lesson in diversity of crops from the facts, figures and experience of a Houston county planter.

This is what he sold from his farm in 1898:

1,000 bushels corn	$ 500
Seventy-five bales cotton	1,875
Two hundred bushels potatoes	100
Meat	175
Cattle	75
Peas	25
Fodder	20
Cotton seed	50
Total	$2,800

This does not include 1,000 bushels of corn consumed on the farm and other products (cotton excepted) for home consumption.

He has 765 acres of medium land, 500 of which are in cultivation. He employs seven regular hands and works seven mules. The gross income for the year was $2,800 and this does not include products not sold but used to pay labor, feed stock and reduce the family expenses to almost nothing. The income for 1899 was about the same. There is, in these figures, a lesson for every Georgia farmer.

SOCIAL LIFE IN MANILA.

The fashionable life of London, Paris or New York cuts only a small figure in Manila, but the dictates of local custom are almost as exact as in any of these society centers. The hours for performing social duties and the manner of doing are very well understood and closely observed in this far eastern city.

The activity of the people begins early in the day, rests and sleeps in midday, reaches its most exciting hours about sunset, follows on its enjoyment until midnight or after and sleeps again. The English and Spanish people exercise early—before the heat of day—do their shopping about 9 or 10 o'clock, have a light luncheon about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, sleep, have afternoon tea, take a cold bath and dress to go out at 4:30 or 5 o'clock. The best period of the day begins about this time. Every one drives, and after calls the Luneta is the objective point for all. Here a band plays daily at 5:30 o'clock.

The scene on the Luneta is very bizarre and cosmopolitan. Spanish, English, Swiss, German, East Indian, Chinese, native and mestize men and women mingle with the strong majority of Americans. Imagine the variety of colors in the grouping of high Roman Catholic bishops and dignitaries, white-robed priests, black friars, both Spanish and Filipino; American officers in white duck or khaki, American soldiers in brown and released Spanish prisoners in blue; wealthy Chinese merchants in heliotrope, blue or white silk; East Indians from Bombay in queer skirts; Spanish women with enormous pompadour coiffures and painted faces; English women in French hats; native women in the national dress of the Filipinos; American women in light, thin gowns; Chinese nursemaids in long blue coats and black trousers, caring for the children of English, Spanish and American families. The intermingling of all these people is the pleasant social feature of the day-to-day life. Everybody comes out to see his friends, to hear the music and to see the glorious sunset.

The Luneta drive is a large loop on the bay shore, with the center within the oval elevated for a promenade. The bandstand is in the middle of the promenading space, large fountains at either end. Stone seats are scattered about freely. The view is toward the open sea across Manila bay. On a clear day Cavite, in front of which place the sunken Spanish hulks lie, may be seen. Beyond and farther out lies the Island of Corregidor, whose flashlight Admiral Dewey passed in safety the night before the battle of the 1st of May. Over the horizon the sun drops with a truly tropical garnishness. After the sun has gone and the short twilight has passed the Luneta blazes with electric light.

A never-ending line of carriages, moving always to the right, passes around the Luneta; two or three lines stop along the curb of the promenade or of the beach side of the road, and there is much visiting going on. People speed past one another down the Malacan drive to Simon de Arda monument—for the native coachman loves to drive as fast as he can—stop there and listen to the music or watch the boats on the Pasig river, and run back to the Luneta, only to repeat the above performances or to join the groups of carriages assembled there.

Spaniards are fond of good horses of high mettle, and one sees during an evening on the Luneta many well-matched pairs of fat little native horses, which really have quite a bit of speed, although their gait is of the toddling order. Spaniards and Englishmen in Manila seldom drive their own horses, so the favorite carriage is a low victoria, with a high seat for the native cochero. The calesa, a two-wheeled cart with a cochero's seat behind, driven with one horse, is quite popular with the Americans and some others who enjoy driving. The carromata is liked by the bachelors. It is also two-wheeled, with one horse, but the coachman drives from a small seat in front. One sees occasionally a brougham, a quilez or a four-wheeled calesa.

Dinner follows upon coming from the drive. Dances are necessarily late in the evening, the music beginning at out 10 o'clock. The idea of hospitality among the residents is to dance and dine the whole night through and often into the next day. The Spaniards and Filipinos are nothing if not free-hearted and long-suffering in entertaining guests.

Among the European women styles in dress are in a small way after those in vogue in Paris and London, but among the native women, who have a manner of dressing all their own, the fashion originates in Manila. Just now the pina cloth, with dainty embroidery done in thread, which the American women have admired so much, is not in the mode. The proper stuff is of open weaving, with the embroidery made in colored silks and narrow ribbon, in flower and butterfly designs. Alarming plaids and stripes are the proper things in gingham skirts; silk is used, but satin prevails for more elegant ones, with embroidery of gold thread and colored silks. The most elaborate work is spread over the train of the skirt. Slippers are soles with a little toe piece of satin or velvet. The most dressy ones for dances have high heels, but ordinary ones are flat. Only the most fastidious wear stockings and almost none attempt hats. Smoking is good form for native women as well as men on the Luneta, at balls, musicales or anywhere.

Spanish houses prevail for all the better classes of residents. The great broad halls have great flights of stairs of mahogany which make one long to take them home, the drawing rooms are spacious and attractive, with floors beautifully polished and frescoed walls and ceilings of canvas—a precaution in building against destruction by earthquake—sparkling glass-bedangled chandeliers and enormous French plate mirrors. With the deep, cool wicker chairs and Vienna bent wood stiff chairs quite an assembly could be seated. Yet the effect is not one of overcrowding. The dining room table, with a top of one piece of choice mahogany, is frequently large enough to seat sixteen or twenty people. The ceiling is often decorated with some pretty summer scene of cupids and flowers and birds. It is delightful to dine here, with numbers of soft-footed native boys serving noiselessly, the cool, slow punkah fanning and the breeze from the bay drawing through the wide-open windows.

Before the last insurrection of Spanish times, about the year 1896, Manila was considered the most attractive for its social life of all the cities of the far east. Even Shanghai, "the Paris of the East," as it is called, was not so gay. With tennis and golf, horseback riding, rowing and sailing, there was no lack of sport. With concerts and drives on the Luneta, the pony races at Santa Mesa, where the gentlemen rode, dances at the handsome English club and at the Hotel Oriente and receptions on the Spanish men-of-war, there was a diversity in social events, added to the smaller happenings, which must have made the life interesting and charming. The fascinating gardens of palms and bamboo, the very blue sea and the deep cerulean sky above the purple mountains, the gorgeous red and tawny yellow sunsets, the brilliant stars and the enchanting white light of the tropical moon are there for a setting to all social functions the year round. The effect of the wars has been to quiet all this gayety, but one can foresee that peace will bring back the festivity of old Spanish days, with perhaps a strong mixture of American ideas of social amusement.—Ethelyn Emery Hutton in The Chicago Record.

Danger Signal.

Rochelle New Era: It is almost dangerous for people to roam the woods now, for the bullrush is out, the cowslips along until the dogwood barks; the flowers carry pistols and the young buds shoot. Even the sturdy oak becomes alarmed and tries to leave out.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

If Rev. Edgar M. Levy, of Philadelphia, is made chaplain of the national republican convention, which meets in Philadelphia this year, Georgia interest in the prayer of invocation will be much greater than usual. Dr. Levy is a native of this state, having first seen the light of day at St. Mary's, Ga., on November 23, 1822, nearly seventy-eight years ago. He is one of the most picturesque figures in the American pulpit at the present day and moreover he has taken part in some of the most important political gatherings in the history of the country, making it exceedingly appropriate that he should be called upon by the committee on arrangements to open the proceedings of the convention with prayer. On good authority it is learned that he has been invited to accept the office of chaplain, but he has not been heard from yet. Dr. Levy was chaplain of the convention of 1856, which brought the republican party into existence, and nominated John C. Fremont for president. Leaving Georgia in early childhood Dr. Levy went with his parents to Philadelphia, where, in 1843, he was ordained to the ministry and made pastor of Epiphany church. For fourteen years he remained pastor of this church. He then went to Newark, N. J., and was pastor of the South Baptist church for ten years. He returned to Philadelphia and became pastor of the New Tabernacle church, where he remained for sixteen years. Dr. Levy's father was connected with anti-slavery societies, and the first vote of Dr. Levy was for Henry Clay.

REV. EDGAR M. LEVY.

George W. Dart, an inmate of the soldiers home at Marshallstown, Ia., claims to be the man who placed the stars and stripes on the confederate capitol at Columbia, S. C., and formally announced the collapse of the confederate government in May, 1865.

Mr. Dart, who formerly lived at Attica, N. Y., enlisted at Clinton, Ia., in 1861, in company G, of the Thirteenth Iowa, one of the regiments of the famous Crocker brigade. His term of service expired at Vicksburg Miss., in December, 1863, when he re-enlisted as a corporal and served until July 24, 1865.

Dart was the color guard of the Thirtieth Iowa on Sherman's famous march to the sea. When the troops arrived near the confederate capital, Dart, accompanied by the lieutenant colonel of the regiment and a few others, entered the outskirts of Columbia with colors flying. The streets were lined with confederate soldiers, principally the southern troops of cavalry, who had been expecting an assault upon the capital for days. When the small squad of unionists appeared the confederates thought the entire union army must be near, and fled in great haste and disorder. At the capitol building Dart passed the guards and climbed to the roof, where he swung the stars and stripes to the breeze from the staff on the top of the building.

Dart's deed has prominent place in the records and the histories of the Army of Tennessee and is mentioned as one of the most brilliant acts of the campaign.

Among his keepsakes, Mr. Dart highly treasures and prizes a little faded rag, which is all that is left of the banner used at Columbia that bright May morning. It came into his possession through Adjutant General George Baker, who had charge of Iowa's military operations during the civil war. Dart says he wouldn't exchange the little faded piece of silk for the best farm in Iowa.

Adam Ortseifen, of Chicago, who is the choice of the Cook county democrats for the gubernatorial nomination this summer, has not been long in politics, but he has demonstrated superb qualities of leadership. Mr. Ortseifen was born in Montabauer, Germany, in 1854, he came to this country while still almost a child and settled in Chicago in 1873. The bustle of this young western giant, just then shaking off the ashes of 1871, attracted him. For a time he was in the painting and decorating business. Then he formed a connection with the old Downer-Bemis Brewing Company, now the McAvoy Brewing Company, one of the largest institutions of its kind in Chicago. He has been a part of that business enterprise ever since, rising from one post to another as time and experience fitted him. He is now and for nine years has been vice president of the corporation and its general manager. Mr. Ortseifen was all but dragooned into accepting the nomination for city treasurer last spring because he was a good democrat and a strong German vote was wanted on the ticket with Mayor Harrison. Now he is drafted as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination for similar reasons. Mr. Ortseifen has been a leading member and a chief officer of the South Side Turngemeinde, and is connected with nearly all of the German societies and the south side social clubs.

Atlanta Got the First.

Tifton, Ga., Gazette: The first shipment of peaches for 1900 went forward from Tifton Monday. They were Sneads, fully ripe, and were from the J. S. Crooks place.

They were consigned to an Atlanta house, and were the first peaches of the season to arrive in the Capital City, being ahead of the Florida crop.

They sold like hot cakes and created no little favorable comment. Returns of $6 per crate were wired back next day.

Several growers followed with shipments Tuesday, Wednesday and yesterday, the entire shipments for the week amounting to nearly a hundred crates.

FRESH AIR OUTING FOR CHILDREN TO BE GIVEN BY KING'S DAUGHTERS

There Will Be a Series of Three Picnics Given by the Organization at Grant Park.

FIRST OCCURS JUNE 10TH

Invitations to Children To Go Out by City Wards.

POLICE ARE SECURING NAMES

Affair Promises To Be One of the Biggest Events of the Kind That Has Ever Occurred in the City—The Arrangements.

The members of the police force have been working quietly for two days, under instructions from the chief of police, locating children in the city who will be entitled to an invitation from the King's Daughters to attend a fresh air trip and a picnic at Grant park.

That this outing promises to be one of the largest and grandest affairs that has ever resulted from the efforts of those noble women who have banded themselves together to do good to humanity is already assured.

It was deemed best to work quietly at first until the arrangements had been partially effected before making the matter public.

Some days ago the King's Daughters held a meeting and decided upon the fresh air outing for the children. It was known that the undertaking was a gigantic one, and the plan adopted was to give a series of picnics, taking the children by city wards.

The first outing will occur on Tuesday, June 10th, at Grant park, and the children who reside in the first and second wards will be invited.

Later, probably two or three weeks, the children of the third and fourth wards will be given a picnic at the park. Then will follow the third outing for the children of the fifth, sixth and seventh wards.

It was known that to secure the names and addresses of all the deserving children who ought to be invited would be a great and laborious undertaking, and the police were appealed to. Chief Manly willingly gave his assistance, and he notified his captains to have their men secure the names of the poor children on their respective beats, and to hand the names into his office.

A Great Event for Them.

There are hundreds of little children, many of whom toil hard every day in the week, who never have a chance of recreation, and to them a day at Grant park and a sumptuous dinner would be an event in their young lives which would never be forgotten.

The Atlanta Railway and Power Company is to be asked for cars, if not free, at as low cost as possible; the people of the city upon whom fortune has cast some of its smiles will be asked to make donations of baskets of lunches and clothes for the children who have not garments fit to be worn to the feast.

All of this will take hard work, and so the King's Daughters held another meeting yesterday and appointed committees to look after the details of the affair.

The committees now in charge of the work are as follows:

On entertainment—Mrs. C. E. Pierson, Mrs. Hunnicutt and Mrs. Hudson.

On arrangements and soliciting—Mrs. C. F. Goree, Miss Aulean Akers and Mrs. W. A. Woolbright.

On invitations—Mrs. E. M. Layton, Miss Emma Blodgett and Miss Mamie Whitson.

The committee on invitations is the one which is securing the names of the children who are to be invited, and Mrs. Layton called in person on Chief Manly two days ago and made the appeal to him to assist the King's Daughters in the work.

How the Work Will Be Done.

Just how many children there will be the committee has no idea. Mrs. Layton was seen last night by a reporter of The Constitution at her home, No. 304 Crew street, and asked about the noble work the King's Daughters are doing. She said:

"We can make no sort of an estimate of the number of children to be invited. We intend to have every child in the city whose parents are too poor to give them a day in the park to attend the picnic. We will give clothes to those who have not garments good enough to wear, and we will have more than enough to feed them, no matter how many there will be. We fully realize the immensity of the undertaking, but we will not falter. When we make the appeal through the newspapers for lunches we know Atlanta well enough to feel certain that hundreds of baskets will be placed at our disposal, and the clothes we need will also be forthcoming. We hope to get the street car company to donate us all the cars we need, and the committee to look after that will make the request. If children are found at work we will appeal to their employers to give them a day with full pay."

Mrs. Layton and the two young ladies on the committee will make a personal canvass of the first and second wards in the next three or four days. They will be greatly assisted by the police, but they will not depend entirely upon what the officers do.

The request will be made to everybody to send in names and addresses of children who are deemed entitled to an invitation to the big picnic.

Next Wednesday the King's Daughters will meet again and the committees will be expected to report that all the arrangements have been made.

DESIRE BUSINESS LICENSE REMOVED

Many Citizens Petition the City Council.

THEY WANT AN INCOME TAX

Petition Was Filed Yesterday Morning with City Clerk Greene.

TO BE READ IN COUNCIL NEXT MONDAY

The Petition, Which Is Rather Caustic in Several Places, Was Signed by 215 Citizens.

A petition signed by 215 citizens of Atlanta, which asks that the present license system of taxation be abolished and an advalorum and income tax substituted, was filed yesterday morning with City Clerk W. D. Greene and will be read to council next Monday afternoon.

The petition was filed with the clerk by S. M. Truitt, the Mitchell street grocer, who is said to have been a leader in the work of its circulation. The signers of the petition are owners of all sorts of businesses in Atlanta, and the fact that they put their signatures to the kind of petition that was filed yesterday morning proves them to be thoroughly in earnest.

Many portions of the petition are rather caustic and the person who drew it is evidently under the impression that the present license law is directed more against the poorer classes than against their more fortunate fellow citizens.

The petition, it is said, has been in circulation several months and when it reached the office of the city clerk yesterday morning it was worn and soiled. Seven typewritten pages are required to tell what is wanted by the petitioners. The first page is a sort of preamble, telling of the present law, which the petition says is unjust and dishonest, and then follow thirty-one reasons why the present system should be abolished and the advalorum and income tax substituted.

Just exactly what the petitioners want abolished does not appear at first glance, but a careful reading of the document shows that they want the tax on business, not the tax on the stock of goods, but the license for doing business, done away with.

The petition will be read during the meeting of council next Monday afternoon and it is difficult to predict what will be done with it.

Among those who signed the petition are:

George S. May, J. C. Wilson, S. M. Truitt, A. C. Ward, French Strange, J. A. Burney, A. J. Wurm, A. A. Vernoy, George C. Clarke, Joseph A. Willingham, H. P. Bramlett, C. C. Arrowood, Charles M. Brightwell, James D. Carter, C. A. Wooster and Harry Silverman.

DOROTHY OWENS IS DEAD.

She Was the Only Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Owens.

Little Dorothy Owens, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Owens, died yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, after a brief illness. This announcement will cause general sorrow among the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Owens, who know with what tenderness they loved the little one.

Had the little one lived, she would have been one year old June 8th. Frail and delicate as a flower, her few brief months were rays of sunshine to those around her. So softly did death approach that those watching at the bedside of the little one mistook His coming for slumber.

The funeral will take place from the residence this afternoon.

FLOWERS FOR FEDERAL DEAD

Graves of the Union Soldiers at Marietta Decorated Yesterday

WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

Several G. A. R. Posts and Many People from Abroad Hear Dr. McLaughlin's Address.

Federal Decoration day was appropriately observed yesterday at Marietta, where are buried the union dead who fell in the great battle of Kennesaw Mountain and the many battles fought in the vicinity of Atlanta. The hundreds of graves in the national cemetery had over each a small flag, and flowers were profusely scattered upon them by the school children of Marietta and the members of the several Grand Army of the Republic posts from Atlanta and elsewhere.

The roads entering Marietta ran special trains, and quite a crowd of Atlantians went to swell the large concourse of people assembled to pay homage to the heroes in blue who sleep in the land of the stranger.

The large procession, headed by a brass band, left the depot at 10:30 o'clock. The Grand Army of the Republic posts marching in the line were: Blue Ridge Post No. 6, Jasper, Ga.; Woman's Auxiliary, Post No. 1, and Woman's Relief Corps; O. M. Mitchel Post No. 1, Atlanta; J. B. Steadman Post No. 4, Tallapoosa; W. T. Sherman Post No. 16, Blue Ridge; Sons of Veterans organizations. A large number of carriages, horsemen and pedestrians followed the veterans to the cemetery.

After the assembly had been sounded and a selection played by the band, Rev. F. E. Jenkins, of Atlanta, delivered a touching prayer. A double male quartet, led by Professor W. D. Hart, of Atlanta, beautifully sang "Soldier Rest." Department and national orders were read by the adjutant, and Chaplain R. P. Beecher read Abraham Lincoln's famous address made on the Gettysburg battlefield.

Rev. Dr. W. H. McLaughlin, pastor of the Universalist church, of Atlanta, was the speaker of the day. His remarks were truly eloquent, conveying the finest sentiments of patriotism and fraternity. His eulogy of the soldiery of both sides is seldom equaled in oratory of the kind.

After more vocal and instrumental music, closing with "America," in which everybody joined, the labor of love was begun by the women and children in white. The task of decoration was no small one, but it was accomplished thoroughly.

I hereby announce my candidacy for council from the second ward, subject to the coming primary. BRANCH LEWIS.

TROOPS GUARD GEORGIA TOWN

Company L, First Regiment, Patrols Andersonville.

TWO ARRESTS ARE MADE

Decoration Day Drew Large Crowd of Negroes to Federal Cemetery.

COLONEL OBEAR WAS IN COMMAND

Troops from Americus Were Under Orders from Governor To Protect Andersonville Citizens and Their Property from Encroachment.

Company L, Fourth Georgia regiment, Americus, under orders from Governor Candler, and under the immediate direction of Adjutant General W. G. Obear, left Americus shortly after daybreak yesterday morning for Andersonville to give protection to the citizens of the town against the lawless negro mob that yearly visits the Andersonville federal cemetery.

Arrangements for the movement of Captain Clark's command of sixty men to Andersonville were made several days ago, but the fact that the troops were going was guarded by the chief executive, who feared that any previous advertisement would only excite the negroes and lead to unnecessary trouble. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Governor Candler received a telegram from the inspector general notifying him of the arrest of two negroes on the charge of assault and anticipating trouble with the crowd when the time arrived to take the prisoners to Americus.

The dispatch from Colonel Obear stated that the celebration of federal Decoration day had been conducted on the whole more quietly than the one of last year, and that the presence of state troops had appeared to bring about this result. Governor Candler remained at his office until a late hour last evening to be in ready communication with the inspector general in case any serious trouble should develop at Andersonville; but up to the time of his departure for the mansion nothing further had been received.

Troops Protected City Alone.

The orders of the governor were emphatic that company L, of the fourth regiment, should confine itself to the protection of the property and people of Andersonville, and not to exercise authority in the federal reservation near the town where the negroes, several thousand in numbers, were congregated. The experience of the past few years has been that on Decoration day innumerable fights take place, and a fair average is one man killed each year in the drunken rows. The number of negroes in the counties adjoining to Sumter, who leave off work and go to Andersonville on May 30th, has greatly increased in the last few years, and the town authorities—as was the case last year—are entirely unable to cope with them. Faced with such conditions as these, Governor Candler listened to the request of the citizens of Andersonville several weeks ago, and determined then that he would protect the place with state troops.

A late dispatch which reached Governor Candler last night indicated that no serious trouble had been experienced in getting the two negroes arrested for assault on the train to Americus, where they were finally landed.

GRAVES AT ANDERSONVILLE.

Four Thousand People Gather To Pay Respect to Dead.

Andersonville, Ga., May 30.—(Special.)—The fourteen thousand graves in the National cemetery here were decorated today. At least four thousand persons participated. Special trains from Columbus, Macon, Dothan, Eufaula, Americus and Fitzgerald began to arrive by 10 o'clock, bringing the crowds, together with the one thousand who arrived by private conveyance, the majority of whom assembled to join in the memorial exercises conducted by representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic from Macon, Atlanta and Fitzgerald. The address was delivered by Colonel A. S. Darnell, of Ellijay, Ga. One company of United States regulars was stationed at the cemetery to preserve order and protect property. One company of state troops under command of Captain W. F. Clark, of Americus, was on duty in the city to keep order. However, with these precautions, quite a number of rows resulted and ten arrests have been made.

It is reported that two negroes were killed in the woods immediately surrounding the cemetery, but the reports want confirmation.

TEACHERS WERE NOMINATED.

Board of Education Held Monthly Meeting Yesterday and Agreed Upon a Slate.

A complete slate of teachers for the high schools and grammar schools, both white and colored, was agreed upon by the board of education last evening before adjournment was taken at 11 o'clock. The names of those elected will not be made public until Saturday.

The meeting was an executive session of the committee of the whole of the teachers' committee. The session began at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was postponed until 5:30 o'clock. At that hour the members of the board again met and remained in session until 11 o'clock.

It is said that the meeting was perfectly harmonious and that the work which called the members of the board together was completed as soon as possible.

NEGROES DISCUSS RACE PROBLEMS

Atlanta Conference Finishes Its Sessions Last Night.

RESOLUTIONS ARE ADOPTED

Robert Smith Makes a Practical Talk, Giving Results.

CAREERS OF COLLEGE-BRED NEGROES

Presidents Sale and Meserve Made Addresses on the Negro as a Philanthropist and Social Leader.

The fifth annual Atlanta conference to study the negro problems, which began its sessions at the Atlanta university Tuesday evening, adjourned last night.

The general subject at this conference was, "The Career of College Bred Negroes."

Two sessions were held yesterday, a mothers' meeting in the afternoon, and another session in the evening.

The general subject discussed at the final session was, "What College-Bred Negroes May Do."

Robert Smith, an intelligent negro of Oakland, Tex., was the only one of the speakers whose talk was devoid of theory. He was able to produce results. His knowledge of what a college-bred negro could do came from personal experience.

He told of what he had accomplished in his home town and the surrounding country in Texas by the establishment of a Farmers' Improvement Society.

He said that the negroes of Oakland had been taught that morality, and a clean and well-kept house and table were intimately related. They had been taught foresight, and how to provide for the future.

He said that what he considered one of the most important things he had accomplished in his work among his people was the inculcation of the idea that a pantry was as necessary in a home as any other room in the house. The members of his Farmers' Improvement Society now paid as large a proportion per capita of the taxes of the state as did the white people. They were learning that their salvation depended on themselves, and that if they were sober, industrious and thrifty they would succeed as well as any other man.

Miss Thorne told something of her work in teaching a negro school and working among the negroes in the "black belt" of Alabama. She has a large school at Calhoun. Her endeavor has been to teach the negroes self-reliance, and to wean them away from the system of purchasing their supplies on credit. Miss Thorne said that this system put the negroes in the power of the white store keeper and kept him from advancing as much as they should.

President George Sales, of the Atlanta Baptist college, made an address on "What the College-Bred Negro May Do in Philanthropy."

He advocated college settlement work. "Negro college graduates," he said, "must keep in touch and sympathy with the lowliest of their race. If from his college training he gains a contempt for labor, he is a failure. He must appreciate the dignity of labor."

President C. T. Meserve, of Shaw university, at Raleigh, N. C., spoke on the college-bred negro as a social leader.

He said that both in the north and south the trend of popular feeling was strongly against the educated negro. He advised the negroes to make friends of the best white people in the south.

"For," said he, "what the negro gets must come to him through the toleration of the white people of the south."

Resolutions Adopted.

At the conclusion of the session these resolutions were adopted:

"Fairly full statistics from the colleges of the land, both north and south, show that 2,414 negroes have graduated from college since 1826, which means at present one college man lives in every 80,000 of the total negro population of the continent. During the last six years about 130 negroes each year have graduated from a college course of a grade representing one to four years' study additional to the average high school. This number shows a slow but steady increase in the demand for higher training.

"We note with satisfaction that the 2,414 negro college graduates have with few exceptions found work. They have manned and made possible the negro common school system of the south. Fifty-five per cent of them have been teachers, but they are not confining themselves to the profession. These later years have found them entering into business, newspaper work, farming, and trade in increasing numbers. This means that into the masses there is being filtrated a number of thoroughly trained men and women who become social and economic leaders.

"Nor are these negroes unwilling to work with their people. Ninety per cent of those educated in southern colleges stay and work in the south, and fully 50 per cent of those educated in the north come south to labor where the masses of their people live.

"As property owners they form a conservative force in the community. From 600 reports, we learn that these college men own on an average real estate of the assessed value of $2,500 each. Nine-tenths of these taxpayers have graduated since 1870.

"We are, therefore, strongly of the opinion that there is a legitimate and growing demand for the college training of a few carefully selected young negroes of ability. That this class has never been and is not now large but is of vast importance for the uplift of the masses.

"We would lay down this broad principle as applicable to the collegiate as well as to the elementary and industrial education of both blacks and whites.

"To every citizen, black or white, an educational opportunity commensurate with his ability as an individual.

FEW BURGLARIES IN CITY

Says Chief Manly in Justice to His Men.

WHAT HE HAD TO SAY

Remarks Brought Out by Some Reports That Were Circulated—He Compliments the Force.

"There have been fewer burglaries in Atlanta for the past six months," said Chief Manly yesterday afternoon, "than for any period of the city's history for the past ten or fifteen years. I have been particularly gratified at this, and have complimented the men on their watchfulness and great care. In regard to the alleged burglary at Block's factory, I wish to state that I have information that if any goods at all were taken they could not have been worth over a few dollars, and the investigation tends to show that perhaps a box or package was lowered from the window by a cord, and the work may have been done after the factory was opened in the morning. There have been no daring burglaries under glaring arc lights. The losses by burglaries lately have been too insignificant to cause my suggestion that thieves have a soft snap in Atlanta. I say this in behalf of the men, who are doing their full share of duty, and doing it as well as any set of men could."

Chief Manly was led to make these remarks on account of some reports that burglaries in the city were getting numerous.

It is a well-known fact in police circles that there have been fewer burglaries lately than was ever known before.

The members of the police department have been specially vigilant lately. Captain Ball, who has charge of the morning watch, never ceases to instruct his men to watch the alleys and back doors, and a proof that this is done is the fact that every night the patrolmen find many doors that have been carelessly left open.

"Atlanta has been very fortunate about the almost total absence of burglaries recently," says Captain Ball, and this is voiced by every other member of the department.

King Hardware Co.

No Less a Value Because of the Reduction.....

We have recently purchased the entire stock of the Clark Hardware Co., which firm has for years been identified with Atlanta as one of the old land marks, and as one of the leading and most reliable Hardware concerns in the city. It is useless to say that we bought this enormous stock at a very GREAT REDUCTION, for otherwise we could not have handled it; hence we are in a position now to save our friends and patrons a few dollars and cents by the transaction, for we have only thirty days in which to move the Clark stock--and the goods MUST BE SOLD--for taking that stock with our present line it is more goods than we can well handle, and for thirty days we will make one SPECIAL GRAND BARGAIN OFFER. So bear in mind, please, that "if it's known to Hardware" we have it. either at 33 Peachtree street or at our old stand, 63 and 65 Peachtree. Don't take our word. Come and see for yourself. Note a few articles given below, and order by 'phone if you cannot come in person.

Two Great Big Stores

Two corners and plenty of affable salesmen at either place to serve you and nearly a stock of Hardware, Tinware, Cutlery, Housefurnishing Goods, Novelties and Specialties to select from.

AT COST.

There is certainly no better Refrigerator sold anywhere and at any price than the

and our stock is so very large that we are compelled to let them go, and for the entire summer season every Gurney and Cold Wave that is in our house will be sold exactly at cost. This chance you cannot afford to let go by.

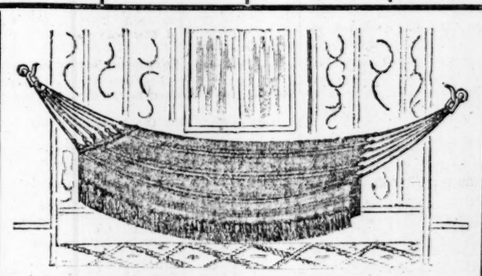

THEY HAVE GOT TO GO.

The Blizzard Freezers will be sold every day this year at the following prices:

3 quarts	$1.21
4 quarts	$1.41
8 quarts	$2.29
10 quarts	$2.12
12 quarts	$3.66

Everybody in town that knows anything about Ice Cream Freezers knows what they cost, but we can't help it. They have got to go. We've got too many, and they are yours for the above song of a price.

We have also the other leading brands if you don't care for the Blizzard, particularly. The Lightning and White Mountain are the best.

We hate to say just how cheap we do sell Hammocks for fear you would think them made of paper, but any way we start at 50 cents and go all the way up, and have a splendid line to select from.

Send your orders in quick, for they are going to go at the prices we are now offering.

50 Cents and Up.

I'm the Best Out.

Here is where we cannot say too much, for the Imperial Lawn Mower has no equal, that we have ever been able to discover, for it is adopted by the United States government and by the Grand Central Park of New York. That within itself suffices to say that the "Imperial" is by far the best thing made. Our price is only $8.50, and years to come you will have no occasion to regret buying one. We have the cheaper brands, and they are good, too, for the price.

Cooking Stoves....

We are now selling the best Stove on the face of the earth for the money--"The King." The fire back is guaranteed for ten years, and you can get them for the little price of $7.50.

Ranges

Here is where we feel proud. When we sell a man one of our King Steel Ranges we know that we have planted a lasting advertisement, for they never have to come back on us. The price is low. Come let us show it to you.

"Good Luck"

Ranges we sell for only $23.00, and there is not a Range on the American market that will compare with it for the price. They are well and handsomely made and will give entire satisfaction.

WHIPPED GIRL WITH A STRAP

Interesting Story of the Arrest of J. A. Mize Last Night.

A PRISONER IN THE TOWER

Used a Heavy Strap To Chastise Fifteen-Year-Old Daughter.

HIS NEIGHBORS WERE MUCH INCENSED

Mize Says His Children Work, but He Doesn't—Thinks the Matter Is Sort of Joke.

Because he gave his fifteen-year-old daughter a chastisement with a leather strap last night, J. A. Mize, the father of thirteen children, of all ages and sizes, was locked up as a prisoner in the Tower.

The story behind the arrest of Mize was interesting enough of itself, but his incarceration brought out the fact that the county police are making cases on the charge of disorderly conduct, just like the city police do, and the prisoners are tried by justices of the peace and are sentenced to the county camps for thirty days, in the same manner that Recorder Broyles sends city prisoners to the stockade. Therefore, those who live just outside the city limits no longer load up on mean whisky and then do as they please, knowing that police authority cannot reach them.

Mize was arrested last night by County Policeman Ed Cook. The officer states that Mize gave his nearly grown daughter a severe whipping with a heavy leather strap, and the neighbors were much incensed over it.

"But," says the county policeman, "it was not only for the whipping of his daughter that I arrested him, but because he is said to have been drinking and using profane language."

Mize was seen by a reporter of The Constitution shortly after his arrest. He peeped through the iron grating and said:

"Why, yes, I whipped my fifteen-year-old daughter, and I used a strong leather strap. I told her if she ever staid out after dark again I would whip her. She went to a store tonight with a nice young lady, but I don't want her to be out after dark at all. So when she showed up I whipped her good, and went to bed."

Mize admitted he did not work. He said his children worked in the Exposition cotton factory, and he lives in one of the factory houses.

"I have thirteen children," he stated, "and the two oldest are married. The one I whipped is my oldest unmarried daughter. All of my children who are old enough work in the cotton factory. I don't work any, because I have the rheumatism."

"How many drinks did you have tonight?" he was asked.

"Oh, only two or three," he replied.

"How did you get money to buy liquor with, if you do not work?" was the next question.

"I mend clocks and do such light work sometimes, and get a few dimes in that way," he said.

Mize is a jolly fellow, and regarded the whipping he gave his fifteen-year-old daugater as a sort of huge joke.

He will be tried in a justice court today on the charge of acting in a disorderly manner.

POLICE MAKE QUEER FIND.

Four Shirts Found Tied by Four Cravats to Four Poles on Corner Spring and Luckie.

Sergeant Crim and Patrolman Hearst made a queer find last night about 11 o'clock.

The patrolman first made the discovery and reported the matter to his superior officer. He saw at the corner of Spring and Luckie streets that four shirts had been wrapped around as many telephone and electric light poles, and tied with as many neckties.

Somebody had placed two black shirts about two telephone poles, and then wrapped two shirts about two electric light poles, one of the four poles being on each corner of the streets.

The shirts were nearly new, and the cravats good enough for a dude to wear.

"It is one of the strangest affairs I ever heard of in seventeen years of policing," said Sergeant Crim as he took the four cravats from his coat-tail pockets. "I have saved the cravats in order to find the owner. The shirts have been sent to the police barracks for safe keeping. What induced any one to hang those shirts out on the poles is more than I can tell, but they were certainly there, one on each pole, and each tied up with a cravat."

DEPOT BILLY; A TALE OF POLICE RECORD

"DEPOT BILLIE" WHO WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION.

NOTICE—Will be sold at police barracks Monday, June 9th, at 12 o'clock, noon, one he goat now impounded unless claimed beforehand, expenses paid and ownership proven according to terms of law.

W. P. MANLY,
Chief of Police.

The above notice has been hanging out in front of the police barracks for several days, and some inquiries on the "inside" have brought out a story which has never before had its counterpart in Atlanta goat history.

In section No. 80 of the city pound a milk white goat can be found of small stature, but as strong as any goat of double his size. This goat, about which the chief of police has posted a notice, is guilty of being a vagrant and a loafer at the union depot. He was arrested a week ago by Officer Jim Gloer, who has the record of apprehending more goats than any other policeman in the city. It was he who trapped the notorious weinerwurst billy about a year ago.

The milk white goat has been prowling around the union depot for several months. Small boys were hired to toll him off and get him lost; negro men were paid handsome bribes to get him to Macon; policemen clubbed him and ran him off. But it was all useless for the milk white goat turned up at the depot no matter what steps were taken to have him kept away. In time he became known as "Depot Billy."

What special attractions were at the depot for a goat has never been ascertained. If the milk white goat had observed the rules laid down by the railroad magnates he might have been allowed to continue his trespassing a while longer, but he insisted upon going into the waiting rooms, and even into the coaches. He gave acrobatic exhibitions on the baggage trucks and chased women and children and butted whatever got in his way.

So Officer Gloer arrested "Depot Billy" and sent him in for idling and loitering. The chief of police ordered the goat held under the impounding laws.

It required each day oats, corn and hay to feed the milk white goat, and he began to be an expense to the city government. Nobody claimed him although he was advertised according to law.

"I will have to hold a special auction sale," said Chief Manly, "and sell that goat to the highest bidder."

Then came the effort to write the notice of sale.

"Say," said the chief to his clerk, "that we will sell one billy goat. No, stop a minute, billy goat sounds too flippant for an official notice of a legal sale. Put it down one William goat. Stop a moment, William goat is rather ludicrous. If I say goat just so, the people won't know whether it is a lady or gentleman goat we are to sell, and that makes a great difference. I wonder why there isn't a name to distinguish the gender of this animal. Oh, bother the thing. Put it down one he goat. That will fill the bill."

"He goat" went, and those who smile at this descriptive pronoun know naught of the mental agony it cost the chief of police of Atlanta before he decided upon it.

In the meantime "Depot Billy" is making his presence known at the city pound, and those who pass him by in the idle wind don't have to see him to know that he is there. Solemnly and wisely he daily cuts down Atlanta's goat profits for the fiscal year as he devours corn and oats and makes life a hey day.

The sale of the goat is looked forward to as a coming event of great consequence among the police and there are all sorts of bets as to what amount he will bring. The highest estimate is $3 and the lowest twenty cents. The man who bet that the price would be twenty cents is being guyed by the police and others who have milk white goat.

"Twenty cents," exclaimed an officer, "if there isn't more than twenty cents in that goat, I'll eat him, hide, hoofs, horn and all."

IS MARKHAM A PESSIMIST? REPLY TO WALLACE P. REED

By D. MacLauchlin Therrell.

It is truly marvelous what a preponderance of evidence is required to convince a person against his will, and how infinitesimal the modicums of truth necessary to win him over to some proposition fathered by his desires and fanned by his hopes. He struggles against the former when there remains in his favor not even a shadow of tenable ground, and embraces the latter without rhyme or reason when but dimly shadowed upon the walls of his fancy.

I have been led into this reflection by the persistent and ingenious efforts of many men in many places to discredit, if not to distort, the fame and force of the teachings of Edwin Markham, the great poet-prophet of optimism and champion of true democracy.

Since Markham first stormed the ramparts of privilege and startled the self-centered world of conservatism, he has been the target of general attack from various quarters.

So far, however, he has withstood this pitiless bombardment, though pelted with every form of missile known to the ordnance of modern criticism. Did I say every missile?

Not so. Just when we thought the enemy's guns had been silenced, lo, there is a boom, a sizz—and crash comes a new twelve-inch from the ponderous gun of misinterpretation. Happily for the Markham camp this great shell failed in the fusing, and harmlessly buried itself in the earthworks. Investigation proved it to be the invention of Mr. Wallace Reed, a well known and gifted artillerest of this city.

To drop from figure to fact, Mr. Reed has preferred a new and novel charge against Mr. Markham, his poetry and his teachings.

It was first charged that Markham had predicated his "Man with the Hoe" poem upon the Angelus, and was therefore an attack upon religious sentiment. This charge was refuted.

Then it was charged that the poem had no foundation in fact, as Millet's picture, upon which it was based, was a mere idyllic creation of the artist, no such type having actual existence and that Markham had wantonly insulted the toiler and laboring man.

This charge has also been thoroughly refuted.

Mr. Richard LeGallienne went on record with the criticism that Markham's poetry was not poetry at all, but merely a sermon set to verse

To this I would reply that poetry is of such an etherial quality as to render the personal equation an important factor in passing upon its merits. Most of our ears are attuned to an appreciation of the popular airs, but few of us are really capable of appreciating properly the cosmic masterpieces of Schubert, Beethoven and Wagner. Mr. LeGallienne is perhaps one of the best critics of the day, when it comes to an interpretation of the lyrics of the subtle sensations of subjective impression; but is he equal to the cosmic and elemental melody of Markham, involving as it does, huge masses of tone set to the celestial minor of spheres.

So much for Mr. LeGallienne. Now for Mr. Reed.

Mr. Reed charges Markham with being "an apostle of the gloomiest and most dangerous kind of pessimism"—the "new apostle of pessimism."

This, if true, is indeed a serious charge, for of all the creatures in the earth, or in the waters under the earth, the pessimist is deserving of the least consideration at the hands of a struggling humanity in a world of evolution and endeavor.

Can the charge be maintained? What is pessimism?

The accepted version of pessimism is this—"the doctrine that everything in nature is ordered for or tends to the worst, or that the world is wholly evil. A disposition to take the least hopeful view of things."

Mr. Reed calls Markham a pessimist, because he has challenged the attention of the world and pointed it to certain grave problems of social and economic responsibility. Mr. Reed says:

"I do not hesitate to say that while these ringing verses voice the truth, it is that kind of truth that does more harm than good. In point of fact the only good it can possibly do, is to frighten 'masters, lords and rulers, into temporary concessions and compromises.'"

He admits the truth of Markham's assertions. Is telling the truth in the nature of pessimism?

He admits the possibility of forcing "temporary concessions and compromises" in behalf of the oppressed—is not this worth while?

Is it in the nature of the pessimist to undertake the championship and relief of the wronged and undone? Is this not, rather the essential characteristic of the humanitarian and the optimist? Is not such the essence of brotherhood and opportunity, as opposed to misanthropy and despaid—the fundamentals of pessimism?

No, Markham is in no sense a pessimist. On the contrary he is an optimist in the best sense of the word. More than this he is a philosopher deeply versed in the great problems of civilization, and seeing the stains upon the escutcheon of society, he dares point them out and appeal to the conscience of the people in behalf of a higher social morality in the true sense of the word. Markham is an idealist. His ideal is the brotherhood of man—the co-operation of each for the good of the many—equality of opportunity for equality of talent. This is the perfect democracy. It is possible—it is feasible, it is the order of evolution—it is enevitable. The ideal of one generation may be the ideal of the next and the reality of the following. An ideal is truly dynamic and creative. All things are first ideals. The immutable pyramid of a Cheops was the ideal of a moment before it became the fact of the ages. Idealism is the universal creative principle. Pessimism is the destroyer, the principle of dissolution. The two are antipodal, of opposite polarity, and have nothing in common

After admitting the truth of Markham's assertions in relation to "The man with the Hoe," Mr. Reed goes on to say:

"The strong will crush the weak; the rich will oppress the poor; the classes will rule the masses. Here and there we find exceptions. Spadsmodic reforms result from terrible revolutions, but in the end society returns to the same old conditions."

We are told that Markham's charges are true, but that the matter is hopeless and we cannot even afford to tell tho truth about it.

It is all true, but we must keep it a dead secret.

It is all true, but it is not the part of morality to live up to the truth

It is all true, but it is the most dangerous pessimism to tell the truth.

Here is pessimism indeed!

Pessimism of the densest, dankest and most dismal type.

Pessimism without courage, without hope, without faith, without truth.

Pessimistic indeed must be the man who can make such admissions. Pessimistic indeed must be the man who can deny the power of truth as a guiding principle in the affairs of men. Pessimistic indeed must be the man who has no faith in the moral integrity of his fellow man, no hope for the progress of mankind and no encouragement for the wronged and oppressed. Such an one must needs view the world through colored glasses, and such being the case Markham and his friends may pardon the unfortunate pessimist, hoping that in time he, too, may see the light and join in the crusade for a clearer public conscience, a higher public morality and a firmer bond of brotherhood between man and man.

RECEIVER PARROTT FILES HIS REPORT

Immense Losses Not Accounted for by Legitimate Business.

REPORT AN INTERESTING ONE

Southern Agricultural Works' Accounts Seem Badly Mixed.

CREDITORS ELECT A TRUSTEE THURSDAY

Receiver's Report Shows Irregularities and Charges Gross Frauds To Be Proven Later.

George W. Parrott, receiver for the Southern Agricultural Works, filed his report with the bankruptcy clerk of the United States court yesterday afternoon. Receiver Parrott says in his report that palpable frauds exist, but that the condition of the books is such that they can be uncovered only by the most expert investigation. He asserted that he now has in his possession indubitable proof of fraud, but that an exposure at this juncture would be premature.

According to the report of Messrs. Haskins and Sells, the two expert accountants engaged by Receiver Parrott to overhaul the books of the Southern Agricultural Works, for a year or more past the bookkeeping of the corporation was no bookkeeping at all, and their investigations have apparently justified the suspicion that there was method in this unbusinesslike way of keeping a record of its transactions. From the checkbook stubs and bills and letters filed, which had to be gone through laboriously in lieu of the proper books, it appears that the Southern Agricultural Works lost the immense sum of $84,122.55 in the ordinary course of business inside of nine months. In his report commenting on this remarkable disclosure Receiver Parrott avers that he does not consider this alleged loss bona fide, and the further it is investigated the more apparent it becomes that something is wrong.

The statement of resources and liabilities recently filed by the defunct concern's attorneys presented the situation in a comparatively hopeful light, but the receiver's expert bookkeepers have punctured what seems to have been a bladder. After the assets have been relieved of every gaseous intangibility they shrink from $308,215.12, as given by the corporation's representatives, to $133,498.18, as given by the practical accountants. Under this process of elimination the plant and property drop from $191,883.27 to $85,268.20. So far as determined the liabilities aggregate the snug sum of $219,101.87.

The rigid investigation of the past month has failed to disclose a legitimate channel into which a large part of the huge expenditures of the company's last year of business was diverted. When Receiver Parrott assumed charge the insignificant sum of $259 was all that fell into his hands.

Receiver Parrott's Report.

The report is quite voluminous. The gist of it is embodied in the following excerpts:

"This shows that the book value of the assets is $1,895.70 less than the liabilities, and that the estimated appraised value of all the assets is $16,903.06 less than the liabilities. This, as a matter of course, makes no allowance for the capital stock. There has been no inventory or appraisal made of the property and plant. The figures we have used are our own estimate.

"With reference to the item of receipts from the Georgia Handle Company, $3,150, attention is called to the fact that there is no invoice or other record in the company's files to show what this payment actually covered, or how much lumber was delivered to the Georgia Handle Company.

"The record of capital stock transactions is very incomplete, the stubs of certificates issued showing that there is now outstanding more than $150,000 of capital stock, whereas the books show only $83,000.

"The verification of the cash disbursements for the period under review has been unsatisfactory for the reason that there are on file regular receipted vouchers for only a small proportion of the disbursements shown by the cash books. In most instances the only evidences of payment are the canceled checks, and the check stubs give practically no information with reference to the nature of the payments.

"Many of the invoices covering merchandise purchases bear no indorsement of any kind indicating that the goods were received and properly checked to the receiving department."

In speaking of former Vice President Austin's settlement of an indebtedness of $5,585.76 the report says:

"Mr. Austin advises that the settlement of his indebtedness to the company was arranged with Mr. A. Landauer, and he holds a receipt in full, given by A. Landauer as president of the Southern Agricultural Works. He states that the consideration on his part in this settlement was the surrender and transfer to Mr. A. Landauer of $9,800 of the capital stock of the company at about $75 a share, or a total of $7,150. This amount was in excess of his indebtedness to the company about $1,574.24, which latter amount was paid him by Mr. A. Landauer, but the $5,585.76 due from Mr. Austin to the company was charged off to the merchandise account on the books of the company in February, 1900. There is no evidence to show that the company received any consideration, while it appears that Mr. A. Landauer got the stock."

The late Sigmund Landauer, who preceded his brother, Adolph Landauer, as president and general-manager of the corporation, owed it the immense sum of $74,841.95 at the time of his demise. This indebtedness, it is alleged, was paid off by the estate of the deceased.

Receiver Parrott specifies a number of items that need clearing up—items involving many thousands of dollars. In one instance goods to the value of $2,000 are said to have been taken away and no entries of the transaction made on the books. It cannot be said that the accountants have brought much order out of chaos as yet, and their estimates are only approximate in many respects. They will continue to probe the mixed affair to the bottom.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock Referee P. H. Adams held a meeting of the creditors in the circuit courtroom. The attendance was large and forty claims were filed. It is probable that many of these will be objected to. Referee Adams gave until Tuesday next to hear objections to and pass upon the validity of all claims filed with him. The creditors will meet again in the custom house Thursday, June 7th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when those whose claims have been allowed will vote for a trustee.

A MAN FRIGHTENS LADIES.

Police Notified That a White Man Was Roaming Near Grant Park. Believed To Be Drunk.

Telephone messages to the police barracks yesterday afternoon informed the police that a white man, supposed to be crazed or wild, was roaming the woods around Grant park, frightening women and children.

The police think the man is on a crazed drunk, and they expect to have him locked up today.

Two young ladies, with three children, first reported about the man. They state that he run after them with nearly all his clothing removed. He was seen in the new part of the park, near a bridge.

Later he was again seen by two ladies, and he followed them some distance.

An officer was detailed to watch for the fellow, and if he remains anywhere near the park he will be arrested this morning.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Chairman Joseph Richardson, of the Southeastern Passenger Association, and General Passenger Agent W. L. Dunley, of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, left Atlanta yesterday afternoon for Louisville to attend the funeral of Colonel C. P. Atmore, general passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville, who died Tuesday afternoon.

Colonel Atmore was one of the most popular and beloved by his associates in the railway world of the railway men in the south, and it was expected that nearly all of the general passenger agents in the territory would be able to attend the funeral. The news of Colonel Atmore's death was so unexpected, however, that many of his friends were unable to make arrangements to leave their offices in time to attend the funeral and pay their last respects to their late friend and co-worker.

Charles Pawson Atmore was born February, 28, 1834, in the Isle of Guernsey. He entered railway service in March, 1856, since which time he was consecutively to May, 1857, passenger agent of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railway; May 1857 to 1862, occupied various positions in the passenger department of the Jefferson, Madison and Indianapolis road; 1862 to 1868, general southern passenger agent, and 1868 to December 25, 1871, general pasenger agent same road; December 21, 1871 to April, 1872, general passenger agent "Great Jackson Route," April 1872 to date, general passenger agent Louisville and Nashville railroad.

Albert W. Collier, of General Passenger Agent Harman's office, has been promoted to be assistant ticket agent in the union depot ticket office of the western and Atlantic. The appointment becomes effective June 6th. Mr. Collier succeeds E. G. Woodward, who leaves for Honduras.

Mr. Collier is a capable and popular young railroad man. His appointment will be a cause for hearty congratulations from his many friends in southeastern railway circles.

The Sotheastern Passenger Association has been requested by the Atlanta, Knoxville Northern Railway, Atlanta and West Point Railroad, Atlantic, Valdosta and Western Railway, Central of Georgia Railway Company, Florida Central and Peninsular Railroad, Georgia Southern and Florida Railway, Plant System of Railways, Southern Railway, Tifton and Northeastern Railroad, Western and Atlantic Railroad to announce a rate of one-fare for the round trip to Atlanta, and return from all points within the state of Georgia, account of the annual meeting of Baptist Young People's Union of Southern states; Atlanta, June 19-21.

John Marston, Jr., has been appointed chief engineer of the construction of new lines in Alabama, of the Louisville and Nashville, and J. E. Willoughby will be principal asistant engineer.

B. F. Yokum, at present vice president and general manager of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, will soon be promoted to the position of president of that system. The vacancy to which he will be appointed has been occasioned by the resignation of Daniel B. Robinson, whose retirement was necessitated by ill health. The board of directors of the company will meet for the purpose of taking this step and to transact other business on June 7th.

Charles E. Michael, formely connected with the general passenger office of the Burlington and St. Louis, has been promoted and appointed passenger agent at Cincinnati as assistant to W. M. Shaw, district pasenger agent, who has charge of the passenger business of the Burlington. The appointment of Mr. Michael has been made under the strict civil service rules of the Burlington company, Mr. Michael having for three years past been connected with the advertising department of the general passenger office.

SELIG'S HORSE RAN AWAY.

He Was Thrown from His Buggy Opposite Kimball House—Fell on Belgian Blocks.

S. S. Selig came near being killed yesterday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock by being thrown from his buggy by a run-away horse.

He was driving across the railroad tracks at the Pryor street crossing, when the horse took fright and ran toward the Kimball house. The wheels of the buggy struck the center column of the main entrance of the Kimball. Selig was thrown up, and when he fell he struck the hard belgian blocks.

He was taken into a nearby drug store, where his bruises were dressed. He was painfully, but not seriously hurt. The buggy was pretty well smashed up.

Selig is agent for the West Disinfecting Company, and resides at No. 259 South Pryor street.

GOVERNMENT ASTRONOMERS PASS THROUGH ATLANTA ON HOMEWARD TRIP

Drawn from sketches made by Ernest Wilkinson at Brunswick, Ga.

PROFESSOR F. B. LITTELL. DR. T. J. J. SEE. PROFESSOR M. UPDEGRAFF. PROFESSOR G. A. HILL. PHOTOGRAPHER GEORGE PETERS. STIMSON J. BROWN, Director of the Naval Observatory.

Having completed their work, the eminent astronomers who came south for the purpose of viewing the eclipse, are now returning to their homes in the north. Quite a large party from Barnesville passed through the city yesterday. All expressed themselves as delighted with the south and each was enthusiastic over The Constitution's reports. Only a few astronomers remain in the state and these will leave in a few days.

headquarters to escort the Georgia delegation to the reunion hall.

The principal feature of the programme for today was a parade by the police and fire departments of Louisville. The Atlanta fire department drum corps had a conspicuous place in the parade. Just as the procession was moving well the rain fell in torrents and a shower second only to the one during the Atlanta reunion ensued.

Where Will Veterans Meet Next?

The question of where the next reunion will be held is agitating the veterans and the chances of New Orleans, Memphis and Baltimore are all good. Buffalo is making a hard fight for the reunion, but it seems more than likely that a city nearer the center of the south will be selected. The geographical situation of the states sending large delegations will be taken into consideration when the matter is settled. General Evans declares that the Georgia delegation is the largest outside of Kentucky. The Georgians are among the most popular veterans in the city and are given an ovation whenever they appear.

The North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Virginia delegations reached here this morning and were given fine receptions. The veterans as a whole are delighted with the manner in which they are being entertained. The reunion is one of the most successful on record.

The committees in charge have any amount of money at their command and are sparing no pains to make the memory of the reunion live. A series of entertainments calculated to keep the visitors busy a greater part of their time has been arranged.

The reunion will reach its climax Friday afternoon, when the big parade occurs. The veterans are anxious for fair weather, which the weather man has been good enough to promise. The veterans are discussing the blue and gray reunion to be held in Atlanta and the idea has made a decidedly formidable impression.

Colonel W. A. Hemphill has told them of the proposed meeting and the plans are meeting with great favor. The visiting newspaper men were tendered a car ride through the city tonight by the local newspaper men. Nothing is being left undone to make the visiting press representatives have a good time.

GEORGIANS WERE CHEERED.

Atlanta Drum Corps Figured Prominently in Opening Session.

Louisville, Ky., May 30.—Surrounded by waving banners bearing the fiery cross of the Confederacy, listening to the cheers from the throats of 3,000 men who wore the gray, and confronted by the waving handkerchiefs of hundreds of ladies, General John B. Gordon, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, today formally opened the tenth annual reunion of the order, which, in point of attendance, is already the largest ever held since the inception of the organization and which, in respect to its welfare and prosperity, promises to be the most important it has ever held.

Atlanta Drum Corps Cheered.

For an hour previous to the time set for the opening of the meeting the veterans and their friends made their way in a steady stream to the hall and by 11:30 o'clock it was well filled.

A portion of the Georgia delegation, headed by the Atlanta fire department drum corps, came marching in, making the building ring with martial music and calling forth cheers from those assembled in the hall. The delegation carried a large Confederate flag, which it waved with yells and cheers.

Major General J. W. Poyntz, the presiding officer, followed them closely and received a warm greeting. The celebrities then came in a string and all of them received warm greetings from their comrades. A veteran from Georgia waked the crowd to genuine enthusiasm when he came in carrying the old battle flag of the Third Georgia infantry.

Mayor Weaver Welcomes Veterans.

At the conclusion of the doxology General Poyntz introduced Mayor Weaver, who welcomed the visitors in behalf of the city of Louisville.

The mayor, whose speech was received with much applause, was followed by Colonel Thomas F. Bullit, who welcomed the visitors to Louisville in behalf of the board of trade of the city.

Gordon Given an Ovation.

As General Gordon stepped forward to receive the keys he received a strong evidence of the regard in which he is held by his comrades of the association. They sprang to their feet en masse, climbed upon chairs, waved hats and handkerchiefs frantically and cheered again and again and General Gordon was visibly moved by the reception he met and for several minutes stood bowing his thanks. When quiet was restored again he spoke as follows:

"No man is gifted enough and no words are strong enough to tell Kentuckians what we feel at this hour and how deeply we feel it. Shall I say for my comrades and myself that we are grateful, profoundly grateful? That would be in the presence of such a demonstration the merest commonplace, the needless statement of a patent fact, which you already know or can plainly read in these moistened eyes and quivering lips. Shall I tell you that we are amazed; that we are unprepared for such a display, such exuberance of hospitality, such warmth and prodigality of welcome? I cannot say that, for it would be untrue. We knew beforehand what to expect of this great hearted people.

"We have come to find not only that it is true but that the half had not been told. What can I say, then, what can any man say or do to represent to this people the responsive echoes of our deeply stirred sensibilities? If I possessed the mystic power to catch and transmute into burning sentences the thoughts of these brains and the rhythms of these hearts, I might hope to give you some conception of our appreciation of this Kentucky greeting. Why has not some Edison or some gifted scientist, moved by a genius divine, invented some means of photographing human emotions? Why did not that crafty delver into nature's secrets, who discovered the X-rays, give us a double X-ray powerful enough to expose to Kentucky's view the emotions of these men? If such an instrument were at your command this morning, you would see inscribed upon these hearts, in indelible letters, the beloved name of Kentucky.

"The truth is, gentlemen, that your state holds a place among her sisters that is not only unique, but decidedly picturesque.

"Heaven bless, protect and guide Kentucky. May harmony and Christian fellowship rule in all her counsels and peace, joy and plenty abide forever in all her homes."

Battle To Be Fought.

The battle of Perryville will be refought tomorrow, weather permitting, at the race track. The commander of the confederate forces in the sham conflict will be General George E. Gordon, whose unmanageable horse carried him over the breastworks of the enemy at Franklin, where he was made a prisoner.

General E. H. Hobson, of Greensboro, Ky., will command the federals. General Hobson captured Morgan's command at Buffingtons island in the Ohio river.

The confederate line of battle will be made up of the Richmond, Va., Howitzers, Kentucky Military institute cadets, Richmond, Ky., cadets, Nashville Springfield Rifles, Oglethorpe Light infantry, of Savannah, and the Republican Blues. The federal line of fight will consist of the Louisville Legion and the New Albany national guard. The proceeds of the battle are to start a fund for the erection of a confederate soldiers' home in Louisville.

Two crack companies from Savannah, Ga., are the Oglethorpe Light infantry and the Republican Blues. The Oglethorpe Light infantry was the first company tendered to and accepted by the confederate congress. It participated in forty battles, from Manassas to the surrender at Appomattox. The Oglethorpes came here sixty strong, headed by their captain, P. Arthur Gordon. With the company is Judge Robert Falligant, for seventeen years its captain. The Republican Blues were organized in 1808 and have been in existence continuously since that time. Members of this company, which has been constantly recruited, fought in the war of 1812, the Seminole war of 1835-36 and all through the civil war. The company also served through the late Spanish-American war, seeing active service in Cuba.

BISHOP A. W. WILSON SPOKE.

Addressed Missionary Societies at First Methodist Church Last Night.

Bishop A. W. Wilson, of Baltimore, spoke last night to the missionary societies at the First Methodist church. The address was more in the nature of a lecture than a sermon, the subject being, "Missionary Work in China."

Bishop Wilson has had a lengthy experience in mission work. Those who were so fortunate as to hear him last night listened to his remarks with great interest.

NEW YORK, CHICAGO MARKETS CLOSED

Decoration Day Was Generally Observed Yesterday.

LIVERPOOL OPEN AND ACTIVE

Spot Sales 8,000 at a Decline of 1-8 Cent.

FUTURES THREE TO SIX POINTS LOWER

New Orleans Was Also Open and Followed Liverpool with a Sharp Break on Active Trading.

The New York cotton exchange was closed yesterday on account of legal holiday.

The New Orleans market was open for business, and an active business was transacted. Messrs. Murphy & Co. review the day's trade as follows:

"Liverpool advices were much worse than expected, futures on this crop being about 6 points under yesterday's close. Next crop 3 to 4 points lower, with spot sales 8,000 bales; middling uplands 4 15-16d. There was no session of the New York cotton exchange today on account of legal holiday. The New Orleans market on August opened at 8.03—7 points under last night's close, declined to 7.88 on account of heavy liquidation and rumors that a large Syrian firm named Sersuck had failed. This firm is reported to have been doing a big business in the Liverpool market. The New Orleans market was very active throughout the entire session. After touching 7.88, August reacted to 7.98, then again, under the influence of heavy selling orders, declined to 7.89, but toward the close on short covering prices advanced 3 to 4 points. The feeling at the close was rather mixed, but sentiment in the main was very bearish."

The Liverpool Cotton Market.

Liverpool, May 30—12:15 p. m.—Cotton, spot, demand fair with prices lower; middling uplands 4 15-16; sales 7,000; American 7,000; speculation and export 500; receipts 8,000; American 800.

PRIME ON THE CROPS.

Season for Corn Has Been Very Discouraging.

New York Stockholder: Chicago, May 26.—The country has not experienced since the 1st of March, 1900, a single consecutive week of normal conditions. We have had a great deal of cold, dry, as well as wet, backward weather. Nearly everything we have done has been performed under great disadvantages. Hence it is no wonder that the month of May came to us with very little growth in anything except winter wheat and with crop prospects generally not up to an average for the time of the year. We ought at this season of the year to be able to have some little idea of what the country is going to get out of its growing season.

There is one thing, however, which is absolutely certain, and that is that the prospects for the winter wheat crop have run down very decidedly during the month of May.

This situation has arisen almost entirely from the development and ravages of the Hessian fly. The fly never can be eradicated when it has once found lodgment in the wheat except by change of crop. The present week has witnesses a widespread development of the Hessian fly very destructive in its effects. This increases the area of damage very decidedly from what it was thirty days ago.

In the southwest rains have been so general during this month that the wheat has grown very rank, which means a great deal of straw, a light yield and poor quality of crop.

In the northwest we have been contending greatly with dry weather. We can hardly call it a drought yet, but unless we get rains next week we shall see crop prospects running down very perceptibly in that area. There is no part of the country where a surplus crop of grain is made where it is more difficult to get at the real facts in the situation than in the spring wheat belt.

The corn crop of the country is not all planted. The season has been very discouraging and backward for getting the crop into the ground. In the most southern portions of the corn belt corn is being worked, but the ground is generally so wet and weedy that the crop is not showing up very well at the present time. I look, however, to see the whole crop in the ground by the 1st of June, provided we have no further setback or delay.

There are a good many points in the present season similar to those in 1899 and if we can make any comparison and judge of final results the prospects now, on practically the 1st of June, would hardly indicate an average crop, except with very favorable conditions from now on to the close of the growing season.

As I have said recently, and repeat it now, we are almost certain to have light receipts of grain from now on until harvest.

At harvest I look for a free movement of new winter wheat and at prices much better than are ruling at the present time. Stocks of old winter wheat are so nearly exhausted that a large percentage of the new crop will go into consumption at once and never reach the Atlantic ports.

Until we know something more definite with regard to the stand of corn and the growing prospects for the coming crop, the movement of corn will be very light all summer. Prices for corn at home still keep above those at grain centers.

WOMAN and ...SOCIETY

Caroline Hazard on the "College Woman"

"Today the feminine half of mankind is receiving its full share of attention, for it must always be remembered that men and women are not different order of beings," writes Caroline Hazard, president of Wellesley college:

"They find their fullest and completest development together. 'Male and female created He them.' There is the eternal difference and the eternal similarity. Normal life demands the two principles. If Goethe gives us studies of the eternal feminine, Browning must complete with masculine vigor, or we get sentimentality or brutality as a result. It is the union of strength in weakness that marks the complex and varied character which is the product of our end of the century. For I take it the eternal feminine is simply this—the power of love which has its throne in a good woman's heart. Call it altruism, if you like, call it the mother soul, found a philosophy, or a system of speculation upon it, it is simply that capacity of love and devotion which Mary of Bethany showed when she sat at Jesus's feet.

"Granted, then, that this is at the root of woman's life, that every woman child who comes into the world has this great gift and responsibility; that this is her contribution to human life, with what reverence, with what awe, should we approach her, to make or to mar! Sentimentality and mannishness, like Scylla and Charybdis, stand on either side. The intellect must be trained to its fullest capacity, or there will be an uneven balance. Ideal justice is not a common virtue, and the powers of the mind must be trained to regulate the emotions. Heart and head in happy union must rule the conduct. And so we believe in what is called higher education. There have always been women, from the days of the queen of Sheba, who sought out wisdom, who made great sacrifices, and endured arduous toil to come to a fountain head of knowledge. This nineteenth century, these last fifty years, have brought to women, to large numbers of women, opportunities before accessible only to the gifted few. Now these streams flow freely, and women come in throngs. But does the draught quicken them to new life? Culture is more than the acquisition of knowledge. To bear fruit, learning must pass into life. It is the touch of man upon nature that makes art. The highest art is a going back to nature, and, having received it, having been nourished upon it, to return it, stamped with man's impress—so the finest fruit of learning must be personality. The soul is the supreme power always. To enlarge its kingdom, to bring warring elements under its control—this is the supreme task of education."

Compliment to an Augusta Belle.

Leslie's Weekly of May 26, 1900, contains a photograph and sketch of Miss Anita Phinizy, of Augusta, as follows:

"Spring in Georgia means days full of sunshine and the song of birds, glorious moonlight nights, and a profusion of flowers. Then it is that the annual floral fete at Augusta, which is one of the social events of the state, occurs. For a week the merry making lasts, and Flora reigns supreme. From every building stream flags and garlands showing the carnival colors. The streets are lined with eager, good-natured crowds, and gay with the sound of strolling bands. Not only from the towns do the people come, but from over the Carolina hills come the 'crackers' in canvas-covered wagons, and from the plantations down the river the negroes, clad in homespun frocks of brilliant red and blue and yellow checks, come laden with wild flowers, and driving to their two-wheel carts soft-eyed, slow-moving oxen. The procession of flowers, which ends the week's festivities, is led by the queen, her golden coach garlanded with hundreds of lilies and drawn by six white horses. The royal escort consists of six outriders and four maids of honor. And what a procession it is! Down a street whose broad driveway for two miles winds beneath the shade of four rows of wide spreading wateroaks, past houses gay with flags and garlands, and in whose gardens roses and geraniums, lilies and honeysuckle bloom in riotous profusion, the soft-rolling vehicles glide. First come the double teams, and as one catches sight of them the lavish display of flowers is bewildering. Most of them are covered entirely, though some are festooned with great clusters of blooms, caught with huge bows of satin ribbon or rosettes of fluffy gauze. High traps there are, tandem teams, and low-seated phaetons, and all driven by men immaculate in white flannels, and girls whose airy gowns and picture hats match in daintiness and color the pansies and wild roses and morning glories that are used with a reckless extravagance. The selection of Miss Anita Phinizy as queen of this year's fete was a most wise one. The paramount duty of the queen is to look beautiful, and this Miss Phinizy accomplished with the easy grace of an adept. Although a debutante of the past winter, she has all the charms and savior faire of an experienced society woman. She comes of a family long identified with the social life of Georgia and the Carolinas. Her father, Leonard Phinizy, is a well-known lawyer, and one of the most prominent capitalists in the south."

Dinner Dance Friday Night.

The dinner dance to be given Friday night at the Piedmont Driving Club will be a brilliant occasion and a compliment to Miss Augusta Thompson and Dr. Hardon. Dinner will be served in the New York building at 8 o'clock and the cotilion will be danced afterwards.

A Fair Minstrel.

Under the heading "A Fair Minstrel," Success of June, 1900, contains the following reference to Miss Caroline Lewis Gordon:

"Miss Caroline Lewis Gordon, the beautiful young daughter of General John B. Gordon, the famous confederate veteran, may soon be delighting northern audiences with her quaint and charming interpretations of plantation melodies. Miss Gordon has already made a successful professional debut in the south before crowded houses. While visiting friends in Philadelphia, New York and other northern cities her gifts have afforded great pleasure to select and favored circles in drawing room entertainments and have enlisted the interest of musical critics and folk-lore students. She has made an extensive collection of plantation melodies which she has been urged to publish. A large number of these she learned first-hand from the good old ante-bellum "uncles" and "aunties" still living on her father's estate at Kirkwood, near Atlanta. The souvenir programme of her first appearance before a Nashville audience bore the portrait of an old black 'mammy' of the Gordon family upon the cover."

Valedictorian at Lucy Cobb.

A very unusual occurrence is the fact that Miss Clare Felker is the third sister to graduate at Lucy Cobb with first honor. She is third daughter of Mr. George W. Felker, one of the most prominent citizens of Monroe, and his two elder daughters, Misses Lena and Irene Felker, have both graduated from this famous institution with first honor.

Miss Clare Felker in 1899 made a yearly average of 99.9, the highest ever made by any girl at Lucy Cobb. This year she graduates with a yearly average of 99.76, the highest ever made by a senior at this school.

On next Tuesday night she will deliver the valedictory to the class of 1900.

A CHARMING BLOUSE.

Black and white, daintily employed in blouse waists, are always effective and stylish. This model is of white taffeta silk, covered with bands of black Mechlin insertion and strips of narrow black velvet ribbon. It is suitable for almost every occasion.

Macon Golfers To Play Here.

On next Saturday afternoon Macon's expert golf players will play with the experts of the Atlanta Golf Club, at the Piedmont Driving park. Unusual interest centers in the event, as the members of the Atlanta club are deeply interested in the game, and from time to time during the summer will have contests with experts from the various southern clubs.

Important Meetings.

The Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will meet this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A large attendance is urged, as this is the last meeting for the summer, and business of importance is to be transacted.

The Children of the Confederacy will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Woman's Club rooms. A large attendance is urged.

There will be a birthday party given at the residence of Captain W. A. Powell, No. 81 Walton street, Thursday afternoon and evening, by the ladies of committee No. 3 of the First Presbyterian church, for the benefit of the Barnett monument fund. Quite a pleasant time is anticipated, as a charming musical programme has been arranged.

A Compliment to Mrs. E. G. McCabe

The reception given by Mrs. Edward S. Munford yesterday afternoon was a compliment to Mrs. E. G. McCabe, the newly elected president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, and was one of the largest and most enjoyable entertainments of the year. Five hundred guests called between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock, and were most cordially received by the beautiful hostess, and the charming guest of honor.

As the guests entered the broad entrance hall, they were charmed by the luxurious flowers and foliage on all sides, the fresh odor of spring flowers adding fragrance to the beauty of effect. In the drawing room there was a wilderness of roses; these flowers in all colors being banked upon the mantels and cabinets and used in garlands on the mirrors and chandeliers. In the room adjoining nasturtiums in their bright and vivid colors filled bowls and vases, and in the spacious dining room beyond, there were all kinds of sweet peas. In pink and white they filled the bowls and vases on the cabinet, and the centerpiece of the table was composed of sweet peas.

In the sitting room across the hall field daisies were a lovely decoration.

Delicious refreshments were served in the course of the afternoon, the ices and cakes being in the flower shades of pink and white. The guests were served in the dining room and in the spacious verandas without.

Mrs. Munford and Mrs. McCabe were assisted in receiving their guests by the officers of the Atlanta Woman's Club, Mrs. James Jackson, Mrs. William King, and Mrs. W. P. Patillo. Assisting in the entertainment of the guests were Mrs. Fannie Keith Fort, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Mrs. J. S Raine, Mrs. John King Ottley, Miss Whaley and Miss. John C. Reid.

Mrs. Munford was strikingly handsome in a toilet of pale yellow liberty crepe made gracefully en train. The corsage had a bolero of duchesse point lace, and on one shoulder was a cluster of orchids. She carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Mrs. McCabe, the popular guest of honor, wore an elegant toilet of black satin duchesse, the corsage scintillating with jet sequins. There was a touch of real lace about the neck that completed the toilet.

Mrs. Fort wore a most becoming toilet of black thread lace over violet silk. The overdress had bands of violet satin ribbon running lengthwise upon it, and the corsage was composed of lace and ribbon.

Mrs. Joseph Raine's toilet was mignonette green silk, with overdress of white chiffon richly appliqued in black lace. Mrs. John King Ottley's toilet was a notably handsome one the material being pale blue and white striped satin. The seams of the princesse skirt were joined with a heading of lace, and the corsage had its yoke of lace, and finishing touch in pale rose panne velvet.

Among the many fair visitors notably charming was Mrs. Walton Lamar in an airy gown of white organdie, lace trimmed, and sash and collar of pale blue. Mrs. Forrest Adair was handsome in an afternoon toilet of rose colored foulard silk, with trimmings of lace.

Mrs. E. L. Connally wore an elegant gown of pale gray silk, with trimmings of duchesse lace.

Social Items.

Tuesday night Mr. Ulric Atkinson gave a most enjoyable dinner at the Capital City Club in compliment to Miss Lockett, of New York. The table decorations were of sweet pea blossoms, and the menu served was delicious. Those invited by Mr. Atkinson to meet Miss Lockett were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Miss Augusta Thompson, Miss Jennie English, Miss Marion May, Dr. Virgil O. Hardon, Mr. R. F. Shedden and Mr. Gordon Kiser.

Mrs. Robert Ridley entertained a party of ladies at whist this morning.

The Wednesday Morning Whist Club met yesterday.

Mrs. Lee Jordan, of Macon, will be among the popular and attractive Georgia women to spend the early part of the summer at Warm Springs.

Mrs. Julien Field and Mrs. Annie Raine Mynatt have returned from a visit to Macon.

The many friends in Georgia of Mrs. Frank Inman will be glad to learn that she will return to this country in June, and be the guest for several weeks of her father, Judge Seaborn Reese, of Sparta, Ga.

Miss Isabel Block has returned from a visit to Macon.

Dr. Robert Ridley left yesterday morning for a visit to Louisville.

Miss Josie Stockdell will spend the month of August at Asheville.

Mr. Sidney Houser is visiting in Colorado, and will be joined there later by Mrs. Houser.

Mrs. Nellie Peters Black and Misses Neta and Louise Black will spend part of the summer at the Peters farm near Calhoun, Ga.

The friends of Mrs. W. C. Glenn will regret to learn of her illness.

Mr. John Clark is in New York city.

Captain and Mrs. John J. Woodside, who are visiting friends and relatives in Louisville and Cincinnati, are expected home early next week.

The marriage of Miss Evalena M. Robinson and Mr. Robert W. Clark was quietly solemnized at St. Luke's church, corner North Pryor and Houston streets, yesterday at 2 p. m. The bride is from Auburn, N. Y., and the bridegroom is from Northfield, Minn. They will make Auburn, Ala., their future home.

Mrs. J. W. Scully and the Misses Scully, of New Orleans, will arrive in Atlanta on Monday, and will spend the summer at their home on Angier avenue.

The many friends of Rev. F. M. Haygood will be pained to know that he has been confined at his home, 109 Woodward avenue, for the last week, and is still quite feeble.

Dr. F. M. Young and wife, of this city, have been visiting Lookout Mountain the past few days.

Mrs. E. P. McBurney entertained delightfully at luncheon yesterday in compliment to Mrs. Julia Knight McKinlock.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Munford entertained delightfully at cards in honor of the Tuesday Afternoon Euchre Club, the guests of honor being the husbands of the club members. The decorations of the house were of pink and white sweet peas. The refreshments were delicious and the prizes unique and elegant. Mr. and Mrs. Munford entertained with hospitable grace, their party last evening being one of the most delightful of the season. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Grant Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. George Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. Colquitt Carter, Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Allen McCarron, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Richy Peeples, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Nicolson, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Neal, Mrs. Florine Holt, Dr. Pinckney, Mrs. John Ruse, Mrs. John K. Ottley, Mr. Eugene Ottley, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Orr, Mrs. George Traylor, Major J. M. Cooper, Mr. George Speer, Mrs. Charles Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. DuBose, Dr. J. S. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Smith, Mrs. W. B. Wiehl, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Carson.

It will be of interest to their many friends here to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calhoun, formerly of Atlanta, but now of Cleveland, O., will return to New York the 2d of June after a delightful winter spent abroad.

The young ladies of the Baptist Missionary Society of Decatur will give an ice cream festival on the church lawn in Decatur next Friday afternoon and evening. The proceeds obtained will go to the Baptist orphans' home at College Park. The public is most cordially invited to be present.

Mr. Paul Klein left yesterday for Cincinnati to visit his parents for several weeks.

Mrs. Charles Stillwell Robison, of Birmingham, is visiting here for a few days and is the guest of Rev. W. F. Robison and wife, at Copenhill.

Miss Lucy Mallory, daughter of Judge George Mallory, of Lawrenceville, Va., is visiting Miss Junia McKinley.

Mrs. Fitzhugh Knox has returned from a visit to Richmond and Warrenton, Va.

Mr. A. A. DeLoach has just returned from a week's trip to the coast, where he was the guest of Colonel D. B. Lester, of Savannah, at his summer home.

The first car ride of the season given by the P. D. D. Club will take place tomorrow evening. The party will meet at the corner of Peachtree and Forrest avenue at 8 o'clock, will pass Broad and Marietta streets at 9 o'clock. The chaperones are composed of four of the best known couples of the city and the affair promises to be a most delightful occasion.

This will be ladies' evening at the Colonial Club. Wurm's orchestra will furnish the music and a large crowd of the society set will no doubt be present.

Mr. Joseph E. McCollough will spend some time in Montgomery, Ala.

Mr. Sig Reginstein has returned, after spending a few days in New York city.

Silver.

There is one point on which partisans of every affiliation are agreed, and that is the useful and ornamental value of silver when made into convenient pieces for table use.

Our stock of silverware is a magnificent collection—a worthy representation of the best art of the silversmith. We show special wedding gifts. Silverware in new designs.

PURE ICE CREAM.

Mr. Wiley, the Candy Man, Has Opened an Ice Cream Factory.

It will be gratifying to the people of Atlanta to know that Mr. Wiley, the candy man, who has made such a great reputation in handling superior products for the past few years, has established an ice cream factory at No. 5 North Broad street. There he has fitted up an elegant office where orders may be left, or if you prefer you can leave your orders at No. 8 Marietta street at his candy establishment in Jacobs' pharmacy.

Mr. Wiley has put up the latest and best machinery for making ices and creams of all kinds. He has arranged for the purest and best cream that can be found anywhere, and when you send your orders to him you are sure of the very best that can be made.

Mr. Wiley is well and favorably known as a manufacturer of the best candies, and now that he has gone into the ice cream business, you may rest assured that he will maintain the high standard that he has assumed. He will send creams to any part of the city at any hour. His telephone number Standard or Bell is 111. The weather is getting hot, and it is going to get a lot hotter, and you want to keep cool, so send him in an order, it will make you feel good and make him feel better.

Going Away This Summer?

Where to go—the price of board—What it will cost to go there.

The schedules—the through car service, in fact, all about your summer outing may be obtained by writing or calling for copies of the Southern Railway "Summer Homes," The Land of the Sky," "The Sapphire Country," "The Seashore Resorts," "The Nearby Resorts."

WEEK WAS VERY FAVORABLE

Farmers Were Favored by Weather Conditions During Week.

BIG FRUIT YIELD EXPECTED

According to the Weekly Crop Bulletin Farmers Will Have Successful Year in Georgia.

The past week was in general highly favorable to crops and all farming interests, the only detrimental feature being perhaps the prevalence of rather cool nights for the season. The effect of the cool weather was to retard cotton growth, but as the season is so early, there is not much likelihood of permanent injury to this crop. The drought conditions which have prevailed to a greater or lesser extent for a few weeks were almost effectually broken over the entire state by copious rains, beginning on the 23d and continuing in many sections until the 26th. Growing crops were much improved by the rains and are now coming forward vigorously, having been well worked during the week. There is some complaint of scarcity of labor in southern sections. Chopping of early cotton is progressing favorably in the north and is completed in some of the central counties; the stands are on the whole regarded as good. Late cotton has been improved by the moisture and is coming up nicely. Harvesting of oats and what is progressing in numerous middle and southern counties, with generally good yields. Wheat is ripening also in a few northern counties. The conditions have been favorable for setting sweet potato slips, and much was accomplished in this line. Corn is tasseling in the far south and in some fields in Lowndes county ears are appearing. Sugar cane and melons are doing well; young melons are beginning to form in Coffee county. In the rice belt, the crop is about all planted and is doing fairly well. A large crop of blackberries is indicated. Small shipments of peaches were made from the southern counties during the week; in many sections the fruit is shedding badly, but an abundant yield is expected. Apples continue in poor shape, and a failure is anticipated. Complaint of injury to white potatoes by bugs continues. Pasturage has improved and gardens have been revived by the rains.

Northern Section.

Bartow—Cotton chopping progressing fairly well; plowing corn second time; early wheat good, late wheat poor.

Cherokee—Late cotton coming up well, early being chopped to a stand; low land corn about planted; berries plentiful.

Cobb—Cotton chopping progressing rapidly; wheat ripening; late corn doing finely; gardens excellent.

Dawson—Sweet potatoes set generally; wheat doing well; a little too cool for cotton; peaches shedding.

Fannin—Corn being worked; bugs injuring potatoes; tobacco and sweet potatoes set; peaches and apples plentiful.

Floyd—Average stands of corn and cotton; pastures coming out fast; many potato slips set; oats improving.

Franklin—Cotton coming up since the rain, stands not perfect, chopping well advanced; peaches shedding.

Fulton—Good stands of cotton; early vegetables plentiful.

Gilmer—Week favorable: corn beans, potatoes, etc., growing nicely; heavy crop of berries.

Gordon—Corn being worked; corn yet to plant; but little cotton chopped; fine weather for setting tobacco and potatoes.

Hall—Good stands of corn and cotton; wheat good in some places; melons beginning to run; potato slips set.

Hart—Late cotton coming up nicely, early good stands and being chopped; corn growing nicely; wheat ripening.

Jackson—Good stands of corn and cotton; sorghum sowed for forage; peaches dropping badly; apples poor; wheat heading.

Lincoln—Cotton planting closed; bottom planting of corn about finished; wheat injured by rust.

Lumpkin—Bugs injuring white potatoes; corn and small grain and gardens doing well; sweet potatoes set.

Paulding—Cotton generally good stands, some chopped; corn not all planted, some plowed; grapes and peaches fine; apples scarce; wheat looks well; white potatoes good.

Middle Section.

Baldwin—Fine rains guarantee wheat and oats crop; all other crops growing rapidly, with improvement in gardens.

Bulloch—Oat harvesting in progress, good crop; gardens doing nicely; all crops doing fairly well.

Burke—Corn and cotton doing well, chopping about completed; wheat yellow and ripening prematurely; oats ripening.

Butts—Cotton chopping progressing rapidly; corn plowed second time; wheat nearly ready for harvest; oats good.

Campbell—Cotton, corn, wheat, pastures and gardens doing well; cotton chopping progressing; oats heading.

Carroll—Cotton small, stands bad on red lands, not much chopped; corn late, but good stands; wheat ripening.

Columbia—Poor stands of cotton in places; corn small; wheat badly rusted; fruit shedding badly.

Emanuel—Crops generally grassy, but in good growing condition; some cotton yet to chop; potatoes and corn doing well.

Haralson—Corn and cotton small, but looking well; many cabbage and potato slips set; oats damaged by drought.

Harris—Corn doing well; too cool for cotton.

Jefferson—Corn made rapid growth; cotton retarded by cold nights; some fields grassy, chopping nearly done.

Johnson—Cotton not all chopped; cane looking well; oats not looking as good as expected; corn and gardens growing nicely.

Jones—Oats in full head; cotton all chopped; wheat turning.

Laurens—Corn mostly all plowed second time; garden truck doing well except cabbages; many potato draws set.

Macon—Corn, cotton cantaloupes and gardens doing finely; some complaint of grass in cotton; fruit crop excellent.

Meriwether—Most all of cotton chopped; wheat and corn fine.

Monroe—Late cotton not up well; wheat ready to cut; fair yield; corn small and pail; oats only fair.

Oglethorpe—Cool nights not good for cotton; general rains have benefited all crops.

Richmond—Very good stands of cane; cool nights affecting cotton unfavorably; wheat taking rust; apples few.

Rockdale—Complaint of shedding of peaches; good progress in cultivating crops; week cool and showery.

Screven—Cotton about all chopped; pears and apples blighted.

Spalding—Corn and cotton doing well; good stands; wheat nearly ripe; apples badly blighted; peach trees full of fruit.

Talbot—Corn and cotton small; melons blooming.

Troup—Corn plowed second time; also some cotton; berry crop fine; fair yield of wheat indicated; few oats.

Washington—Wheat nearly ready to cut; cotton all chopped and corn worked; oats fair; rye rusting.

Southern Section.

Appling—Good rains have improved crops; oats ready to cut; peaches good, but dropping; no apples; blackberries plentiful; cotton not looking well; worms damaging corn.

Berrian—Crops in good condition; oats about ready to cut; cotton and corn doing very well; peach crop promising.

Brooks—Growing crops much improved by recent rains; peaches plentiful; some corn silking; sweet potatoes very good.

Calhoun—Growing crops doing nicely; cotton chopping about completed; oat harvest in progress; farmers well up with work.

Chatham—Some oats being harvested; bugs destroying Irish potatoes; heavy rains on 23d, 24th and 25th did some damage.

Clay—Fine rains have fallen; corn small but has fine color and is doing well; lice have attacked cotton in some sections; gardens flourishing.

Coffee—Oats ripening; sugar cane and potatoes are very good; berries and peaches are fine; young melons beginning to form.

Colquitt—Good rains on 23d and 24th have greatly improved growing crops; oats are heading and gardens are looking much better; potato slips being set; fine prospects for fruit.

Decatur—Good rains during the week have been very beneficial to growing crops; oats ripening; fruit plentiful; blackberries beginning to ripen.

Dooly—Cotton chopping completed; oats are very good; corn and sugar cane are doing nicely; there will be but few apples.

Liberty—Very little work accomplished this week; lands very wet, lowlands are still flooded in some sections.

Lowndes—Corn is tasseling, in some fields ears are appearing; cotton looking well, about ready to blossom in some places; tomatoes beginning to ripen.

McIntosh—Too much rain; rice about all planted and doing well; other crops and gardens are good but grassy; pastures are excellent.

Mitchell—Crops well worked and in good growing condition; peaches and blackberries plentiful; early oats being harvested.

Sumter—Harvesting wheat and oats in some places; cotton chopping slow; labor scarce; fall oats fair crop.

Stewart—Crops well worked, though there is some scarcity of labor; some peaches will be shipped coming week.

Tattnall—Oat cutting going on; fruit promising; some cotton is very fine; all crops improving.

S. P. RICHARDS TELLS OF ECLIPSE OF 1865

S. P. Richards, who saw the annular eclipse of 1865, and who visited Barnesville on Monday for the purpose of witnessing the recent eclipse from that place, makes an interesting comparison between the two events.

"The annular eclipse of 1865," he said, "was thirty-five years ago and my remembrances are a little dimmed in regard to the actual appearance, but as far as attending circumstances are concerned there was not a great difference between it and the eclipse on Monday.

"The sun was higher in the sky, as it was about 11 o'clock in the morning, and as the moon's shadow crept slowly (to our view) over the body of the sun, it seemed as if it would cover it completely, but the moon was too far away for this, and a perfect ring of light was left around the dark body of the moon, which was as beautiful and striking as the total eclipse. The same peculiar effect of the darkening heavens as of yesterday, the same decrease of temperature, the same weird appearance of natural objects, the same curved shadows. But one great difference was that at no time during the 1865 eclipse could the smoked glass be dispensed with, whereas during totality they were worse than useless.

"The bright circle around the dark body of the moon in 1865 was not the silver corona of yesterday, but the light of it was the yellow golden light of the sun's encircling rim. I had no chickens in 1865 and cannot say whether or no they went to roost, but Dr. Taylor, of the orphans' home, tells me that yesterday he saw an old hen taking her brood in. The desolate look of Atlanta in 1865 may well have incited feelings of apprehension at the unusual darkness, but I do not recollect feeling at all alarmed.

"One thing in the late eclipse far exceeds that of 1865. As we stood on the higher ground of the Barnesville cemetery, which commanded an extensive scope of surrounding country, just before the total moment very dark and protentous shadows appeared in the western horizon and a sense of the awful sublimity of the grandeur and power of nature's God took possession of our minds.

"All suddenly the planet Mercury shone out about the apparent distance of three or four discs of the sun from that orb, and I guess that those who saw that planet then saw it as I did, for the first time in my life, as its orbit is so close to the sun that it is never to be seen without effort and at particular seasons of the year. Apart from the splendid view of the of the eclipse the unexpected visit to this shy star repaid me for my trip to Barnesville.

PROF. BRITTAIN WILL TEACH.

Will Demonstrate His Methods Before Sunday School Association.

The Atlanta Baptist Sunday School Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Fifth Baptist church next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. At this meeting Professor M. L. Brittain, one of the most successful Sunday school teachers of the city, will give a practical demonstration of his method of instruction by teaching a class before the association. He will teach the lesson for the following Sunday. Professor Brittain, as teacher of a Bible class, has ways peculiarly his own, which have made him the successful teacher that he is. The association will be given the benefit of his experience and attainments.

This will be one of the most practical sessions of the association yet held, and no Sunday school worker can afford to be absent. Everybody is invited.

MAYFIELDS WANT DAMAGES.

Both Father and Son File Damage Suits Against Railroad Company Aggregating $16,500.

Three damage suits, aggregating $16,500, were filed yesterday in the city court against the Southern Railway Company by E. M. and J. B. Mayfield. The petitions allege that the plaintiffs were seriously injured on the day of the eclipse by being struck by a large piece of timber, which, they say, was thrown into the road by a freight train.

E. M. Mayfield sues for $5,000 for alleged personal injury and $1,500 for loss of service of his son, who, it is averred, was also injured at the same time. J. B. Mayfield, a minor sixteen years old, by next friend, sues for $10,000 damages, charging that he received personal injuries.

Father and son are represented by Attorney P. F. Smith. The petitions, which are practically alike, set forth that the two Mayfields were walking along by the tracks of the railroad company, when a freight train running by struck a heavy piece of timber projecting over the tracks and threw it into the road. They charge that they were struck by the missile and received painful and serious injuries.

NOTICE BRIDGE CONTRACTORS

The contract to furnish material and labor, and to build the bridge across the Chattahoochee river between Fulton and Cobb counties, at Roswell, Ga., and known as the Roswell bridge, and to furnish material and repair and add to the piers of the same, will be let at public outcry at the said bridge on Saturday, the 30th day of June, next at 12 m. The bridge is to be a covered wooden lattice bridge, double track, built on the old or present piers. The bridge is 593 feet long, consisting of six spans, ranging from 78 feet to 124 feet in length per span. Is to be built of good sound yellow pine lumber, as designated in specifications, and painted with two coats of paint, all of which is fully set out and described in plans and specifications, which can be seen at the office of the commissioners of roads and revenues of Fulton county, at Atlanta, Ga., and at the office of the ordinary of Cobb county, at Marietta, Ga.

Payments for the work, including material, to be made in cash from time to time as the work progresses on estimates made by the chairman of the commissioners of Fulton county and the ordinary of Cobb county, of the work done, including material, less 25 per cent, and on the completion and acceptance of the work the balance to be paid in cash. The bidders must file with the said authorities of said Fulton and Cobb counties, and payable to them, their certified checks in the amount of $250 each as a guarantee that the bidder to whom the contract is awarded will, within ten days after the said award, file his bond as the law requires for the faithful performance of the same, and on his failure to do this the said check is to be forfeited to the said counties of Fulton and Cobb as damages. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Atlanta, Ga., May 10, 1900.—Petition to change a private way into a public road, beginning at Simpson street, and being a continuation of Chapel avenue, extending northwardly until it meets with the Freedman's college road on the property of John T. Akridge, thence following the Freedman's college road to within 540 feet of Mayson and Turner's ferry road and thence due north 540 feet to Mayson and Turner's ferry road. The last 540 feet has been worked out and straightened at expense of property holders. The road to be forty feet wide. Also to abandon the old roadway through the G. W. Akridge property, now owned by Perry Andrews, filed January 3d, and a favorable report having been received from the district road commissioners of the 460th district, G. M., and the committee on roads and bridges. This is to notify all persons that the petition will be finally granted at the meeting of the board to be held on Wednesday, the 6th day of June, 1900, if no good cause to the contrary is shown.

E. B. ROSSER, Chairman.
